The New-York Times.

VOL. XXI.....NO. 6335. NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1872. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

THE FISK MURDER.

Impesing and Elaborate Funeral Services Yesterday.

The Body Laid in State in the Grand Opera-House.

A Great Crowd of People View the Remains.

Military Honors Accorded the Victim.

Commencement of the Coroner's Investigation.

Shrewd Line of Defense Hinted at by Stokes' Counsel.

THE FUNERAL.

An Immense Crowd and Striking Ceremonies—The Lying in State at the Grand Opera-House—Military Honors Paid to the Remains—The Procession and Departure of the Cortege.

The funeral ceremonies over the body of the late JAMES FISK, Jr., yesterday, attracted one of the largest crowds ever assembled together in this City. The extraordinary circumstances surrounding the tragedy, coupled with the notoriety of the principals, gave to yesterday's events an interest which otherwise would not attach itself to the obsequies of a man like the deceased. Many were, of course, present in hopes of gratifying a morbid curiosity so frequently manifested on such occasions. Despite the crowd and press of people, everything passed off quietly and with decorum.

When it became known that the murdered man's remains would lie in state at the Grand Opera-house, the vestibule of the offices of the Erie Railway Company was soon crowded with sight-seers representing every grade of society, anxious to get a glimpse of all that remained of a man whose history had been so remarkable. At his late residence a large concourse of people also gathered in consequence of an impression that the service would take place there previous to the removal of the body to the Opera-house, but on being informed by the Police that such would not be the case they quietly moved away, leaving the house deserted, save by a few knowing ones who hoped to catch a sight of the body as it was brought out, for in the hall of the house a temporary bier had been erected, and there the coffin, which was covered with beautiful flowers woven into various emblems, was stationed till it was removed to the Opera-house, and it was there the body was viewed by Coroner YOUNG and the jury.

AT THE GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

Here the scene was one long to be remembered. The stoops of the houses in the immediate vicinity of Twenty-third-street and Eighth-avenue were crowded, chiefly by ladies, the majority of whom were attired in semi-mourning, while the array of gentlemen dressed in sombre costumes, and the subdued voices and decorous behavior of all present, was a good indication that they had been gathered together by something more than a mere morbid curiosity. Every window commanding a view of the Opera-house was also occupied, while the street Arabs mounted lamp-posts and wagons to compensate themselves for the shortness of their stature. At 9½ the crowd was so great that hundreds must have been unable to see anything, except the moving mass of heads all around. Over the Grand Opera-house, floated at half-mast the national ensign. In the interior of the building is an immense hall completely surrounded by a large gallery, the private offices of the Erie Railway Company being at one end. The front of this gallery was festooned with black and white muslin, caught up at intervals with black and white satin rosettes, while over the entrance to the private office there was a handsomely-framed, engraved portrait of the deceased in his full regimentals, as Colonel of the Ninth Regiment, around which was festooned an American flag, while on each side hung the flag of the Ninth. The gilding and the carving on the galleries was also effectually concealed, hidden the gold branches of the chandelier, all of which added to impart a deeper shade to the prevailing gloom. JAY GOULD and three of the Erie Directors were in their office, the former engaged in directing the ceremonies. In the morning the Directors met and passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we, the members of this Board, have heard with the deepest regret of the death of our fellow-director and associate, JAMES FISK, Jr., who, in the full vigor of his life and without a moment's warning, has fallen by the hand of an assassin.

Resolved, That we will cherish forever the memory of our associate for his untiring efforts to make the railway of this Company a model property, and for the life, for which it was created, for his remarkable executive ability, for his unselfish devotion to his friends, for his unostentatious but munificent charities, and for his generous and manly nature, which endeared him to his associates and to all the officers and employes of the Company.

Resolved, That in token of our respect, we will pay follow his body from his late residence to the railway station, and a Committee of this Board will then accompany it to its last resting place in his native State.

Resolved, That we offer our respectful condolence to the widow and family of the deceased, assuring them of our profound sympathy with them in their loss—and of our confident belief that when the truth respecting his administration of the affairs of the Company shall be fully known, the memory of our departed friend will be vindicated and the cloud of calumny that has surrounded his name will be forever dispersed.

The Committee consisted of JOHN HILTON, HENRY THOMPSON and Dr. ELDRIDGE.

The officers of the Ninth assembled in the hall soon after 10 o'clock, attired in full uniform, wearing the accustomed crape on the left arm and the hilt of the sword. The rest of the command formed in Twenty-third-street, the regiment being the guard of honor. According to the original programme the mounted procession was to have started at 11 o'clock, but it was delayed some time. Long before that hour the wives of the Directors and principal officers began to arrive, as well as many other ladies, who had been able to procure admission. All were dressed in deep mourning, and many were in tears. Prominent among these were Miss MCMANN and her brother, the former weeping bitterly. Some surprise was expressed by many at the gaudy color which was so general, for it seemed to be from no desire for outward show, but simply a token of honest grief. The men of the Ninth, especially, evidently felt the deprivation very much. They spoke of the deceased with a tenderness which at times was touching.

ARRIVAL OF THE BODY.

At 11¼ o'clock there was a sudden movement among the crowd in the Erie Building, and the body of Col. FISK was borne to the bier prepared for its reception, by the following gentlemen belonging to the Ninth Regiment, Adj. ALLINE, Lieut. W. P. MONTGOMERY, JOHN H. WOOD, EDWARD W. BOWLEND, GEORGE A. HUMPHREY, ALONZO P. BACON and GEO. W. PALMER, who were alspecial committee to take charge of the body until it should arrive at the depot for transportation to Brattleboro. They also formed a guard of honor while the body was lying in state. As it was borne through the crowd there was a stillness as of death. The military had formed in line on both sides of the street, and stood with presented arms from the time the remains had left the house until it entered the hall of the Opera-house. Every head in the crowd was uncovered, and although among those who were farthest off there was a pressing forward and a straining to catch a sight of the coffin, there was nothing unseemly or rude.

The catafalque was reserved at the top of the stairs by Col. BRAINE and other officers of the Ninth, and placed in the centre of the vestibule, resting on a rich velvet pall, on which rested crowns, crosses and other devices, composed of tube-roses and camellias, while beautiful lilies were scattered over the corpse, which was stretched in full regimentals, the cap and sword resting on the body. The face with the exception of its pallor, was unchanged, and no one unless knowing the circumstances would have believed that FISK had died a violent death. The position of the head increased somewhat the always massive proportions of the lower jaw, but in other respects the face was that of a man asleep. The body was contained in a handsome rosewood casket, with gold-plated handles and a splendid plate bearing the inscription:

JAMES FISK, Jr.,
Died Jan. 7, 1872,
In the 37th year
of his age.

When the body had been arranged the undertaker took his place at the head of the bier. Lieut.-Col. BRAINE and officers of the Ninth acting as a guard of honor. Among others conspicuous around the catafalque were Judge Spencer, of the Superior Court; Mr. Jay Gould, Mr. Archer, Mr. Tull, Dr. Eldridge, Mr. Sherwood, the Messrs. Fields, Thomas D. Sherman, Mr. Beach, Dr. Simmons, Mr. Belton, Mr. Bach, Mr. Harlay, Mr. Ramsell, Director Erie Railway; Mr. John S. Peck, Mr. Blanchard, General Superintendent Erie Railway; Mr. Barr, Passenger Superintendent Erie Railway; Mr. A. Lane, Counsel to Erie Railway Company; Mr. Henry Thompson, and Ex-Judge Fullerton.

THE LYING IN STATE.

The public were now admitted to view the body. Entering by the Twenty-third-street entrance, the spectators filed in a long line past the casket, and passing through the building, left by the door opening on Eighth-avenue. Among the first to take the last look at the dead were several ladies professionally connected with the Grand Opera-house. Their grief seemed almost uncontrollable. Many of those who followed in the continuous line were also in tears, and all were reverent. One man who, it was said, had been the Colonel's barber, reverently placed one hand on the dead man's brow, and with the other gently twisted the dead man's moustache. He, too, was plainly in deep grief. The "lying in state" continued till 1 o'clock, and at that hour the funeral services began in the presence of the Erie directors, the officers of the Ninth Regiment and the personal friends of the deceased, some occupying seats around the coffin, while others stood in groups around the hall.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES.

The Episcopal burial service was read by Chaplain FLAGG, of the Ninth Regiment. In the midst of the prayers, the wife, mother and sister were brought and seated near the catafalque. They were evidently in deep sorrow, and as their sobs and sighs broke forth, the scene was a most affecting one. The Chaplain concluded the service by announcing that the funeral exercises would be concluded to-morrow at Brattleboro. The relatives then advanced to take their last look at the body, the ladies bending over and kissing the lips of the deceased. The Ninth Regiment Band, the Liederkranz Verein, the officers of the Third Brigade, and the entire Ninth Regiment, then filed through the hall, taking a hasty look at the body and departed by the eastern entrance. At this point the persons belonging to the Narragansett Steam-ship Company's steamers arrived, under the escort of a body of Police, and with some difficulty made their way to the vestibule and appeared to be deeply impressed by the sublime spectacle.

At a few minutes before 2 o'clock the coffin was closed, draped with the American flag, and was then borne by the guard of honor to the hearse, the following gentlemen acting as pall-bearers:

Col. EDWARD CLARK, Seventh Regiment.
Col. GEO. D. SCOTT, Eighth Regiment.
Col. WM. E. ALLEN, Fifty-fifth Regiment.
Col. FRANK STOREY, Sixth Regiment.
Col. JOSIAH PORTER, Twenty-second Regiment.
Lieut.-Col. A. P. WEBSTER, First Regiment.

On reaching the hearse, which awaited it in Twenty-third-street, the body was placed in its position, and the pall-bearers stood beside the hearse, the Erie directors and the officers of the Ninth preceding it, while the officers of the Third Brigade followed. The Ninth Regiment was drawn up in line on the south side of Twenty-third-street, the right resting on Eighth-avenue. As the coffin was brought into the street, the band, assisted by the Liederkranz Verein, played a solemn dirge.

THE PROCESSION.

At 2 o'clock the procession started from the Grand Opera-house. At the point of the proceedings the scene was a most impressive one. Every available spot from which the procession could be viewed was occupied, while the solemn stillness that prevailed added to its solemnity. Most of the stores in Eighth-avenue were closed, and the blinds in the private houses in Twenty-third-street were generally drawn, and small flags draped with crape floated from the telegraph and lamp poles. The following was the order of the procession:

First came a body of Police one hundred strong, then the Band of the Ninth Regiment, playing "The Dead March in Saul." After the band came a large number of persons in the employ of the Erie Railroad, wearing badges of crape on their left arm. Next followed the Veteran Corps of the regiment, Lieut.-Col. BRAINE and Staff, and the other officers of the Ninth. Then came the Ninth Regiment in full force, marching in triple line and presenting a splendid appearance. Next followed the hearse containing the corpse and drawn by four black horses, richly caparisoned. Following it was Col. FISK's favorite charger, a splendid black horse, led by a tall, colored groom, and, in accordance with military precedent, a pair of spurred boots were inserted in the stirrups of the empty saddle, with the toes turned backward. The officers of the Third Brigade and another detachment of Erie officials followed, and finally came the carriages, extending nearly a quarter of a mile in line. In the first was JAY GOULD, President of the Erie Railroad; then came FREDERICK A. LANE, MORTIMER SMITH and others prominently connected with the great railroad. After these came the carriages of the private friends of the deceased.

The column moved through Twenty-third-street and Fifth-avenue to the New-Haven Depot, in Twenty-seventh-street, where the remains were placed on board the cars for conveyance to Brattleboro'. The whole route was thronged with spectators, who seemed deeply impressed by the spectacle. Fifth-avenue presented a striking appearance, the decorations of that neighborhood filling all the windows, balconies, and door-steps. On the procession arriving at the corner of Madison-avenue and Twenty-sixth-street, the Ninth formed into two lines, and the coffin passed between them. The remains were then placed in a special car, specially prepared for them, and the wife, mother, and sister of the deceased were escorted to the car assigned them by Capt. FULLER. The officers of the Ninth, the Erie Committee and the friends of the deceased filled the remaining cars of the train, which was heavily draped both inside and outside, with crape. It left shortly after sixth hour for Boston, and was watched with eager eyes till it was out of sight. The procession then reformed, the carriages and the carriages going home, the Ninth Regiment marching to its armory, where it was quietly dismissed.

And thus passed from sight the mortal remains of one who might have been a vast power for good, had he made use of the glorious opportunities vouchsafed to him. Doubtless he had noble qualities, but they were hidden from the eyes of men, while his vices seemed to be on every man's lips.

THE INQUEST.

Swearing-In the Jury and Viewing the Body—Singular Line of Business Were Shadowed—Examination of the Coachman and the Hotel Porters.

The jury in the case of the late JAMES FISK, Jr., were called together by Coroner YOUNG, yesterday morning, and met at the Erie Railroad office, where they were sworn by him. The late residence of the deceased, No. 313 West Twenty-third-street was next visited, where the body of the murdered man was viewed by the jury. The Coroner having made arrangements for the use of the Court of Sessions, the inquest be gan there at 3 P. M. As it was not generally known that the inquest would take place at the Tombs the number of spectators was not very large. The only precautions that had been taken to prevent the carrying out of any of the rumored threats against the life of STOKES was the keeping of the off platoon of the Sixth Precinct Police in reserve at the Station-house near by in Franklin-street. A few minutes before 3 o'clock the jurors began dropping in, and punctual to the minute Mr. JOHN GRAHAM, JOHN MCKEON and WILLARD BARTLETT, counsel for the prisoner, arrived. Ex-Judge FULLERTON, CHARLES S. SPENCER, and Mr. BRADY appeared on the part of the friends of the victim. Assistant District-Attorney SULLIVAN was also present in behalf of the people. The jurors were adjacent to the witness-stand.

As soon as the preliminaries were arranged Coroner YOUNG directed Capt. BYRNES to bring in the prisoner. A few minutes of suspense elapsed, the prison door opened and STOKES appeared.

A marked silence fell on all present while the accused walked to the seat pointed out to him. He was fashionably dressed, as usual with him. He looked nervous and dejected, and at a little to the rear and between Mr. GRAHAM and McKEON, kept his body bent over, and listened to the examination of witnesses with close attention. Occasionally, when some vital or curious point was given in the testimony, he would raise his head, make a movement as though he would like to interrupt the witness. He would then turn to his counsel with a painful smile upon his face, and again bow his head to listen to the evidence that tended to prove him a murderer.

Coroner YOUNG then addressed the jury as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: You have already been charged by me that you are to make a true inquest into the cause of the death of JAMES FISK, Jr. I do not propose in any anything to you in regard to the merits of this case, one way or the other, nor to reiterate what I told you the morning. I will proceed directly to elicit evidence, and only ask that you will give that evidence the attention it demands.

Mr. JOHN GRAHAM then said: Before your Honor commences with the investigation I would like to make some remarks; because, when you have concluded, it will be deemed irregular for counsel to speak. There seems to be a determination in certain quarters to infect the atmosphere of this court-room with a murderous feeling in regard to this case.

Coroner YOUNG—Does the gentleman propose to argue a point?

Mr. GRAHAM—I propose to submit two legal questions.

Coroner YOUNG remarked that on the inquests after the July riots he had refused Mr. MEANY the right to interfere in the proceedings, and must do the same now.

Mr. GRAHAM—I want to submit two legal points. As a citizen I have a right to come here and see that you conduct this investigation before a jury. It was easy for friends to come around and conceal any evidence of violence that might have been made by the unfortunate deceased at the time of his shooting. Mr. GRAHAM then read the statute making it unlawful for any person except the Coroner to willfully touch the body of any person found dead, about the cause of whose death there are any reasonable grounds for suspicion of murder. The penalty for an infraction of this law was one year's imprisonment or a fine of $500, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

Coroner YOUNG said that the jury had been regularly summoned and sworn to hear the testimony, and would render a verdict according to the testimony given. He did not propose to inquire into the merits of the case.

Mr. GRAHAM—I ask you to put before this jury evidence relating to the condition of Mr. FISK's body from the very time that he sustained the injury down to the time of his death.

A brief argument then ensued between Mr. GRAHAM and the Coroner, and it was soon evident that Mr. GRAHAM was trying to commence the defense of his client before the Coroner's Jury.

JOHN T. REDMOND, a porter of the Grand Central Hotel, who saw the shooting, was the first witness examined. His story, in brief, was as follows: At about 4 o'clock Mr. STOKES entered the hotel while he, witness, was standing on duty at the door of the ladies' entrance; Mr. BROOKS accended the stairs, and about ten minutes afterward Mr. FISK's carriage drove up; Mr. FISK asked if Mr. MOSS was in; witness told him that she was not; Mr. FISK then asked if her daughter was in, and if he would go upstairs and see. The witness did not go upstairs, but in a few minutes Mr. FISK was in her grandmother's room; Mr. FISK started to go upstairs and witness then heard the first shot fired, and Mr. FISK cry, "Oh!" the second shot was then fired, and heard by the witness, and Mr. FISK fell down about six steps; he got up and walked to the base of the stairs, turned around and looked up to see if Mr. STOKES was there; Mr. FISK then walked upstairs and was helped by some gentleman to enter the reception-room; witness saw no more until Mr. STOKES was recognized by Mr. FISK. The witness was then cross-examined by the Coroner as follows:

Q.—He looked up and saw Mr. STOKES?

WITNESS—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Where was Mr. STOKES standing? A.—He was standing at the head of the stairs.

Q.—Did Mr. STOKES have anything in his hand? A.—Yes, Sir; he had.

Q.—Did you notice what it was? A.—I did not.

Q.—What did Mr. STOKES say to you? A.—Not a word passed between us.

Q.—Have you told us all you know about it? A.—Yes, all that I know about it.

Q.—You say that you saw Mr. FISK look upstairs to see if Mr. STOKES was there or not? A.—I did not say that.

Q.—I understood you to say so?

A.—I said that I looked up and saw Mr. STOKES.

The written testimony was here read.

Juror GRAHAM inquired if the Coroner's deputy was looking over his notes, remarked that everybody in the room had an undertaxed the witness.

Counsel was putting a question to the witness when the Coroner said if counsel had any questions to ask to put them in writing.

Mr. GRAHAM said that it was important to put these questions, in view of the present state of feeling in this case.

A motion for the employment of a stenographer to insure accuracy in the taking of the testimony was after some objection on the part of the Coroner, who doubted his authority to do so, agreed to.

Q.—Did you ever see Mr. STOKES before? A.—Never.

Q.—Where is Mr. STOKES?

He is here, was answered from the body of the Court.

CORONER.—I asked the witness.

Q.—You say the occurrence took place at about four o'clock; was there any light except what came from the windows? A.—Yes, Sir; from the gas.

Mr. GRAHAM—The gas was lighted, was it? A.—Some of the jets were burning.

Q.—From what direction did Mr. STOKES enter the hotel? I can't say; I did not see him until he entered.

Q.—What position did he stand in? (The witness stood up and took a position in illustrating.) "He left hand was on the banisters;" he did not see him until he heard the first shot fired; he was positive that there were only two shots; he saw three or four gentlemen enterne the reception-room; they went into room No. 215. Witness was asked again if he was in the room when STOKES was recognized by FISK, and again replied in the affirmative. Several other questions of an apparently unimportant character were put to the witness, when Mr. MCKEON, counsel for STOKES, suddenly asked who sent these questions up to the Coroner. The Coroner was about to explain, when Mr. GRAHAM, who had been corrected by the Coroner earlier in the proceedings for putting ambiguous questions, remarked indignantly that he had questions had not been put in an intelligible manner. They were either in the order of a solemn scene, and it was not right to muzzle him and call him to account for a verbal inaccuracy.

Mr. MCKEON repeated that he wanted to know what gentlemen were sending up questions, and appealed to District-Attorney SULLIVAN to know whether some of questions—evidently, at least, thought, in the interest of the prosecution—were not unwarranted.

Mr. SULLIVAN said that he would submit to any questions that were pertinent, and that would elicit such information as was required by the jury.

Mr. MCKEON charged Mr. FULLERTON, counsel for Mr. FISK's friends, with having put some of these questions. Mr. BRADY said that he had put two of the questions himself. He had no wish to obtrude in these proceedings. He appeared there as a citizen interested in the inquiry. He had been a friend of Mr. STOKES and knew him when STOKES and FISK were friends. He came there at the request of friends of Mr. FISK.

Mr. MCKEON and District-Attorney SULLIVAN had then a short argument in regard to the admissibility of certain questions. Mr. SULLIVAN explained some of the duties required of the jury. Mr. GRAHAM, in answer to the District-Attorney, said that in one of the papers there was a statement that STOKES would be tried and condemned in thirty days. Such a statement, he said, calculated to arouse a feeling dangerous to the prisoner's prospects. He was certain that when his client's side of the question should be heard, that a different feeling would prevail in the community. He believed that the sympathy would be on the other side and against the man who unfortunately came to his death.

The witness, after describing the gas-light at the head of the hotel staircase, and stating that its object was to light the staircase, was dismissed.

THOMAS HART was next called. He stated that he works at the Grand Central Hotel; about four o'clock he was going to work at cleaning the gas globes upstairs, while RAYMOND was below at the door; the stairs led to Broadway; Mr. FISK was coming upstairs about the time he referred to; he was not acquainted with Mr. FISK; he saw Mr. STOKES coming slowly along the hall at the first parlor at the left of the staircase; Mr. STOKES was alone, and walked hurriedly but stealthily, keeping close to the wall; he heard Mr. STOKES say, when he saw Mr. FISK, "Now I have got you," and heard FISK say "On, don't." Witness was standing six feet behind Mr. STOKES, and was looking right at him; two shots were fired in quick succession; he did not stop to assist Mr. FISK, but followed Mr. STOKES; Mr. STOKES had his overcoat unbuttoned, and carried his right hand in his overcoat pocket; as he passed the parlor, he threw something in the room; his eye was constantly on Mr. STOKES from the time that he first saw him at the parlor until the time that he saw him shoot Mr. FISK; he did not observe whether he had a cane in his hand or not. The witness was somewhat uncertain about the precise time of the occurrence; he did not see REDMOND there at the time; he had never had any conversation about what evidence he was to give with either Mr. STEDMAN or Ex-Judge FULLERTON; nobody had conversed with him about the case; he had not been interrogated by a reporter; he did not know that he was guilty in not giving an alarm; he had followed STOKES, but he went too quick for him to catch him.

JOHN CHAMBERLAIN was next examined and stated that he was acquainted with Col. FISK; he had last seen him at the Erie Railroad office on the day of the shooting; when the witness was leaving the office, about half-past three o'clock, he saw Mr. STOKES in a sound, sitting in the right hand corner, with his eyes looking up to the windows of the office; he did not think STOKES saw him; it was an hour and a half after he left the office and had seen Mr. STOKES that he heard of the shooting; he never knew Mr. FISK to be armed; he had always understood that Mr. STOKES carried a pistol; he had known STOKES about four or five years.

BRIGADIER C. ALLEN was then called, and testified that he was with Mr. FOSTER and Mr. MCGOWAN seized STOKES, and he identified the prisoner as the man.

PATRICK MCGOWAN, engineer of the Grand Central Hotel, testified to having helped to secure the prisoner after the tragedy.

LAWRENCE CONNELL, a coachman, was then called and testified that he was engaged by STOKES, whom he knew by sight, to drive him from the City Hall to the Hoffman House. [He pointed out STOKES as the man who had engaged him.] He drove his passenger to the Hoffman House, from thence to Twenty-third-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, stopped on the corner for a short time, and then drove down to the corner of Broadway and Fourth-street; here STOKES got out and walked up Broadway, after paying witness $2; he saw STOKES walk a block up the street before he drove off; the clock in the front of the Fifth-avenue Hotel marked the hour of 5¼ P. M. when he had reached that point from the City Hall.

After the dismissal of this witness, Coroner YOUNG said that, owing to the lateness of the hour, (6 o'clock,) he deemed it advisable to adjourn the inquest until today at 3 P. M.

The Court-room was crowded during the inquest, and great interest was manifested in the proceedings.

OTHER MATTERS.

Mrs. Mansfield Still at Home—A Reporter Interviewed Her and Gets Arrested for Doing So—The House Guarded by Police to Prevent Her Escape.

Early last evening a reporter rang the door-bell of the brown-stone mansion, No. 359 West Twenty-third-street, occupied by Mrs. HELEN JOSEPHINE MANSFIELD, and waited for admittance. The heavy outside door was locked, the hall was dark, and the windows of the first floor omitted but a very faint light. In a few seconds a woman came to the door and opened it sufficiently wide to allow her to look through.

"What do you want, Sir?"

The reporter handed his private card, marked in pencilling on a corner "on business," through the chink, and asked if the lady would not hand it to Mrs. MANSFIELD. The card was taken and the head disappeared for a couple of seconds, and again appeared, and asked what was the nature of the business, adding, "unless it is very important Mrs. MANSFIELD can't see you." The door was opened a little wider, and the reporter's eyes caught a full view of the face, recognized it, in the light of a gas-lamp opposite, to be that of Mrs. MANSFIELD herself.

Having learned that a scribe who had attempted to get out an interview some time before had, on revealing his business, been ignominiously flung out of doors, and not wishing to experience similar treatment, the reporter replied that he would call again when Mrs. MANSFIELD would be more at leisure. He had gained the principal object of his visit, finding out if Mrs. MANSFIELD was still in the City. He bade the lady good evening and walked quickly down the steps of the high stoop and turned up by Eighth-avenue. He had not gone ten paces when a policeman, with a dirty shawl rolled around his neck, and a mass of red unkempt hair hanging over his shoulders, rushed across the street, and flourishing his club caught the reporter by the shoulder and shook him roughly demanding in a gruff voice:

"What was you doing in there?"

"In where?" asked the reporter quietly.

"In Mrs. MANSFIELD's."

"I was doing nothing in there, because I was not in."

"An' didn't I see you FISH my own eyes, coming out?" replied the guardian of law and order; "come along, you're my prisoner."

"All right," said the scribe, and cheerily walked with the red-headed policeman, in dirty shawl and snow shoes, to the Sixteenth Precinct Station-house, in Twenty-first-street. Here he was charged, with being seen coming out of Mrs. MANSFIELD's residence. The reporter denied that he had been in the house, but the policeman, MICHAEL BARRY, insisted that he had seen him come out of the house. The Sergeant was puzzled, and the reporter came to his relief by suggesting that if it were an offense to be in the residence of Mrs. MANSFIELD, he could easily prove that he was not, if the Sergeant would send an officer to the place with one of the reporter's cards, asking if such a person had been there. The officer soon returned and reported having seen Miss MAUD FIELD, to whom he showed the card, and who told him the same story the reporter had told. The Sergeant laughingly discharged the prisoner, apologizing for BARRY, who was, he said, a green member of the force, and did not know his duty.

The Sergeant explained that the residence of Mrs. MANSFIELD was guarded with Police to prevent her escape, and probably BARRY took the reporter to be that lady in disguise. BARRY said he would swear the reporter did not go up the stoop and that he came out of the house, for "I'ts a true Corbetan he was crouched behind a tree watching. The reporter is prepared to swear that he did go up the stoop, ring the bell and did not come out of the house. To the two latter facts Mrs. MANSFIELD will testify.

The Effect of Fisk's Death on the Erie Suits.

It is expected that the death of Mr. FISK will cause a change in the Erie suits which have been brought in the United States Circuit Court, of some of which he appeared as a co-defendant, and in others as one of the plaintiffs. The most of the cases have been in litigation for a long time, and involve large sums of money, together with legal questions in regard to contracts, &c. By some it is believed that the suits will be abandoned altogether in consequence of FISK's demise.

Stokes on the Tombs.

The prisoner slept soundly on Sunday night, and arose yesterday morning at 7½ o'clock. He breakfasted with a good appetite at 9 o'clock, after which he scanned the morning papers, which were brought him at his request. As he read them, one of his jailors says, a smile occasionally played over his face as his eye met some allusion to himself, and occasionally he would frown, and there would be an angry flash in his eyes. Soon after his breakfast, he was visited by a younger brother, with whom he spent considerable time in conversation. He appeared to feel his position somewhat more than he did on Sunday, inasmuch as he was more quiet and thoughtful. The prisoner, during Sunday night, was confined in cell No. 80, in the second tier, a wretched abode, without the slightest attempt at comfort or even cleanliness apparent in it. Here the brothers had their first interview, but at 10 o'clock he was taken from No. 80 and placed in cell No. 57—the cell occupied by HAGGERTY, who is awaiting trial for the voucher robbery. As he passed from his cell, every other prisoner advanced to his prison bars to gain a sight of their distinguished companion. No. 57, the cell in which he was placed while No. 80 was being cleaned and made more habitable, has been the abiding place of HAGGERTY for a considerable time. On entering, STOKES sat quietly down on a chair, taking very little notice of anything around him. At 11½ o'clock his brother again visited him, having been sent to the Hoffman House to procure some clothing and toilet necessities. He was shortly afterward dispatched again, and soon after returned with some collars, cuffs and socks, and some half dozen cravats. About midday STOKES was removed to his old cell, No. 80, which had in the meantime been made decent. During the afternoon a rumor prevailed throughout the City that he had committed suicide, but when it became known about an hour afterward that he had appeared before the Coroner, of course the alarm subsided.

The prisoner was also visited during the day by his lawyers, who held a long consultation with him.

District-Attorney GARVIN says he will take no action in the case until the conclusion of the inquest.

About Town Last Evening.

At the Grand Central Hotel last evening, the sad tragedy which was enacted there was the subject of discussion in every mouth. Crowds of people had called there during the day to look at the spot where FISK fell. Almost every pedestrian going up or down Broadway waited one moment to look into the "ladies' entrance." The guests from the country and abroad who arrived during the day, took new and special interest in examining the hotel which for the first time has been the object of public excitement. The ladies now shun the entrance set apart for themselves, and prefer to enter at the general door, and either walk up stairs or go inside the elevator.

At the Fifth-avenue Hotel, the excitement over FISK's death had not much abated, each party finding new interest in the recital of the mournful event.

Mrs. MANSFIELD's house was in darkness last evening, only one light to be seen, and that up stairs on the third story. A few persons were to be seen standing on the sidewalk, silently talking and pointing to the house in which resided the principal cause of the murder.

Darkness reigned in the Grand Opera-house, no sign being visible of the presence of Erie officers. In the saloons surrounding the neighborhood the tragedy was the topic of conversation, and all the good deeds of Mr. FISK were recalled and commented upon.

The reporter learned from persons in the neighborhood that Col. FISK left the Erie offices at about 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Passing down stairs he asked a young man to make him a glass of lemonade, which he drank, and then walked to his carriage, and was driven off. "Poor fellow," said the young man, wiping away a tear, "I little thought that it was the last time I should ever see the Colonel walk." Several members of the Ninth Regiment were found rather sadly discussing the affair.

PHILIP EDEN, while looking at the funeral procession yesterday, at the corner of Eighth-avenue and Twenty-third-street, was assaulted by JAMES THOMPSON, who attempted to steal his watch. THOMPSON was arrested and committed for trial by Justice HOGAN.

The Erie Railway offices and shops in New-Jersey were closed yesterday in consequence of the death of the Vice-President of the Company.

The Feeling in Wall-Street.

The murder of FISK was, of course, the topic of conversation everywhere down-town yesterday. Business men meeting for the first time since the tragedy, discussed it in all its bearings from a business point of view. But its effect upon the stock of the Erie Railroad was the subject most earnestly considered, especially among the brokers in Wall-street and their customers. The Bulls at first had it all their own way. On Sunday, at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, the price had been run up to 93 after it was known that FISK was dead. This was a rise of 4¼ per cent. from the closing prices of Saturday. Yesterday morning the quotation before the Board met was 95½, and the transactions were tolerably lively. Many who had been holding Erie at low figures month after month, and in some cases year after year, now saw their opportunity of clearing themselves, and stocks of it were placed upon the market. As fast as it was offered it was taken, and for a time the combat was lively. Those who bought, of course, anticipated a speedy rise, and those who sold were generally parties who had long been overburdened with the stock, and had become too much disgusted with it to anticipate anything from holding it longer. The supply was greater than the demand, and the price gradually went off until it settled down at 93¾ to 94¾.

The future of Erie under the present circumstances was the subject of much earnest talk. Some said that the death of FISK and the impending overthrow, through legislative and other agencies, of the combinations that had so long kept it in the hands of the present management must result in placing an honest Board of Directors at the head of its affairs, and would without doubt enhance the value of the property. Others held that the property had been so completely ruined by FISK, GOULD and their associates that it would be long before it could recover and that at present it was a better sale than purchase.

Concerning the assassination itself there was every where but one opinion, and that was that, whatever might have been the character of the victim, the crime was one without excuse and calling for speedy punishment. JAMES FISK, Jr., as may well be imagined, was not a favorite in Wall-street.

The Colonelcy of the Ninth Regiment.

Scarcely have the remains of Col. FISK been removed from the City for interment, when schemes are set on foot to secure an eligible successor to the Colonelcy of the Ninth Regiment, National Guard. As is well known, FISK secured his election to the position of commanding officer of the Ninth by liberal promises of lucrative positions on the Erie Railway to certain officers in the regiment. The bargain and sale was effected through one ORANGE E. STEVENS, and Lieut.-Col. BRAINE and Major HITCHCOCK were given employment in the Erie offices immediately after the election. Col. FISK, though he was wholly ignorant of the practical duties of his position, did a great deal for the regiment, and he was the direct means of rapid recruiting in the ranks. Money was also forthcoming from FISK's friends, the members of the Ninth being especially liberal in their donations. So long as FISK was content to remain in nominal command of the Ninth, the organization was sure to keep up its strength, but no longer subject, indeed, another such man could be found to succeed him.

Among the candidates for the position the name of Col. GEORGE HOOKER, brother-in-law of FISK and a member of his staff, is mentioned. HOOKER served as an aid on the staff of Gen. STOUGHTON during the late war, and possesses an honorable record. If we have been an excellent choice did the members of the regiment seem an educated officer. Lieut.-Col. BRAINE would also be a good choice, as he also served in the field and has really commanded the regiment ever since the resignation of Gen. WILCOX.

But the Ninth does not care for an officer so much as a rich patron. By some the name of JOHN CHAMBERLIN is mentioned, but it is doubtful if the regiment could descend to such a selection. From all that can be ascertained, however, the new Colonel will come from Erie, in the person of BENJAMIN W. BLANCHARD, now General Freight Agent of the Erie Railway, with which road he has been connected for twenty years. He joined the Ninth as Commissary when FISK became Colonel, and he recently became one of the honorary aides of Gen. HOFFMAN. These two positions afforded him what little military knowledge he possesses, and the Ninth will probably seek to elect him, as it is understood that he will accept the position.

There are several reasons for the selection of BLANCHARD. He would be the means of keeping the Erie members of the regiment together, and could, if necessary, reward officers in the Board of Officers with remunerative positions on the road. The scheme is already sanctioned, it is understood, and the developments will prove interesting to the National Guard in this City.

THE COAL QUESTION.

A Basis Agreed Upon in the Schuylkill Region—The General Council to Meet Today.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

MAHANOY CITY, Penn., Jan. 8.—The General Council meets here to-morrow in the heart of Schuylkill County, where nothing but miners and laborers are to be met with. Luzerne County expects some important work at the hands of the delegates, but the prospects are very gloomy to-night for any relief for the Wilkesbarre strikers. CHAS. PARRISH, of the Wilkesbarre Iron and Coal Company refuses to submit to any arbitration. President KEALLY will probable resign to-morrow. He is bitterly opposed to the Workingmen's Benevolent Association being a secret organization, but the majority decide against him. The Committees of the Anthracite Board of Trade and Workingmen's Benevolent Association met on Saturday, in Pottsville, and entered into the following agreement for Schuylkill County for 1872:

The miners agree to reduce contract prices eight and three-quarters per cent. below last year's rates on the $2 75 basis, which has been added to labor by the day by increasing the wages to a $2 75 basis prices as a minimum, except for two months, when prices recede as low as $2 25, and day's wages to $2 00. The reduction of eight and three-quarters per cent. on the contract prices will aid the operators to some extent in paying more wages to laborers, &c. The following are the articles of agreement:

First—Wages to be fixed on a basis of $2 50 per ton, for coal at Port Carbon, with outside labor at $10 per week; inside labor at $11 per week; miners by day-work at $13 per week, and contract-work at a reduction of eight and one-third per cent. below the basis price at $2 75 of last year.

Second—All advance and decline to be at the rate of one per cent. on wages, for every three cents advance or decline in the price of coal, with the understanding that when coal reaches $2 75 or upward, the wages shall be the same as at the same prices of coal in 1871, provided that wages shall not be less than the $2 50 basis price for more than two months out of the year, and that those two months shall be between April 1 and December 31, and that in those two months the wages shall not be less than at $2 25 rate.

Third—Prices shall be obtained from a list of operators shipping over the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad over 50,000 tons in 1871, and none shall be chosen a second time until the list is exhausted. Five operators shall be chosen by lot from this list on the first day of each month, if Sunday, then the day preceding, by four persons, two to be chosen by the Anthracite Board of Trade and two by the W. B. A. The operators so chosen shall be required to forward to each side of the Committee chosen as above, on or before the 10th of the month a statement of the average of all sales of coal, excepting pea coal, for the preceeding month, calculating at Port Carbon. The Committee shall meet on the 16th of the month, or if Sunday, then the day preceding, and announce by circular the average obtained from the statements so presented, and the wages for the current month shall be based upon the average so obtained. For the month of January it is agreed that wages shall be paid at the $2 50 basis. E. R. W.

UTAH.

Opening of the Legislature—Snow and Frost President and Speaker.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 6.—The twentieth sessions of the Legislature convened this afternoon in the City Hall. A quorum was present, and LORENZO SNOW was elected President of the Council, and ORSON PRATT Speaker of the House. A committee was appointed to wait on the Governor, whose message, it is reported, will be delivered to-morrow. After the completion of its organization the Legislature adjourned.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

President GRANT returned to Washington yesterday.

The South Carolina Legislature met yesterday.

The Wisconsin Legislature convenes at noon on Wednesday.

Yesterday was observed as a holiday in New-Or

THE CUSTOM-HOUSE.

Fifth Day's Investigation by the Congressional Committee.

The Firm of Naylor, Benzo & Co. Bring an Overwhelming Complaint Against Col. Frank Howe.

The Committee of the Senate upon Investigation and Retrenchment met at 10½ A.M. yesterday in Room No. 14 of the Astor House, the removal having been effected by the persistent clamor of the defamers of the Administration. Senator BUCKINGHAM presided, as usual. Mr. WHITELAW REID, one of the editors of the Tribune, was the first witness. He said: "In reference to the article in which Senator HOWE marked certain points which he wished to be explained, and for which he desired the authorities, I may state that they were furnished for the greater part and have since been confirmed, by Mr. LINDSAY, in his evidence before the Committee."

Senator HOWE—I wish you to give the authority that the old system gave satisfaction to every one, until Mr. MURPHY's accession to office. A.—The article says that about the time that it was rumored that Mr. MURPHY was about to be Collector.

Q.—Please read the sentence about Mr. MURPHY before that?

"This system continued for fifteen years, to the satisfaction of merchants and shippers, and the most rapacious Collector was unable to discover how an unjust toll could be collected, until the advent of Mr. MURPHY."

Q.—The complaint you make is that LEET & Co. at that time gained a monopoly of the General Order business? A.—There may be other objections beside that, but that is one of them.

Q.—Will you explain in what way LEET & Co. had a monopoly that differed from the monopoly enjoyed by the Cunard and Hoboken Companies? A.—I have no knowledge on the point.

Q.—Did you ever hear the word monopoly suggested in this instance before the word dropped from Senator CASSERLY? A.—The idea has been prevalent for months in New-York, and that is, as I understand the matter, one of the essential points of the complaints of the merchants; I now come to the next sentence:

"They are now charged a month's storage, even though the owners remove them instantly on their arrival. As these two stores are about two miles from the Battery, they are subjected to additional charges for extra cartage, and at the same time they incur extra danger of theft and damage."

In response to the searching questions put by Senator HOWE, Mr. REID professed absolute ignorance on the subject, but said that the reporters had given the information and he had accepted it readily. It had also been confirmed precisely to him by the late Appraiser.

Witness—I now come to the next sentence:

"These extortionate charges are supposed to be paid by the steam-ship companies if the goods are removed within forty-eight hours from the General Order stores, but they are in reality paid by the importers through increased freight. When immense fire-proof stores were rendered useless on the Jersey side, and the General Order business made a monopoly on this side, we are unable to decide."

Senator HOWE made more searching questions on this point, but Mr. REID professed absolute ignorance on the point, except that the information had been furnished by the reporters.

Senator CASSERLY—When a merchant sells imported goods to the retail dealers does he put the duties into the bill, or does he get them back by increased price of goods? A.—I presume, though I have no actual knowledge on the point, that the price is made up, a specific item in his bill, but that it becomes a consideration of the price he asks for his goods.

Chairman—Mr. STEWART testified, or rather his clerk did, that he paid $10,000 per annum for General Order charges, and that he was reimbursed $5,000; do you consider that sum as a gratuity? A.—I think Mr. STEWART himself would be a better witness on that point than myself.

The next sentences read by the witness, referred to Mr. LEET, Hon. Mr. GRINNELL, and the establishment of the General Order house of BURNY & CO. He stated that the information in those sentences came from gentlemen in the Custom-house who gave it under a promise of secrecy, as the knowledge that it had been given by them would cost them their situations.

Senator HOWE—Do you think it right to give to the public any sort of information handed to you anonymously? A.—I have never done so unless I supposed I had good grounds to go on.

Senator HOWE—Will you, then, furnish the public with facts for which the giver refuses to be responsible? A.—I should feel authorized to do so if I were convinced, from the nature of things, that it was correct.

Senator HOWE—How do you discriminate in those matters? A.—Why, if the subject is a great one, and I believe it to be true, then I use it, but if it is a private matter, and I have reason to suspect that an individual is attempting to use the paper for his private ends, then it goes into the waste basket.

The witness then read the remaining sentences, and named the former Congressional report as the basis of the authorities for the statement. The chief other authority was Mr. ALLAN W. LEET, a reporter on the Tribune, cousin of Mr. LEET of the General Order stores, who had had conversations with his relative on the subject. After he concluded he made a general statement with regard to compromise cases, that they were generally conducted in chambers, and the reporters were not admitted, on the plea that it would hurt the merchants.

Senator CASSERLY—Does not such secrecy facilitate improper transactions? A.—Not calculated, I should think, to increase the number of smuggling cases, since merchants who are detected are not brought, as they should be, before the notice of the public.

This closed Mr. REID's explanation of the Tribune article headed "Custom-house Vampires." He then proceeded to give evidence on the subject of the politicians in the Department. He said that his impressions were that in the Custom-house were three classes: First, men who were perfectly well acquainted with the details of the business and its technical forms; second, men of such political strength that the Collector could not remove them except under great provocation; third, men whose only recommendation was their allegiance to the dominant faction. He had always understood that in the third class removals from office for political reasons were frequent. He had recommended that Gen. PALMER should be examined on the point, as he had told the witness that three men, to his knowledge, had been dismissed for not voting in a Republican Convention according to the instructions of Collector MURPHY. These men were JOSEPH W. FORBES, examiner; T. C. COMBANY, clerk, and SAMUEL MASTERSON, weigher and packer. He understood from Gen. PALMER that the order for these men's discharges came from a higher source even than Mr. BOUTWELL. There was another case cited by the same gentleman—that of CHARLES H. KEYSER, who had been dismissed for cause, and who had been appointed by Mr. MURPHY in another capacity by Mr. MURPHY, though he was informed that KEYSER had been dismissed for cause. Still another case was that of JAMES CORRIGAN, an opener and packer, whom Mr. MURPHY wanted to use in a primary election in what is known as the Gridley district. He was informed before the election that he was only retained through the influence of Mr. MURPHY, which he understood to mean that he was to do Mr. MURPHY'S work in the Gridley district. He took the other side, and when Gen. PALMER was dismissed, CORRIGAN was discharged also. The witness recited some more cases of the same character, for most of which Gen. PALMER was responsible. For the story of VAN CLEFT, the Engineer of the Navy-yard, the witness believed that VAN CLEFT was the authority himself.

Senator BAYARD—But Mr. VAN CLEFT was not a subordinate of Mr. MURPHY'S, and in no subject to him, was he? A.—He was in his Department.

After some little colloquy, the Chairman determined to subpœna Mr. VAN CLEFT and have fuller testimony upon a subject so doubtful. Mr. REID then resumed his cases and gave that of Mr. WM. E. JONES, Custom-house, employe residing at No. 231 East Twenty-first-street, who had refused to obey a political order and had been discharged. He also gave others of a similar character, among them Mr. MURPHY, who was subpœnaed by the Chairman; as Mr. REID stated that he could give information on the removal connection of Gens. FOSTER and BAROCCHI with the General Order store business of Mr. LEET. Mr. BENNETT was also subpœnaed on motion of Senator HOWE. After giving all his cases, the witness read a letter from CHAS. S. GRANT, detailing the recent political manœuvring in the part of Major JOHN D. TERRY. The letter was as follows:

"On last Tuesday, (Jan. 2,) JOHN D. TERRY, a clerk in the Auditor's Department of the New-York Custom-house, stated to me that at the late primary election of the Twentieth Republican Association he was appointed one of the inspectors of election. That a large number of parties voted on other persons' names, and also voted from two to seven times, and that he made a list of the names of these parties so voting, and still retains it, and that WM. HAW, Jr., and others, have attempted to get the said list from him; that he refused to sign the credentials of the officers and delegates until Saturday, Dec. 30; that he only did so then under the promise of receiving promotion in the Custom-house; that Ex-Collector MURPHY, Collector ARTHUR and WILLIAM HAW, Jr., held a consultation in the Custom-house in reference to promoting him if he would sign the credentials, and that he (TERRY) was waiting in the outer office during the consultation, and that HAW came out and told him it was all right, and for him to sign. That he did then sign the said credentials as true when he knew them to be false. He said also Mr. THOMAS MURPHY in the Custom-house on Tuesday, Jan. 2, and Mr. MURPHY told him to see Gen. ARTHUR, for he had spoken to him about it, and ARTHUR understood it.

The witnesses then went into a description of "Custom-house interference" at the Syracuse Convention. Of his own knowledge the Collector, the Surveyor, the Naval Officer, the Postmaster, and JAMES TREWILLIGES, Secretary of the Collectors, were present.

Senator BAYARD—Were they on the same side? A.—I understood that they were all working together; Gen. JONES, the Postmaster, had been on the other side, but was working with them at that time. There was a great crowd of others, whose names I will now give.

The witness here read a long list of Federal office-holders, amounting in all to sixty-five, who he understood were present there and very active.

Senator BAYARD—How long were they there? A.—I do not know; I went there as late as I could, and came away when we had been brought as Tammanyites, feeling that if we were such we had no business in a Republican Convention.

Senator HOWE—How many of these officeholders were there? A.—My list contains sixty-five, but I have heard they were more; the general understanding was that they were there as a lobby to influence delegates.

Senator CASSERLY—Do you know many of these men personally whose names you have given? A.—Those whom I mentioned first, but with the others I have no acquaintance at all or very little.

Senator CASSERLY—What was the effect of their efforts? A.—We believed the night before that we were certain of success, and if it is possible for a lobby to change the result of a convention then these men succeeded it.

Senator BAYARD—What do you know about cases that have been compromised to the damage of the Government? A.—I know a great deal that I have gleaned from reporters, especially as to the difficulty of procuring information.

Q.—Have you heard anything about the sums of money gained by these men? A.—I have heard that Mr. JAYNE, who, I have heard, is an agent engaged in this business, has amassed a large fortune in a few years. I was informed by a reporter of the Tribune that he had received from this Mr. JAYNE, in small sums at various times, $6,000. This reporter started a magazine, and informed me that his capital was derived from this source. I do not wish to be understood as implying any corrupt understanding between the two; I only say that I think it was a very lavish waste of money on the part of the JAYNES.

The witness then read a list of the Federal office-holders who were present lately at Albany influencing the organization of the Legislature.

Senator BAYARD—Do the majority of these men receive high or low salaries? A.—I do not know, but I think that they were low paid.

Senator BAYARD—Who, then, bears the expense of transporting so large a body to a distant city and pays their bills there? A.—I understand that a purse is made by assessment which covers the expenses.

Senator CASSERLY—Are not the men sent on these missions chosen for their ability to do certain work of this nature? A.—That is decidedly my impression; the official has to carry his district or his ward, and if he does not he is discharged.

Senator HOWE—Then they work by the job and not by the season? A.—I suppose that will express it; I think it is a good phrase.

The witness here read some anonymous letters concerning smuggling cases, and Senator BAYARD took down the names of certain merchants who were mentioned as being able to give information on the point. He also read some testimony concerning Mr. MCCORMIC, but it referred back to the time of Collector HARTLEY SHTTUR. The witness explained that the system of fraud had existed for a long time, and cast no special reflection upon the present Administration. He also read the following letter concerning a compromise case:

NEW-YORK, Jan. 8, 1872.

Editors of Tribune:

Have been very much interested in reading the evidence before the whitewashing Committee. Not being at present in the importing line, my past experience does not strike the present unless in Wall-street. But it does seem that there have been some compromises of late, and unless I have been decidedly misinformed, Messrs. TODNUTTER & Co., of White-street could make interesting revelations. Their books were seized and a claim of something like $100,000 entered against them. This the officers seemed to compromise for $60,000. Messrs. TODNUTTER declined, and from week to week the claim was lowered, till it was one-fourth that amount, and finally it was thought to be that at $25,000, but he being the only man able to do it, he should require $10,000 for himself. This they refused and the claim the last time I heard from them stood at $35,000. By this time, finding no oil, Messrs. TODNUTTER & Co. have probably given up boring. I suppose Messrs. TODNUTTER are afraid to testify for fear of trouble and delay with their future importations, a thing I thought in these parts was unknown. Now, ever I refused their blackmailing claims. Should there is some way in which the truth may come out,

I am, yours, truly, FRANCIS P. RENPIER.

Senator Stewart questioned the witness on the authority he had for this statement that appeared in the Tribune, Dec. 29:

"Every session and nearly every township of our State Government were occupied for weeks before our last State Convention, by deputy collectors, weighers, inspectors, &c., driving up delegates in the Conklin-Murphy interest, at the expense of the whole people. Their work as officers was done by others, or left undone while they were paid for doing, the work they utterly neglected; in fact, more than $100,000 was thus taken out of the Treasury to pay for services, rendered not to the Government or people, not even to the Republican Party, but to the Conklin-Murphy faction."

With reference to this Mr. REID stated that the article was written from general rumor, and the sum named was a rough estimate, not a calculation.

Senator BAYARD—Has your attention ever been directed to the expenditure of inspectors and such officers drawing an average salary of $4 a day? A.—I have heard that in many instances it is much greater than such salary warrants.

Senator HOWE—Can you give the names of any officers whose expenditure is greater? A.—I would not like to attempt it.

Senator HOWE—Did you have Mr. JAYNE in your mind at the time you spoke? A.—No, I had not; I believe the law, however, to be framed as to enable officers of his class to make very large gains.

Senator HOWE—To whom, then, did you allude when you spoke of officers making large expenditures out of small salaries? A.—To those officers who can make seizures and compromise cases.

Senator HOWE—What point, then, did you wish to make when you spoke of Mr. JAYNE and the reporter of the Tribune who started a magazine? A.—I wished to show that men of his class could make large gains.

Senator HOWE—Not unlawful gains, then, but great gains? A.—That is what I wished to say.

Senator PRATT—Leaving out the heads of bureaus, what offices in the Custom-house are most sought after? A.—I really cannot say.

Senator PRATT—Shall we take, then, what men would be most likely to get bribes? A.—I cannot say; you must apply to some one better acquainted with the details of the Custom-house business. I can only say that when we in the Tribune were considered not unwilling to recommend people, we found them frantic for any kind of office. We have, however, not been troubled much in that way of late.

Senator CASSERLY—What are the Tribune's arrangements for obtaining correct information in regard to political matters throughout the State? A.—The editor has warm personal friends in every direction, and they keep him posted. We have also our correspondents whom we send out.

Senator CASSERLY—Your information on that point is likely to be very wide and thorough? A.—We think so.

Senator HOWE—I understand, then, that we may rely as implicitly upon your statements of the removals from office as upon other things that have appeared in your paper. [Laughter.] A.—I hope you will implicitly believe everything you may find there. [Laughter.]

Senator PRATT—How do you know that these men were not removed for cause? A.—I have no doubt that the Custom-house officials will so report the matter if they are questioned, but I do not think they would be good witnesses, because they are the accused.

Senator CASSERLY—As you have also stated that there is a system of terrorism in the Custom-house upon the subject of giving information on such points, you would not be taken as a person for not getting your facts there? A.—Of course, it would. Let me also say that from conversations I have had with the late Collector, there is not the shadow of a doubt on my mind that the removals were not for cause, but for political reasons. He told me shortly after his accession to office, he openly said that he intended to harmonize the two sides. This closed his examination.

Senator HOWE made the suggestion that the witness had been examined for four hours on subjects of which he stated in his commencement he had no knowledge. He therefore thought that for the future it might be better not to examine at such length such witnesses as would only furnish the names of those who could witness. There was a point, he added, at which they would have to stop, no matter how much or how little progress had been made in the investigation.

The next witness was THOMAS J. HOYT, of the firm of NAYLOR & CO., No. 79 John-street, an iron and steel house, that has existed in England and America for over seventy years. He read the following statement, which seemed to excite much attention and exciting many expressions of sympathy:

"As the transactions which we purpose to relate covered a period of many weeks, we have thought best to reduce to writing the particulars of a persecution which our firm and suffered at the hands of officials known as Special Agents of the Treasury and appointed under the act of May 12, 1870, chapter 105, for the purpose of making an examination of the books and papers of Collectors, &c., and acting under the section of the act of March 2, 1867, providing for the seizure of books and papers of importers. Our house has been in existence for upward of seventy years, and I may state from tradition and personal knowledge, has always honestly endeavored to give the Government Revenue. Our transactions with the United States Customs amount to millions of dollars annually, and the rate of duties paid by us must compare favorably with those of other importers. . . . Nevertheless, we have recently been subjected to most serious injury and mortification by an unwarranted seizure and search of all our books and papers. On the afternoon of the 6th of September last our counting-house was [illegible] Special Agents of the Treasury, who [illegible] Senator BAYARD—Do you know anything about the transactions of this firm? A.—I know that they have been very active in the matter of the Custom-house. Senator BAYARD—Do you know that they have made any complaint of the seizure of their books? A.—I know they have made a very bitter complaint. Senator BAYARD—Do you know that they have made any complaint of the action of the District-Attorney? A.—I do not know that they have made any complaint of the action of the District-Attorney. Senator BAYARD—Would the amount due upon the invoices mentioned in the affidavit, if they had been undervalued, have amounted to any such sum? A.—Certainly not. I cannot give the exact amount, however, without reference to the books, because I do not recollect the quantities brought by the different vessels. Senator BAYARD—Do I understand you to say settled in this transaction is $171? A.—That is all; the District-Attorney has abandoned all the special charges in the affidavit. Senator BAYARD—Will your case excite much sympathy among your brother merchants? A.—We kept it as secret as possible, but it was a matter of the deepest mortification to us to have to ask permission from those men whenever a merchant wanted a letter of account, because they had the books in their hands. Senator BAYARD—You are a working house; what would be the effect of such a measure upon a small house? A.—I think it would have gone far to ruin them by unsettling their business and injuring their credit with bankers and merchants.

Senator BAYARD—Have you ever heard whether such cases have been compromised by Brown from fears of such a result? A.—I have.

Senator PRATT—If this BROWN has sworn falsely in his affidavit, what difficulty would there be in punishing him criminally for perjury? A.—I think the law, however, would be powerless to harass our future action. I really do not know whether he swears absolutely on his information and belief.

Senator PRATT—Are you of opinion that the law itself should be repealed, or that the manner of its administration should be reformed? A.—I think both the law and the system are bad, and only tend to the injury of commerce.

Senator PRATT—Have you ever known of any good come of the law? A.—No, I never have; and I never have known anything like the same persistence and worry attend a case, which had more color of wrong to the Government.

Senator PRATT—Have you known any cases in which the Government has recovered its case through the seizure of books and papers? A.—I never have.

Senator CASSERLY—Do you know whether Mr. BROWN has any pecuniary responsibility? A.—No; I do not think he has.

Senator CASSERLY—And Mr. BUSH? A.—I think not either.

Senator CASSERLY—Then if you tried to punish them by a civil suit, you would hardly get redress for such excesses? A.—I am sure that we should recover nothing; our concomitant and positive loss could hardly be compensated by any amount of money.

Senator HOWE—I would like to know what alteration of the law you would like? A.—If you will permit me, I and my partners will submit a statement to your Committee in writing, or we will answer the subject.

Senator HOWE—That is exactly what I want. But pray remember not only to protect yourself against such indemnities, but also to protect yourselves as honest traders against dishonest men. A.—I understand, Sir.

The concluded his examination. The next witness was the District-Attorney, Hon. NOAH DAVIS, who was sworn. As he was to be examined with reference to the testimony of Mr. LEWIS, Senator STEWART asked for the photographic motion on the subject, but they were hot northcoming.

Senator STEWART—As Mr. DAVIS is here I would like to ask him some questions with reference to the case of NAYLOR & Co. Mr. my memory is not fresh upon the subject, and I will not know that I have to be examined. I would like, Mr. DAVIS, to know why the legal details of the case, winding up with the comfort that so far as the District-Attorney's office was concerned, Messrs. NAYLOR & Co. would admit that there had been no attempt to do them any injustice. He said that he considered that there was a prima facie case against the house, and that in spite of the explanation of NAYLOR & Co., it still remained against three of the invoices. They had certainly undervalued the fish plates in comparison with those imported by other houses, and their explanation was that in consequence of certain facilities they possessed in purchasing in England, of a certain manufacturer of Sheffield, they were enabled to offer them at a lower rate. There was a discrepancy between the value per ton in the invoice, which was 26 10s., and the price spoken of in private letters at £4 17s. 6d. Other measurements were in the invoice, which differed from other explanations, which the house had promised to give.

Senator CASSERLY—Is it not possible that a house of this magnitude might be able to obtain such goods at a material difference from smaller houses? A.—It is quite possible.

Senator STEWART—Do you think that the officials of the Custom-house had any thing else to go upon than the difference in the invoices? A.—I do not know what they went upon. I presume the one fifth difference at first did excite their attention.

Senator PRATT—Mr. HOWE has objected to the law. Have you any experience based of its practical working? A.—I think it has made efforts at fraud more infrequent.

Senator CASSERLY—What do you think of the indignities to which the firm was subjected? A.—I believe that much of their annoyance grew out of the decision to have the case made an equitable one. It is the only case where any complaint of improper conduct of officers has been made to me, and I think it perhaps originated in the officers being there so long that their presence intensified the feelings of anger of the firm.

Senator PRATT—Had there been any exceptional one, what would have been the ordinary course of the officers? A.—I presume the books would have been removed to the District-Attorney's office.

Senator HOWE—How could Naylor & Co. have protected themselves in swearing to the affidavit? A.—In the matter of the fish-plates, they could have sworn to the things stated in the affidavit.

Senator HOWE—So that if he should take anything outside of the affidavit they could apply to the Court? A.—And it would instantly be returned.

Senator HOWE—And could they also have, by a similar application, limited the stay of the officers on their premises? A.—They could, and they did in the end.

Senator HOWE—Is this the only case where complaint has been made of improper conduct on the part of the officers? A.—It is the only one I have heard of.

Senator PRATT—Had there been, would you have heard of them? A.—I believe I should.

Senator PRATT—Could you suggest any modification of the law under which these proceedings have been taken? A.—I should like to see it before I answer; all such laws are singularly open to abuse, and it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to frame one that would not furnish the same opportunities.

Senator BAYARD—Have you no limit in the manner of executing your search-warrants, so that an agent may not assert a drag-net over a merchant's counting-house? A.—I think not. I believe the warrant always specifies the books and papers that pertain to the invoice; but to find out what books and papers do so pertain, the officer has to make a general examination of all the books and papers connected in any way with the subject, no matter how generally.

Senator BAYARD—Cast your eye over the warrant, and tell me if the private correspondence of the firm could be seized under it without gross abuse? A.—I think it would not. The correspondence had no reference to the specifications in the affidavit.

Senator BAYARD—Do you consider that the officers intrusted with the search-warrant would be justified in blowing up the safe of the firm if they suspected that books and papers were in it that referred to the invoices? A.—I think the power would extend so far; in a case in Boston where a firm refused to open the safe, the Marshal sent for a locksmith and had it opened.

Senator CASSERLY—I believe we are all agreed in one thing—that the warrant was limited in its application to the things pertaining to the affidavit.

Senator PRATT—And if the case had been carried on in the usual way all other papers, if taken, would have to be promptly restored.

Judge DAVIS—Also I may state that I have now made it a standing rule at my office that no application should be made in my office except after the receipt of a letter from the Collector asking for it.

Senator CASSERLY—I observe that this affidavit is made out on information and belief. Do you consider it sufficient? A.—I presume Judge BLATCHFORD did, since he granted the warrant. He may have seen in the affidavit was founded on knowledge.

Senator CASSERLY—No; it is not [reading] "on information and belief" because the words in the affidavit before me. I must say I have never met with a case in which such wide powers were granted on so very shallow a basis.

This concluded Judge DAVIS' testimony, and the Committee adjourned until 10½ this morning.

The Yorkville Police Justicesship—Further Evidence Confirmatory of Fraud.

The case of MURRAY against COULTER, involving the right to the Police Justicesship of the Yorkville Police Court, was continued on trial before Judge BEADY and a jury in Part II. of the Supreme Court, yesterday. The testimony, with few exceptions, was merely confirmatory of what has been already published.

HENRY R. MCCANN and HENRY N. SAWYER, poll clerks of the Twenty-fifth District of the Nineteenth Ward, testified that the returns from that district were not the same as those signed by them.

Inspector GEORGE N. WALLING testified that Mr. MURRAY did not stop doing duty on the Police force until after the Wednesday of the next week succeeding the 6th.

ANSHORE J. WHITE testified that Mr. MURRAY and another policeman were present at the gas-works at Hellgate, they fearing an attack on their premises, and that since his connection with the Police Department had ceased he (Mr. MURRAY) had a contract with the Company to dispose of its coke.

A number of policemen who had been detailed at the various polling-places testified to having carried the returns to Police Head-quarters.

The further hearing was adjourned over until today.

LAW REPORTS.

COURT-CALENDARS—THIS DAY.

COMMISSIONER OF APPEALS.

Adjourned Term—Calendar for Decisions—Nos. 212, 213, 215, 216, 218, 219, 220, 223, 224, 226, 228, 231, 232, 234.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Held by Ingraham, C. J., Barnard and Cardozo, J. J.—Court opens at 10½ A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
47	Marine Bank, Chicago, vs. Van Brunt.	158	Young Stone Cutting Co. vs. St. James Church.
103	Stiles vs. Myers.	159	Leslie vs. Leslie.
105	Rivers vs. Rickard.	159	Squires vs. Abbott.
108	Bush vs. Bush.	160	Reed vs. Montgomery.
128	Sevyer vs. Yates.	162	Hawkins vs. The Mayor.
144	Bennett vs. Bryant.	166	Price vs. Wilson.
145	Bennett vs. Bryant.	167	Stuyvesant Bank vs. National Mechanics' Banking Assn.
146	Stokes vs. Johnson.	168	Van Rensselaer vs. Bleecker.
149	Haight vs. The Mayor.	169	Spencer vs. New-Haven Steam-boat Co.
151	Godfrey vs. Gen. Ins. Co.	170	Stiles vs. Schmidt.
154	Lawrence vs. Fire Ins. Co.	171	Middlesex Steam-Co. vs. Kerr.
155	Mallon vs. Toledo.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Part I.—Held by Van Brunt, J.—Court opens at 10½ A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
781½	Covert vs. O'Brien.	66½	Pettion vs. Dyer.
51½	Co. (J.) Price vs. Price.	64	Smith vs. Yonkers & Gray's Fire Ins. Co.
223½	Gerding vs. Kobbe.	65	Craig vs. White.
87	New-York Guaranty and Ind. Co. vs. Sayre.	66½	Franklin vs. Dunlap.
87	Same vs. Angelston.	67	Wendrs vs. Murray.
88	Johnson vs. King.	68	Swartz vs. Gordon.
89	Hunter vs. Mayor.	69	Same vs. Same.
91	Inches vs. Clackamas.	69	Grand-st. Ferry R. R. Co.
		70	Wood vs. Earle.
		71	Gotz vs. Frank.
		72	Buchman vs. Boehm.
		73	Same vs. Kronheim.

Part II.—Case on.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Held by Barrett, J.—Court opens at 10 A. M.—Calendar called at 11 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
93	McCord vs. Spratt.	164	Franklin Manufacturing Co. vs. Hallman.
94	Cochran vs. Van Brunt.	165	Shepherd vs. Thompson.
96	Hay vs. Gillis.	151	Clark vs. Okerly.
104	Jones vs. Millard.	157	Allen vs. Porter.
111	Lee vs. Kearney.	161	Ryan vs. Taylor.
135	Martine vs. Martine.
142	West vs. Sewing Machine Co. vs. Lowrand.
	Call No. 135—Lamb vs. Lamb.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Part I.—Held by Freedman, J.—Court opens at 11 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
907	Eldinger vs. The Park Fire Insurance Co.	36	De Wolf vs. Crandall.
859	Eldinger vs. The Nat. Ins. Co.	301	Same vs. Same.
911	Eldinger vs. The Williamsburg City Insurance Co.	328	Fleischer vs. Mason.
935	Eldinger vs. Rensselaer.	329	Eldridge vs. Gordon.
401	Van Saun vs. Barr.	1157	Deacher vs. Shaw.
129	Duer vs. Reed.	1158	Eldinger vs. Home Insurance Co.
805	Reed vs. Waterhouse.	618	Same vs. Same.
		619	Eldinger vs. N. A. Fire Ins Co.

Part II.—Held by Monell, J.—Court opens at 11 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
1005	Herman vs. Anglemyer.	910	Eldinger vs. Washington Fire Ins. Co.
60	Carlisle vs. Murray.	1025	Carpow vs. Kimball.
848	Central Nat. Bank vs. Seventh Ward National Bank.	778	Mehrbach vs. Jackson.
852	Eldinger vs. Commercial Fire Ins. Co.	848	Talcott vs. Belding.
904	Eldinger vs. Liverpool, London and Globe Ins. Co.	335	Powell, Jr., vs. Sterling.
906	Eldinger vs. Lafayette Fire Ins. Co.	337	Newington Coal Mining Co. vs. Pierce.
909	Eldinger vs. Relief Fire Ins. Co.	940	Lovejoy vs. Chalmers.
		944	Palmer vs. Kelly.

COMMON PLEAS—GENERAL TERM.

Held by Daly, C. J., Robinson and Dale, JJ.—Court opens at 11 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
11	Calstene vs. Bainstaff.	36	Bleecker vs. Falkner.
23	Shipman vs. Palstack.	63	Coebright vs. Brown.
32	Webb vs. Haviland.	67	Commerford vs. Smith.
33	Fleewelling vs. Bredon.	75	Smith vs. Lord.
35	Fleewelling vs. National Gas-light Co.	78	Hersey vs. Palmer.
		79	Riley vs. Eaton.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM.

Part I.—Held by Larremore, J.—Court opens at 11 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
1092	Pugsley vs. Morgan.	1064	Schott vs. Wright.
1143	Mayer vs. Watson.	1065	Same vs. Same.
1145	McCapsdon vs. Sommerville.	346	Bigelow vs. Rockman Fire Ins. Co.
559	McDermott vs. Lynde.	347	Hoover vs. Croton Fire Ins. Co.
1144	Jackson vs. Oakley.	1022	Kelly vs. Nolt.
1146	Hurlbert vs. Corlies.	582	Hefner vs. O'Brien.
772	Eckerson vs. Washington.	86	McCauley vs. Gans.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Part I.—Held by Spaulding, J.—Court opens and Calendar called at 10 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
7499	Tapson vs. Howell.	7079	O'Brien vs. Valentine.
7422	Behrens vs. Dowling.	7844	Sandy vs. Metzger.
7601	Cornell vs. Russell.	7845	Reinhardt vs. Sun.
7536	Cantor vs. Brennan.	7847	Swartz vs. Same.
7215	Robert vs. McGuire.	7847	Dockstader vs. Hockmeeth.
7666	Stout vs. Standard Printing Co.	7848	Belitts vs. Lewis.
7288	Blackell vs. Hallier.	7849	Eagan vs. De Graff.
7453	Clark vs. Bender.	7854	Baer vs. May.
7618	Hoffman vs. Moore.
7619	Housman vs. Tracy.

Part II.—Held by Gross, J.—Court opens and Calendar called at 10 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
6957	Seward vs. Wesley.	7841	Reilley vs. Reilley.
7104	Williams vs. Shell.	7842	Barber vs. Decker.
7552	Williamson vs. Shell.	7843	Monroe vs. Everard.
7535	Miller vs. Strauss.	7844	Oriental Powder Co. vs. Jackson.
7649	Fletch vs. Brennan.	7846	Belm vs. Smith.
7644	Wilkes vs. Ryan.	7848	Lieuman vs. Steinmetz.
7646	Wilters vs. Oliver.
7645	Barry vs. Coughlin.
7841	Nicolai vs. Mannus.

Part III.—Held by Joachimsen, J.—Court opens and Calendar called at 10 A. M.

Nos.		Nos.
6828	Caley vs. McCullough.	6822	McQuade vs. Dalger.
6416	Shepherd vs. Pratt.	6823	E. H. Nat. Bank vs. Hawkins.
6827	Vanderburg vs. Harlem.	1036	Crichton vs. Howe.
7497	Morgan vs. Price.	1035	Seabury vs. Howe.
		1036	Atwell vs. Hall.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Held by Recorder, J.

Nos.		Nos.
1—The People vs. John Sanders; violation of Election law.		2—The People vs. Patrick Quinn; violation of Election law.
2—The People vs. Wm. H. Martin; violation of Election law.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Held by Bedford, J.

Nos.		Nos.
1—The People vs. John Moore; burglary.		2—The People vs. Theodore Wilkins; grand larceny.
2—The People vs. Robert Smith; grand larceny.		1—The People vs. John Moore; larceny from the person.
		2—The People vs. William Simpson; selling obscene literature.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—JAN. 8.

By Judge Cardozo.

Muller vs. Schutzer; memorandum for counsel.

By Judge Barrett.

Gibney vs. Darling; not only is there no proof of corruption, but no just ground of suspicion; motion denied with $10 costs.

Christal et al. vs. Christal et al.; motion denied, no costs.

Tracy et al. vs. Altmayer, &c.; motion denied, with $10 costs.

Levy vs. Strauss; application denied.

Chisholm vs. Schmelzer et al.; memoranda for counsel.

Adams vs. Sherman; memoranda for counsel.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—JAN. 8.

By Chief-Justice Bartlett.

Allen vs. Allen; the summons must be annexed and proof of service as required by Rule of Court in No. 24.

De Wolf vs. Crandall; order granted.

Hornberger vs. Hornberger; motion for reference granted.

Cling vs. Pfinger; order granted.

Bryce vs. Lorillard; motion granted.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM—JAN. 8.

By Judge Loew.

Driscoll vs. McCabe; see memorandum for counsel.

Martin vs. Wallace; judgment for plaintiff ordered.

By Judge Larremore.

Smith vs. Cooley; see opinion.

Strong vs. Sproul; see opinion.

Ball vs. Davis; see memorandum for counsel.

KINGS COURT—SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

By Presiding Judge Barnard, and Judges Gilbert and Tappen.

First National Bank of Toledo, Ohio, vs. Leander B. Shaw et al.; judgment and order denying new trial affirmed with costs. Opinion by Justice TAPPEN, Judge GILBERT not sitting.

Theodore Howland vs. Henry T. Hamill; judgment and order denying new trial affirmed with costs. Opinion by Justices BARNARD and TAPPEN.

Warren Leland vs. Lawrence C. Woodruff et al.; judgment reversed and new trial granted as Special Term. Opinion by Justice BARNARD, Justice TAPPEN dissenting.

The People ex rel. Clarke vs. Thomas George, County Judge; order affirmed, without costs. Opinion by Justice TAPPEN, Justice BARNARD dissenting.

John L. Gulon vs. Rockland Lake Ice Company; judgment affirmed. Opinion by Justice GILBERT.

Teresa Mullen vs. Samuel R. St. John et al.; judgment and order denying new trial affirmed, with costs. Opinion by Justice TAPPEN.

Abraham J. Van Dyne et al. vs. Thomas McGuire; judgment affirmed with costs. Justice BARNARD dissenting.

Anna Mulvehill vs. Jane Thompson; judgment and order striking out order reversed; costs to abide event. Opinion by Justice TAPPEN.

Cornelius Van Amburg vs. Wm. Decker; judgment affirmed with costs.

Fishkill Landing Machine Company vs. Hudson River Foot Company; judgment modified, and affirmed as modified, without costs to either party on appeal. Opinion by Justice GILBERT, Justice BARNARD not sitting.

Joseph H. Campbell vs. George Birkbeck; judgment upon submitted case to be settled in accordance with opinion by Justice TAPPEN; order, no costs.

Brooklyn Trust Company vs. Sarah Ann Bulwer et al.; order reversed, with $10 costs.

Albert Cole vs. Wm. H. Tyler; judgment affirmed, with costs of appeal or of trial below. Opinion by Justice TAPPEN, Justice GILBERT not sitting.

Austin R. Penny vs. James Murray; judgment and order denying new trial reversed, and new trial granted, costs to abide event. Opinion by Justice GILBERT.

Albert T. Rand et al. vs.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

Sales at the Stock Exchange—Jan. 8.

FIRST BOARD.

$1,000 U. S. 6s, '81, C.	115¾	100 Con. Coal, of Md.	4
1,000 U. S. 6s, '81, C.	115¾	200 do.	4
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65	112⅝	200 Am. Exp. Co. P.	48
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65	112⅝	100 do.	48
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65	112⅝	25 Wells, Fargo Ex.	36¼
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '67	112⅝	50 U. S. Express.	47
10,000 do. do.	112⅝	100 N. Y. Cen. & H. R.	95⅝
1,000 U. S. 10-40 C.	110	200 N. Y. Cen. & H. R.	95⅝
1,000 Tenn. 6s, new	64	300 do.	95⅝
1,000 do.	63⅝	200 N. Y. Cen. & H. R.	95⅝
1,000 La. C. St. 6s, p.	70	Cash...bet. call.	21⅝
Jan. & July	72	100 do.	21⅝
1,000 do.	72⅝	200 Erie	22⅝
2,000 do.	72⅝	500 do.	22⅝
500 Mich. Cen. 8s	105	500 do.	22⅝
1,000 California 7s	101⅝	100 do.bot. call.	22⅝
1,000 N. Y. Cen. 6s '83	104	500 do.	22⅝
10,000 Cob. Pat. G. bds.	101	700 do.	22
1,000 do.	100⅝	500 do.	22⅝
10,000 Un. Pac. 1st M.	90⅝	100 Erie Pref.	52⅝
20,000 do.	90⅝	100 do.	52⅝
10,000 Un. Pac. 2d L. G.	78	100 do.	52⅝
1,000 CH.&N.W.s.f.'82	102⅝	700 U. S. & N. Sc. bds.	80
1,000 Ill. Cen. 8s, '90	107	Cash, ex div....	90⅝
4,000 Tol. A.&Wab.1st	101	500 do.	90⅝
3,000 Gt.W.1st M. '88	97⅝	82 Mich. Cen. bet. call	112
2,000 G.&M. 2d M.	92⅝	100 Panama	250
1,000 do.	92⅝	200 do.	250
1,000 Ga. & Cal. 1st	107	100 do.	76⅝
1,000 C.&R.I.&P. 7s, 1st	104⅝	200 do.	76⅝
1,000 Mor.&Ess.1st M.	105	200 Clev.&Pitts. Guar.	81⅝
1,000 P., Ft. W.&Chi.	101⅝	200 Chi. R. & N. W.	87⅝
1,000 do.	101⅝	100 do.	87⅝
1,000 Ohio & Miss. 2d	65	200 do.	87
2,000 St. L. & I.M. 1st	104	100 Chi.&R. I.... b.o.	107⅝
1,000 do.	104	100 do.	107⅝
4,000 N. J. Cen. M. D.	102	100 Mil. & St. P. Pref.	80⅝
1,000 C. C. & I. C. 1st	97	200 do.	80⅝
1,000 do. do.	92⅝	200 do.	80⅝
4,000 St. L. I. C. 1st	85	200 do.	80⅝
10,000 Maryland Coal Co.	28	200 Chi. & Alton R.	132
200 do.	28⅝	200 Morris & Essex R.	92⅝
200 Pacific M. Steam	31⅝	100 Col., Chi.&Ind. C.	71⅝
200 West. Un. Tel.	70⅝	100 do.	71⅝
100 do.	70⅝	100 do.	71⅝
100 do.	70⅝	100 Un. Pac. R. b. o.	29⅝
100 do.	70⅝	100 do.	29⅝
100 Pac. M. S.S. Co. b. o.	48⅝	100 Ohio & Miss. b. o.	65⅝
100 do.	48⅝	100 Tol., W.&W. b. o.	71⅝
100 Con. Coal of Md.	41	10 Central Ar. R.	8

SECOND BOARD.

$1,000 U. S. 6s, '81, C.	115⅝	200 Brunn. City L.	9
1,000 U. S. 6s, '81, C.	115⅝	200 Pac. Mail... b. o.	51⅝
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65	112⅝	100 do.	51⅝
1,000 do. do.	112⅝	100 N. Y. C. & H. R.	95⅝
10,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65	112⅝	bet. call	95⅝
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '65	112⅝	200 Erie	22⅝
2,000 do. do.	112⅝	100 do. bet. call	22⅝
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '67	112⅝	10 Erie Pref.	52⅝
1,000 do. do.	112⅝	200 U. S. & N. Sc. b. o.	80⅝
1,000 U. S. 5-20 C. '67	112⅝	100 do.	80⅝
1,000 U. S. 10-40 C.	110⅝	200 C. & Pitts.	81⅝
1,000 do.	110⅝	200 do. bet. call	80⅝
1,000 U. S. 10-40 C.	110⅝	200 do. b.o.	81⅝
1,000 Tenn. 6s, old	64	100 Chi. & N. W.	87⅝
16,000 Va. 6s, Con.	66	100 do.	87⅝
5,000 S. C. 6s, n. Ex.	70	10 do.	87⅝
5,000 do. Oct. b. o.	62	200 do. bet. call	87⅝
1,000 E. T. & Geo. 1st	93	100 do.	87⅝
2,000 Ga. C. & N. 2d C.	90	100 N. J. Cen.	102
2,000 U. Pac. 1st... b. o.	90⅝	15 N. J. Cen. Scrip	102
20,000 do. do.	90⅝	100 Mil. & St. Paul	80⅝
10 Iowa Div.	90	100 Tol., W.&W. b. o.	71⅝
40 Quicksilver	24⅝	200 P., Ft. W. & C. bn.	48
200 do.	24⅝	50 do.	48⅝
200 Con. Coal Md. b. o.	41⅝	100 Ind. Bloom. & W.	34⅝
100 do.	42	50 H. & St. Jos.	83⅝
100 West. U. Tel. b. o.	69⅝	100 Col., C. & I. C.	71⅝
100 do.	69⅝	100 Ohio & Miss. b. o.	65⅝

MONDAY, Jan. 8—P. M.

The Gold Room had the Spanish fever again today. The sales of Gold ran up to 109¾@109⅞ ⅌ cent. There was no general belief on the Street in the basis of the rise. Indeed there is no authentic information from Administration sources in Washington to justify the slightest apprehension of hostilities between the two Governments. But as Gold does not look dear in the light of the course of the market for a year or two past, the speculators for a rise are ready to hang their calculations upon the slightest appearance of political trouble at home or abroad. And this Spanish affair is of the very slightest.

In the Foreign Exchanges there was a fair demand for Bills on London at 109¾@109⅞ ⅌ cent. The comparatively light Exports of Cotton to the current Receipts at the ports, owing to the higher speculation in the trade on this side, tends, for the moment, to strengthen Exchange. The Cotton will have to go forward, however, in the usual proportion to the domestic consumption of the crop, and if speculation here should continue to delay the shipments to foreign markets, the compensation, so far as the Exchanges are concerned, will be found in the larger Exports through the Spring months.

Money, among the Stock Brokers, has declined to 7⅌ cent. Interest, which rate is charged, in some instances, as in Gold. The difference, with Gold under 110, is scarcely perceptible in carrying over Stocks.

The Railway speculation at the Stock Exchange faltered, in the forenoon, on easier money. There was some upward stir in Erie on the death of FISK, but more sellers than buyers appeared on the advance in price of 2⅝⅌ cent., and at the Second Board the sales stood 50⅝ as against 52⅝⅌ cent. on Saturday. Opinions differ as to how far the Erie scandal of the last three or four years is to be immediately qualified by the death of FISK. The London market evidently accepts the sudden event as a substantial cause of improvement. Here it is felt that while GOULD remains master of the road, the difference is less important. New-York Central, Reading and the Western Roads showed weakness through both sessions of the Exchange Board. Western Telegraph and Pacific Mail were also lower than at the close of last week. The Public Funds were steady, but the classes dealt in actively abroad, failed to respond to the rise of ¼⅌ cent. in gold.

After the late Board the following quotations were made, as compared with Saturday night. The Railroads were firm in the Hall of the Exchange, after the adjournment of the Board:

CLOSING PRICES—JAN. 8.	Saturday.	Monday.
United States New 5s	110	109⅞
U. S. 5-20s, '65, May and Nov	112⅝	112⅝
U. S. 5-20s, '67, Jan. and July	112⅝	112⅝
American Gold	109⅞	109⅞
Bills on London, 60 days	109⅞	109⅞
N. Y. Central & Hudson	96	96
N. Y. Cen. & Hud. Debt Ctfs.	93	91⅞
Reading	112⅝	112⅝
Chicago and Rock Island	108⅞	108⅞
North-west Common	68⅞	67⅞
North-west Preferred	86	87⅞
Pacific Mail	52⅝	52⅝
St. Paul Preferred	80⅞	80⅞
St. Paul Common	52⅝	52⅝
Ohio and Mississippi	46⅞	46⅞
Toledo and Wabash	72⅞	72⅞
Western Telegraph	70⅞	70⅞
Erie	52⅝	37⅞
Union Pacific	30⅞	30⅞
Lake Shore Ex Scrip	*90⅞	*90⅞
Lake Shore Scrip	88	88

* Ex Dividend.

Gold was weaker at the very close—109⅞@109⅞. The Railroad speculation left off strong.

The following are the last prices of the various Public Funds of the United States:

6⅌ cent. reg., '81	115⅝	5-20 reg., '67	111⅝
6⅌ cent. coup., '81	115⅝	5-20 coup., '67	112⅝
5⅌ reg., '67	110⅝	5-20 reg., '68	111⅝
5-20 coup., '62	110⅝	5-20 coup., '68	112⅝
5-20 reg., '64	110⅝	10-40 registered	109⅝
5-20 coup., '64	110⅝	10-40 coupon	109⅝
5-20 reg., '65	111⅝	6⅌ registered, '81	109⅝
5-20 coup., '65	112⅝	6⅌ coupon, '81	109⅝
5-20 coup., n. i., '65	110⅝	6⅌ currency	115⅝
5-20 coup., n. i., '65	111

The following are the bids at the Stock Exchange today for the City Bank Stocks:

New-York	325	Metropolitan	225
Manhattan	150	Shoe and Leather	50
Merchants'	117	Corn Exchange	122
Mechanics'	127	Commonwealth	95
America	145	Park	115
Phenix	75	St. Nicholas	98
State of New-York	107	Central National	60
Commerce	127⅝	First National	207
Ocean	19	Fourth National	104⅝
American Exchange	111⅝	National Gallatin	105
Pacific	180	Oriental	112
Bank of the Republic	115	Butchers' & Drovers'	60
Riverside	121

The last prices of the Miscellaneous Shares dealt in at the Exchange are as follows:

Del. & Hudson Canal	124	Quicksilver Min. Co.	24⅝
Maryland Coal Co.	9⅝	Adams Express	56⅝
Spring Mountain Coal	67⅝	Wells, Fargo Express	36⅝
Central R. R. Baltimore	74	American Express	47⅝
Consol. Coal of Md.	40⅝	United States Express	48⅝
W. U. Telegraph	70⅝	Pacific Mail S. S. Co.	52⅝

UNITED STATES TREASURY,
NEW-YORK, Jan. 8.

Gold receipts	$1,152,447 19
Gold disbursements	477,278 03
Gold balance	42,517,549 42
Currency receipts	506,287 15
Currency payments	612,549 26
Currency balance	2,000,000 00
Coin certificates	16,000 00

The Union Pacific Railroad Company report as follows of their earnings to the close of November:

	Nov., 1871.	Nov., 1870.
Earnings	$795,141 02	$570,161 11
Expenses	242,344 41	272,296 66
Net earnings	$552,796 61	$297,864 45
	Jan. 1 to Nov. 30, 1871.	Jan. 1 to Nov. 30, 1870.
Earnings	$7,661,700 11	$7,172,412 49
Expenses	3,222,122 46	3,166,110 46
Net earnings	$4,439,577 65	$3,946,301 03

The following were the earnings of the Pacific Railroad of Missouri:

Four weeks, December, 1871	$73,846
Four weeks, December, 1870	79,860
Decrease	$6,013
Year commencing March 1, 1871	$2,119,711
Year commencing March 1, 1870	2,036,697
Increase	$83,014

We regret to record the decease of Mr. HENRY A. HEISER, one of the old and active men of Wall-street in the Gold and Stock markets. He died on Sunday, (yesterday,) at the age of fifty-seven years, after an attack of pneumonia some three weeks since.

In the Pacific Road Mortgages there was a considerable business done, by private purchase, this afternoon, at 101¼ ⅌ cent. for Centrals, and 91¼ ⅌ cent. for Unions. For the Centrals at the close 101¼ ⅌ cent. Ex Dividend was demanded.

The Firemen's Trust Insurance Company have declared a semi-annual dividend of Five ⅌ cent.

The Merchants' Insurance Company of New-York City pay the usual semi-annual dividend of Ten ⅌ cent. on demand.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ ADVANTAGEOUS LOCATION OF RAILROADS.

One of the most important requisites for success in railroad enterprises is advantageous location, and this should always cover, so far as possible, populous and fertile sections of country, as air line, and a due regard to through and local traffic. The history of American railroads furnishes many striking examples of success, the most striking of which are those roads constructed in strict conformity with advantageous location in the most liberal sense. In surveying a route for the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD, the projectors of the enterprise, profiting by the experience of the past, were enabled to locate a line which combines the advantage of greatly decreasing the distance between the East and the Pacific States—thus insuring for the road a large through traffic—with a populous and fertile country. The line of the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD is from St. Joseph, on the Missouri River, to Fort Kearney, an important station on the Union Pacific Railroad. In the year 1869, HON. SCHUYLER COLFAX, THE PRESENT VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, recommended St. Joseph as the terminus of the Union Pacific Railroad. The rebellion soon afterward gained some headway, and deprived the State of Missouri—at that time a slave State of the advantages of having this road within its limits. If the rebellion had not occurred there is every reason to believe that the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD would have been the main line of the Union Pacific road. The city of St. Joseph is a great railroad centre, and has close railroad connections with the Missouri Valley, Hannibal, St. Louis, and Chicago, and consequently with the entire network of railroads in the United States. The ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD will shorten the distance from San Francisco to New-York one hundred miles by the way of St. Louis and two hundred miles by the way of Hannibal. Railroad statistics show that in the Fall, Winter and Spring months there is a strong tendency with travelers from the Pacific to the Atlantic to take what is known as a middle and consequently a milder route. It is safe, therefore, to estimate that a large percentage of the passengers now arriving at Omaha will take the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD at Fort Kearney. It is also the interest of the Southern lines of railroad to throw the business from East to West via St. Louis to St. Joseph, and thence by the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD to the Union Pacific at Fort Kearney. Passengers and freight naturally seek the shortest routes, and hence the future is satisfactory with success for the ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY. The land grant of the Company is 1,000,000 acres, located in Kansas and Nebraska, where the soil is most excellent for farming purposes. The prairie lands of Nebraska, which comprise a portion of this land grant, are extremely valuable, as their rolling formation effects a natural drainage for the surface water. These lands cannot be sold for less than four dollars per acre by the terms of the mortgage indentures, and all the proceeds of land sales are used in the PACIFIC LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY TO RETIRE THE BONDS OF THE ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY. The road is fast approaching completion, and work has scarcely been impeded this Winter by snow. We are now offering the remaining balance of the 8 PER CENT. GOLD FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND GRANT BONDS OF THE ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY, at 97½ and accrued interest in currency. The principal and interest are both payable in gold, the interest free of tax, in February and August of each year. To parties about making investments we would request a close scrutiny of this loan and its great surrounding safeguards.

We deal in the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Bonds the same as Government securities, and those of the Eastern Division, closed by our firm at 97½, are now quoted at 101½ to 102½ and accrued interest. This is important as indicating the confidence of investors in the safety of the loan and the future of the enterprise.

TANNER & CO.,
BANKERS, No. 11 Wall-street.

☞ THE DEMAND FOR THE PEORIA AND ROCK ISLAND FIRST MORTGAGE 7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS has been rapidly on the increase since the opening of the new year. Large sales have been made for cash and in exchange for 5-20s and other marketable securities. They are for less than $16,500 per mile on finished road, the net earnings of which are largely in excess of the interest on the whole issue. The Bonds are authorized for the extra equipment and necessary buildings required to accommodate the business now offered. We cheerfully recommend them to all investors. Price 90 and interest. Full particulars on application.

TURNER BROTHERS, No. 14 Nassau-st.

☞ A SMALL AMOUNT OF THE CHICAGO, DANVILLE AND VINCENNES RAILROAD FIRST MORTGAGE 7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS for sale at 80 and accrued interest in currency. The mortgage is for only $16,000 a mile, and the line is finished and doing a large business. Investors who desire a thoroughly safe bond on a completed road can obtain full particulars on application to

W. B. SHATTUCK & CO., Bankers,
No. 32 Nassau-street, New-York.

☞ NASHVILLE AND DECATUR RAILROAD COMPANY.—First Mortgage Seven per Cent. Sinking Fund Bonds, redeemable 1st July, 1900, principal and interest guaranteed by the LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD COMPANY, for sale at ninety and accrued interest from Jan. 1, by the

GALLATIN NATIONAL BANK,
No. 30 Wall-st.

☞ WEST WISCONSIN LAND GRANT SINKING FUND SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS for sale at 90 and interest in currency. To vestors who wish a perfectly safe bond on a finished road can obtain full particulars by applying to WHITE, MORRIS & CO., No. 16 Wall-street, and GWENNE, JOHNSON & DAY, No. 16 Wall-street.

☞ BURLINGTON, CEDAR RAPIDS AND MINNESOTA Seven per Cent. Gold Sinking Fund Bonds for sale at 82 and interest by HENRY CLEWS & CO., No. 32 Wall-st., New-York.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

IMPORTANT

TO

HOLDERS OF 5-20S AND INVESTORS.

GOLD 7-30 LOAN.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY offers to the public an unexampled security which combines the ready marketability, the convenient, and the high credit of a first-class railroad bond, with the solidity and safety of a real estate mortgage on land worth twice the amount loaned.

TRAFFIC.—As officially reported, the gross earnings of the present Pacific Railroad (Union and Central) for 1871, the second year of through business, (December earnings estimated,) reach seventeen millions and a quarter. Of this sixty-five per cent is upon local business, and, it is stated, fifty-five per cent., or nearly nine and a half millions, are net over operating expenses.

An equal traffic on the Northern Pacific Road will pay a dividend of more than 9½ per cent. on its total cost.

The lands of the Northern Pacific Road are benefited by all who have open them to be being and more valuable than those of most other grants, but, said at the general average of $7 an per acre, they will yield more than $21,000 per mile of road—more than three times the possible cost of construction and equipment; or, at the lowest average of any grant, ($2 87,) they will produce more than $7,000 per mile.

CONSTRUCTION.—The road is now completed across Minnesota (285 miles) and 65 miles are under construction on the Pacific coast. Including purchased lines, the Northern Pacific Company now has 675 miles of finished track. Contracts are let for the construction of 425 miles more, to be finished before the close of 1872.

The 7-30 GOLD BONDS of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company present the following leading features:

1. They are exempt from United States tax; the Principal and Interest are payable in gold—the Principal in thirty years, and the Interest semi-annually at the rate of 7 3-10 per cent. per annum. Denominations, from $100 to $10,000.

2. The bonds are a first and only mortgage on the Road, its Equipments and Earnings, and also on a Land Grant, averaging 32,000 acres to each mile of track.

3. They are at all times receivable at ten per cent. premium, (1 10,) in payment or exchange for the Company's Land at market prices—a provision which practically gives the holder the power of foreclosure at will.

4. The proceeds of all sales of land are required to be invested by the Trustees of the Bondholders, (Messrs. Jay Cooke and J. Edgar Thomson,) as a sinking fund to the purchase and cancellation of the first mortgage bonds or, temporarily, to the payment of interest thereon if necessary.

EXCHANGING 5-20s.—In view of the ability and fixed policy of the Government to pay in the one and substitute a low interest bond—$10,000,000 being now called in for cancellation since Sept. 1—many holders of 5-20s are exchanging them for Northern Pacifics, thus adding to their principal the second premium on Government Bonds, and increasing their yearly interest income nearly one-third.

All marketable stocks and bonds will be received at current prices in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties without expense to the investor.

JAY COOKE & CO.,

PHILADELPHIA, NEW-YORK AND WASHINGTON,
FINANCIAL AGENTS NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FOR SALE BY BANKS AND BANKERS GENERALLY.

☞ MIDLAND RAILROAD

FIRST MORTGAGE 7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS.

Limited to $30,000 per mile on finished road.

The rapid progress toward completion of this great Trunk Line from New-York to the West and to Canada, enables us to offer to investors at par and interest a further limited issue of these favorite securities.

Upward of 340 miles of this road, including the New-Jersey section, are already finished, equipped, and in operation; and contracts with responsible parties have been made for its entire completion by the first day of July next. When this shall have been accomplished its earnings cannot fail to be large and highly remunerative, as it has advantages at least equal to those of any of its competitors for both local and through business. It is building for cash, of which nearly $6,000,000 have been furnished by subscription to its stock of PAR. The work is substantial, and, including equipment, has not exceeded in cost $20,000 per mile, which is less than one-third of the amount at which some of the trunk lines of roads leading from New-York are capitalized, and on which they are paying gold dividends.

In view of these facts, the Midland First Mortgage Bonds must be regarded as a first-class security—quite as safe as Governments; and, by making the exchange at the present difference in price, holders of Midland Bonds will receive 35 per cent. more of revenue upon the amount invested than the holders of Government Bonds.

For sale or exchange for Governments at their market price, by GEORGE OPDYKE & CO., No. 25 Nassau-st.

☞ HOUSTON AND TEXAS CENTRAL RAILWAY COMPANY FIRST MORTGAGE LAND GRANT SINKING FUND SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS. Principal and interest payable in Gold at the National City Bank, New-York. These are in every respect first-class Bonds, and we confidently recommend them as an entirely safe investment. Price, 90 and accrued interest. Circulars and information may be obtained at our office.

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, No. 20 Wall-st.

☞ HOUSTON AND TEXAS CENTRAL RAILWAY.

FIRST MORTGAGE SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS.

For sale at 90 and interest by

ROBERT WINTHROP & CO., NO. 18 WALL-ST.

A liberal commission allowed to Bankers and Brokers.

☞ NOTICE.

Commercial paper signed L. ROBERTS & CO., No. 29 South-st., having been recently offered for sale, we hereby warn the public against purchasing the same upon the credit of our firm.

L. ROBERTS & CO.,
No. 17 South-st.

NEW-YORK,
Jan. 8, 1872.

☞ EDWARD HAIGHT & CO.,
BANKERS,
No. 9 Wall-st., New-York.
FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST allowed on daily balances and certificates of deposit.

NEW-YORK CATTLE MARKET.

NEW-YORK, Monday, Jan. 8, 1872.

Trade at Weehawken Yards on the forenoon of the death of Jim Fisk, President of the Erie Railroad. The arrivals were small, and the quality mostly with some poor lots at the tail end of the market. On the information at the Metropolitan and Vail's, twelve hundred Cattle was good; quality ranged from common to prime; prices ranged from 9c. @9¾c. ⅌ lb. with only lots held for advanced rates; weights from 1¼ cwt. to 1¾ cwt. at 6¾ lbs. to of lbs. to the cwt. and Milch Cows have fallen since last week, per Cows and Calves from $65 to $75 ⅌ head; fair quality Cows from $60 ⅌ head. Veals from 7c. @9¼c. ⅌ lb. Sheep brisk, from 7c. @7½c. ⅌ lb. Lambs from 8c. @8½c. ⅌ lb. Swine have ruled firm at 5c. @5½c. ⅌ lb. Sold on several terms or direct by shippers to slaughterers.

SALES.

T. SWIFT sold for self 28 Steers, Illinois, from common to fine, at 9c. @9½c. ⅌ lb., weight from 1 cwt. to 1½ cwt.

W. L. THOMPSON sold for self 42 Steers, Illinois, from fair to fine, at 9¼c. @9½c. ⅌ lb., weight from 1 cwt. to 1 cwt.; 117 Steers, Missouri, from common to good, from 9c. @9½c. ⅌ lb., weights from 1¼ cwt. to 1 cwt.; 65 Steers, Kentucky, choice Cattle, at 9½c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

T. C. HARTMAN sold for ALEXANDER MANN 58 Steers, Illinois, nice Cattle, from 10c. @10¼c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

P. SHIVELY sold for himself 20 Steers, Illinois, from 10 @10½c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

BURGHARD & MERRITT sold for selves 38 Steers, Illinois common cattle, at 10¼c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.; also 24 Steers, Illinois choice cattle, from 12c. @12½c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

J. HEALY sold for self 52 Steers, Illinois common cattle, at 10¼c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

J. & D. WAKELY sold for selves 207 Steers, Illinois medium cattle, from 10¼c. @11½c. ⅌ lb., weight from 1¼ cwt. to 1¾ cwt.

R. R. GLOVER sold for self 24 Steers, Illinois choice cattle, from 12c. @12½c. ⅌ lb., weight 1 cwt.

J. GILLIES sold for self 57 Steers, Illinois common cattle, at 10¼c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

J. RUSH sold for self 18 Steers, Illinois common cattle, at 10¼c. ⅌ lb., weight 7 cwt., extra again, 20 Steers, Illinois poor cattle, at 9c. ⅌ lb., weight 1¼ cwt.

FORTY-EIGHTH-STREET SHEET MARKET.

J. RUSH sold for self 60 Sheep, weight range lbs. at 7c. ⅌ cwt.; 142 Sheep, weight 10,200 lbs., at 7¼c. ⅌ lb.; 40 Sheep, weight 1,600 lbs., at 7½c. ⅌ lb.; 100 Sheep, weight 8,000 lbs., at 7½c. ⅌ lb. HUNT & ELLIOTT sold for selves 200 Sheep, weight 16,000 lbs., at 7½c. ⅌ lb.; 200 Sheep, weight 16,000 lbs., at 7½c. ⅌ lb.; 200 Sheep, mixed Canada Sheep and Lambs, weight 16,000 lbs., at 7½c. ⅌ lb.; 200 Sheep, weight 16,000 lbs., at 7½c. ⅌ lb.; 128 Canada Lambs, weight 10,000 lbs., at 8c. ⅌ lb.; 128 Canada Lambs, weight 10,000 lbs., at 8c. ⅌ lb. Sheep and Lambs for week ending Jan. 6, 1872, 4,164 Sheep and Lambs, 330 Veals, 13 head of horned Cattle, 12 Cows.

BOSTON.

Gross arrivals at Cow Hundred-street yards for week ending Jan. 6, 1872, 1,200 Beef Cattle, 75 Cattle, 4 Cows, 4 Veals, Western stock; 114 head of horned Cattle, 50 Cows, Western and Canada, local stock.

Gross arrivals at Forty-eighth-street yards for week ending Jan. 6, 1872, 7,000 Sheep and Lambs, 350 Veals, 13 head of horned Cattle, 12 Cows.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—FLOUR quiet and unchanged. WHEAT unsettled and lower; No. 2 Spring, $1 27@$1 28 cash, $1 27 bid, $1 28¼ asked, $1 28¼ offered, and $1 27 seller February, $1 28 seller March, and $1 28½ seller April, closing at $1 28 bid, $1 28¼ asked, $1 28¼ offered, and $1 28¼ seller March; No. 3 Spring, 91c. @92c. CORN dull and a shade lower; sales at 47c. @47½c. seller February, 47½c. seller March, and 48c. seller May. OATS dull and lower; sales at 31c. @31½c. seller February, 31½c. seller March, and 32½c. seller May. RYE dull and lower; sales at 54c. seller February. BARLEY dull and lower; sales at $1 50@$1 55 for Spring, $1 55 seller February, and $1 60@$1 62½ seller April, $1 62½@$1 65 seller May. PORK dull and lower; sales at $14 50@$14 75 seller February. LARD dull and a shade lower; sales at 8¼c. seller February, 8½c. seller March, and 8¾c. seller May. BULK MEAT in fair demand and lower; sales at 7¾c. for Shoulders, 8¼c. @8¾c. for Short Rib Middles, 8¼c. @8¾c. for Clear Rib and Clear Sides. BACON firm and lower; sales at 8¾c. for Shoulders, 9¾c. @9¾c. for Short Rib Middles, 9¾c. @10c. for Clear Rib and Clear Sides. WHISKEY dull and lower; sales at $1 20@$1 21 ⅌ gallon. Receipts—Flour, 6,000 bbls. Wheat, 19,000 bushels. Corn, 87,000 bushels. Oats, 48,000 bushels. Rye, 4,000 bushels. Barley, 14,000 bushels. Hogs, 33,000 bushels. Pork, 1,000 barrels. Lard, 1,000 tcs. Whisky, 1,000 gallons. Shipments—Flour, 2,000 bbls. Wheat, 12,000 bushels. Corn, 11,000 bushels. Oats, 5,000 bushels. Rye, 1,000 bushels. Barley, 4,000 bushels. Hogs, 33,000 bushels. Pork, 1,000 barrels. Lard, 1,000 tcs. Whisky, 1,000 gallons. Freights—Flour, 3½c. Wheat, 3½c. Corn, 3½c. Rye, 4c. Barley, 4c. Hogs, 40c. Pork, 40c. Lard, 40c. Whisky, 40c.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8.—FLOUR and GRAIN unchanged. PORK—Full prices asked but no demand; sales at $14 50. LARD—Demand light; holders firm; sales at 8c. BULK MEAT—Demand light; holders firm; shoulders, 5¾c.; Sides, 6¼c. @6½c. BACON—Demand light; holders firm; Shoulders, 6¾c.; Clear Rib and Clear Sides, 7¾c. @7½c. Live Hogs in fair demand; common, $4 50@$4 65; prime, $4 80@$4 85. WHISKY steady at 90c.

SAVANNAH, Jan. 8.—COTTON active at full prices; Middling, 20¼c. @20½c.; net receipts, 3,201 bales; exports to Great Britain, 3,084 bales; to Barcelona, 200 bales; consumed, 1,985 bales; sales, 2,700 bales; stock, 185,000 bales.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 8.—WHEAT—Nothing done. RYE and CORN neglected. BARLEY firm; sales, 2,000 No. 2 Canada at $1 60, being an advance of 2c. OATS unchanged; sales, 2 cars No. 2 State at 53c.

NEW-ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—COTTON active and higher; Middling, 20¼c. @20¾c.; net receipts, 7,342 bales; gross, 8,613 bales; exports to Continent, 1,000 bales; sales, 1,600 bales; stock, 199,000 bales.

GALVESTON, Jan. 8.—COTTON firm; Good Ordinary, 19¾c. @20½c.; net receipts, 1,336 bales; exports to Great Britain, 2,637 bales; coastwise, 134 bales; sales, 1,000 bales; stock, 42,961 bales.

MOBILE, Jan. 8.—COTTON strong; Middling, 20¼c.; net receipts, 1,116 bales; exports to Great Britain, 2,328 bales; sales, 2,000 bales; stock, 37,000 bales.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 8.—COTTON strong; Middling, 20¼c.; net receipts, 1,700 bales; exports, coastwise, 1,816 bales; sales, 500 bales; stock, 21,142 bales.

AUGUSTA, Jan. 8.—COTTON strong; Middling, 20¼c.; receipts, 370 bales; sales, 300 bales.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

LONDON, Jan. 8—11½ A. M.—Consols opened at 92⅞ for money and 92⅞ for the account. United States 5-20 Bonds, 1862, 87; 1865, old, 88⅞; 1867, 88⅞; 10-40s, 81⅞.

NOON.—Consols for money, 92⅞; for the account, 92⅞@92¾. United States 5-20 Bonds, 88⅞ for the old issue of 1865; 1867, 88⅞.

1½ P. M.—Consols for money, 92⅞; for the account, 92⅞.

4 P. M.—Consols closed at 92⅞ for money and the account. United States Bonds closed—5-20s of 1862, 88; 1865, old, 88⅞; 1867, 88⅞; 10-40s, 81⅞.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 8—10¼ A. M.—COTTON advancing. Middling Uplands, 10¼d.@10½d.; Middling Orleans, 10¼d.@10½d. The sales of the day are estimated at 20,000 bales, including 2,000 for export and speculation.

2 P. M.—SHARE MARKET.—The market is firm. Wheat, 12s. ⅌ cental for California White; 11s. 6d. @12s. 3d. for Red ⅌ cental Spring, and 12s. 1d. for Red Winter. Flour, 35s. ⅌ bbl. for Western Canal.

4 P. M.—COTTON closed strong; Middling Uplands, 10¼d.; Middling Orleans, 10¼d. The sales of the day are now estimated at 20,000 bales for speculation and export. Sales of Cotton, on the spot, from New-Orleans at 10¼d. PETROLEUM—Refined, 17½d. RESIN—Common, 12s. 3d.@12s. 6d.

SWINDON, Jan. 8—3 P. M.—TALLOW, 48s. 6d. Spirits TURPENTINE, 28s. 6d.

HAVANA, Jan. 8.—The SUGAR market is nominal for all classes suited for Spain and the United States, owing to the scanty receipts (not to surplus of tonnage, as incorrectly stated the steamer dispatch;) quotations are unchanged. Muscovado Sugar—Fair to good Refining, 8¼@9 reals. FREIGHTS are firmer, but not notably higher.

Quarantine Abuses—Meeting of the Joint Committee.

The Joint Committee on Quarantine Abuses held a secret session yesterday, in the Chamber of Commerce. The principal object of the meeting was to frame the draft of a new Quarantine law, which is intended to cover all the existing abuses to which the merchants and ship-owners of this port are subjected. A subcommittee was formed to complete the undertaking, and when ready to present it to the Legislature at Albany. The report of the

The New-York Times.

NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, JAN. 9, 1872.

Amusements This Evening.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—No THOROUGHFARE—Mr. Florence and Miss Lizzie Price.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.—JULIUS CÆSAR—Mr. Edwin Booth.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—JOSE GARTH—Mr. Lester Wallack.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—HUMPTY DUMPTY—Mr. G. L. Fox and Kirsky Troupe.

ST. JAMES THEATRE.—MONALDI.—Mr. James Steele Mackay.

FIFTH-AVENUE THEATRE.—DIVORCE—Characters by company.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—THE BLACK CROOK—Miss Kate Santley.

UNION-SQUARE THEATRE.—VARIETY PERFORMANCE.

LINA EDWIN'S THEATRE.—BARBE BLEUE, (Opera Bouffe.)—Mlle. Aimee.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.—DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE AND CURIOSITIES—Afternoon and Evening.

NEW-YORK CIRCUS.—EQUESTRIAN, GYMNASTIC AND ATHLETIC FEATS.

BRYANT'S OPERA-HOUSE.—NEGRO MINSTRELSY—FARCES.

STEINWAY HALL.—SYMPHONY and POPULAR CONCERT by Theodore Thomas' Orchestra.

ST. PETER'S HALL.—LECTURE by Miss Anna E. Dickinson.

The New-York Times.

The utmost care will be devoted to gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. This department of the paper will be unusually full and trustworthy. Renewed enterprise will be exhibited in every department of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS

The DAILY TIMES, per annum, including the Sunday Edition.....$12
The DAILY TIMES, per annum, exclusive of the Sunday Edition.....10
The Sunday Edition, per annum.....2
The SEMI-WEEKLY, per annum.....4
The SEMI-WEEKLY, two copies, one year.....8
The SEMI-WEEKLY, ten copies one year, (an extra copy to getter-up of club).....32
The WEEKLY TIMES, per annum.....2
The WEEKLY TIMES, five copies, one year.....8
The WEEKLY TIMES, ten copies, one year, (an extra copy to getter-up of club).....15
The WEEKLY TIMES, twenty copies, one year, (an extra copy to getter-up of club).....28
The WEEKLY TIMES, fifty copies, one year.....65
The EUROPEAN EDITION, per annum.....3
The SEMI-WEEKLY and WEEKLY mailed one year to clergymen at the lowest club rates.

Subscriptions to either of our editions received for a less length of time than one year at the yearly rate.

Additions may be made to clubs at club rates.

These prices are invariable. Remit in drafts on New-York or Post-office Money Orders if possible and when neither of these can be procured send the money in a registered letter.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES,
New-York City.

Notice.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot under any circumstances return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

☞ Advertisements for the WEEKLY TIMES must be handed in before 10 o'clock this evening.

To Advertisers.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the TIMES will be received at No. 54 West 23d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av., and No. 1,291 Broadway, between 30th and 31st sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The NEW-YORK TIMES has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 44 Court-st. opposite the City Hall, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

"D." sends us $2 for the Children's Aid Society, and "E. M." $5. The Society—having been robbed of thirty thousand dollars by the Ring—continues to be in great need of assistance, and we trust our readers will come generously to its support. In this inclement weather, the poor children require clothing and food, which, this year, can only be obtained by the voluntary contributions of the public.

A failure to draw out even one-half of a thin House in favor of repealing the income tax was a feature of yesterday's Congressional proceedings. Opposition to the repeal taking precedence in the programme of tax legislation came from the revenue reformers. Yet that the income tax is a clumsy, unproductive, unequal tax—nearly everything that a tax should not be, and hardly anything that it should be—is proved by experience, and is generally admitted. Its remains might as well be buried at once.

It will be seen from our Washington dispatches that the Civil Service Committee of the House is prepared to go beyond, if not contrary to, the views of the Civil Service Commission. In the bill reported by Mr. WILLARD, of Vermont, (one of its members,) yesterday, the rules of the Commission are adopted in the form of law, and two new features are added: 1. The tenure of all officers not appointed for a defined term is held to be for good behavior, and removals are prohibited except for misconduct, inefficiency, or like cause. 2. All officers in the civil service are prohibited from taking part in the business of electioneering, or attempting to interfere in any way in the election of officers in the State or Federal Governments. We doubt both the expediency and the constitutionality of both these features. The power of removal by the President is one which may with some great advantages be left in his hands, so long as the selection of successors, in case of removal, is limited to persons properly qualified. The participation in "electioneering" is a vague act, and one which it would be almost impossible to define; and it is one, moreover, which Congress would find hard work to punish in the case of office-holders without infringing some rights which are held very tenaciously in this country.

We would direct attention to the circular, published in another column, signed by the members of the Committee of Seventy's Subcommittee on Frauds. It invites all who have any complaints to make concerning fraudulent practices in the past and present administration of affairs in the public offices or in the Courts of this City, to communicate either in person or writing with the members of the Committee or their counsel. We trust that people who have been swindled by City officials, or who have suffered from the corrupt practices of City Judges, will at once respond to the call of the Committee. We hope that Mr. GREELEY's estimate of the moral courage of the citizens of New-York is the reverse of the true one, and that no fear of ulterior consequences will deter anybody from coming boldly forward and telling all they know about the details of local corruption.

Senator Schurz's Apology.

We have now heard what Senator SCHURZ has to say for himself, and lest anybody should suppose that there is something in his defense which we are not willing to face, we print a verbatim report of his speech, and ask no greater favor than that the public will read it carefully, and decide for themselves whether we have done any injustice to the man who goes about boasting that he carries the Germans of the West in his breeches' pocket, and has used that influence over and over again to obtain offices for his friends. The first plea put in by SCHURZ is—everybody will anticipate it—that he is an "injured innocent." Having done what he can to bring the Government of this country into disrepute all over the world, he turns round at the first criticism upon himself, and says, "Am I to be persecuted? Look at me—I am being hounded down. I ask for protection. Am I not to have the liberty of uttering slanders without being contradicted?" Here is a man who claims and exercises the most unlimited freedom of passing judgment on the acts and motives of others, and who at the same time demands absolute protection from criticism himself. He asks for a roving commission to calumniate any one against whom he happens to bear a grudge, and then when his own acts are exposed to public view, he runs away whining, and says, "Don't strike at me. It was the other boy that threw the stone. I am above and beyond vulgar criticism." Senator SCHURZ ought to have found out by this time that the American people will forgive almost any fault sooner than want of truthfulness and courage in a public man. He who strikes must expect to be struck in return, and ought not to go about crying piteously for some one to protect him.

So much for the first point. In the second place, Mr. SCHURZ says that we have attacked him because we are the "organ of the Administration." We shall not take the trouble to defend ourselves against such a man as SCHURZ—but this we may say, that any support the Administration gets from us is rendered from an honest and a conscientious conviction that the Administration is in the main a good one; and that the President is a much better and safer man to have at the head of affairs than the charlatans and mountebanks who have thus far appeared in the field as his rivals. We owe no favors to the Administration, and it owes none to us. We have never asked the Administration for anything, and it has never given us anything—and if Senator SCHURZ could say as much, his position before the country would be stronger than it is today. We do not consider it a disgraceful thing to assist in maintaining the dignity and credit of the Government of this country. Senator SCHURZ tries to lower it in the opinion of our own citizens and of all foreign Powers. We leave him to pursue his course, and we shall pursue ours—time will decide which course is right.

Observe that Senator SCHURZ has never addressed himself to criticisms upon the public policy of the President, which is a perfectly fair subject for animadversion on the one hand or for praise on the other. He goes beyond this, and makes attacks on the President's private character which, to begin with, no honorable man would make, which are intrinsically false and scandalous, and which are simply calculated to injure and lower the character of the nation in the eyes of all observers. If Senator SCHURZ objected to President GRANT's public acts, it would be another thing—but he has held up the President to contempt as a corrupt man, and as using his office for the promotion of his own private purposes—and we say that in doing this he convicts himself as a reckless demagogue, and forfeits his claim to be treated as an ordinary political opponent. Anybody who charges the President with dishonesty we believe to be a cowardly slanderer—and if we can be proved to be wrong, we will frankly admit it—and concede at the same time that SCHURZ is an honest and a patriotic citizen, which at present we are by no means prepared to admit.

The specific charges against SCHURZ remain unshaken. We said that he exacted heavy fees for making Republican speeches in 1869. In answer to this he says that he neglected his private affairs in 1869; that he was surrounded in consequence by "disagreeable embarrassments;" that he made "painful sacrifices,"—poor man!—that he "protected himself in a moderate way." &c., &c. If this does not amount to a full confession, Senator SCHURZ's ingenuity is at fault—for he seems to have been bent on making a confession. Again, he admits that he supported an improper nomination to office because he "was a young Senator," and because he thought "it was proper to take care of constituents." But is not that the very principle which he now so furiously denounces? How can civil service reform be carried out if every Senator's first aim is, not to study the interests of the public service, but to "take care of constituents?" Does not SCHURZ see that in making this admission he is hanging a millstone round his own neck? Then we said that he recommended the appointment of Mr. JUESSEN, of Chicago, (his brother-in-law,) to office. His answer to this is twofold: he didn't and he did. He did not speak for JUESSEN, but he signed a paper "indorsing" him, and urged in addition that the "large German element of Chicago were entitled to recognition." What more could he have done?

It is in this "German element" that SCHURZ finds all his political capital. He uses it as a bugbear with which to terrify opponents, and to extort from successive Administrations everything he may chance to want. Read his defense of the Juessen business. See if that defense is not a full admission of the particular charge brought against him. But this is not all. SCHURZ has been a hanger-on at the White House for months together for political appointments, most of them of an improper kind, and when they were refused, and not till then, he became the ardent "reformer" we now behold him. No amount of wild contradiction can disprove these facts. If, indeed, SCHURZ were the best representative of the "German element" that could be found, it would be a bad sign for that important element. But he only uses the "German element" as a ladder on which he can himself rise to power, and he would have no more scruple in kicking that down when he had accomplished his object, than he has had in concocting libels against all who have hitherto befriended him in his strange and adventurous career. Is this the sort of man who has a right to ask for some sacred shield to protect him from adverse criticism?

Will the Legislature Save Us from Bankruptcy?

It should be understood by members of the Legislature that if that portion at least of Senator BENEDICT's bill, authorizing the immediate issue of some six millions of bonds, be not passed, the City will be bankrupt in open market, and an immense injury will be done to the public credit. Mr. GREEN must have that amount of money within a week, or the debt falling due cannot be met, and the great City of New-York will stand before the world as repudiating its obligations. He has, it is true, in the Treasury now, more than the above sum, but the law does not authorize him to appropriate those moneys to this debt, and Mr. GREEN is the last man to desire to transcend the law for the sake of a temporary advantage.

Our legislators must bear in mind that this embarrassed condition of our finances is a legacy of the Ring. They spent the money before they got it, and stole at least thirty millions. The City is left by them on the verge of utter bankruptcy. There is nothing now to do but to borrow, in order to meet the pressing obligations of the Treasury. Besides this debt of six millions falling due this month, Mr. GREEN has to make up the deficits which those able financiers of last year have left in every Department.

As we have often explained, one of the "moral spectacles" afforded us by the Ring was the self-sacrificing and noble spirit manifested by the head of each Department in making his estimates for the year last Spring. Mr. HALL cut down half the expenses of his office; Mr. TWEED reduced his estimates fifty per cent.; Mr. CONNOLLY his at the same ratio. The Board of Charities were suddenly cut down four hundred thousand; the Board of Education were diminished a like amount, and the Parks were put on half rations in similar manner. All this produced a profound moral effect on the community, as a grand spectacle of economy and reduction of unnecessary expenditure. But it was merely a stage effect. Behind the scenes, the noble TWEED and high-minded SWEENY and self-sacrificing CONNOLLY prepared to issue unlimited bonds to make up for what they did not receive from the Board of Apportionment. The more honest Boards, however, were left in the lurch. Thus it happened that the Parks were not embarrassed by this spectacular performance at all. Wherever they had money to pay out they simply issued a bond; so Messrs. HILTON and SWEENY got rid of six millions purely by bonds in one year.

Mr. TWEED, in like manner, had unlimited bonds to fall back upon in his Public Works. On the other hand, the Board of Education and the Board of Charities had to borrow in order "to run" their Departments; and now it appears the Board of Police is in the same predicament. The consequence is that each of these great and vital Departments is some half million of dollars in arrears. If they are not soon aided by the Legislature, they will be thrown into great embarrassment. Banks or private individuals will not lend much longer on such doubtful securities. These most important operations for the welfare of the City will soon be clogged or stopped if help be not afforded. Already teachers are unpaid, agents live on credit, provisions in our almshouses are scarce; everything about the schools, and prisons, and asylums is in confusion because there is no money to meet the bills. Thus far everything has gone "on tick," but this cannot last long; and all these great interests must be helped, or great disasters may ensue. To add still further to the confusion, the Police find themselves cheated out of some four hundred thousand dollars by the Ring—probably appropriated for carpets, arm-chairs, and thermometers in the new Court-house. The policemen and City officers, of course, cannot live long on credit, and there is danger of throwing this whole body into disorder by withdrawing their pay. All the contracts, too, for street-cleaning, removing night-soil, and the like are unsettled, and if this continues we may soon find even the last pretense of cleaning the streets given up, and the City left exposed to pestilence. So with the rents of City offices, and even the salaries of the officials in Mr. GREEN's bureau and other bureaus—they are all left unpaid.

And last, but not least, the humble but most useful charities, which derived a portion of their support by law from City appropriations, are left in debt for the amounts due them. For all these debts of the City, Mr. GREEN calls for $4,500,000 more of bonds, yielding seven per cent. interest, and payable within two years, at the discretion of the Controller. There are thus required immediately over $110,000,000 of bonds to meet the indebtedness. The Legislature should not hesitate to authorize the issue of them by Mr. GREEN. The whole intelligent public here, of all parties, are in favor of it. There is unbounded confidence in Mr. GREEN. No man could be found to whom this City would more willingly intrust this large pecuniary responsibility. The banks have great faith in him, and the masses still more faith. Some one must be authorized to borrow money to get us out of the slough of bankruptcy where the Ring has left us. Who is better adapted for this than Mr. GREEN? We most earnestly entreat the Republican members of the Legislature to have no fears, because of Mr. GREEN's political views, at giving him this great power. The only thing which can injure our party here is to let partisan feeling counterbalance regard for the public good. First of all, let us get out of debt.

Mr. Fenton as a Reformer.

The junior Senator from New-York yesterday called up his bill to regulate the Customs' service, and after explaining its provisions, he took occasion to preach an elaborate sermon on the necessity of civil service reform. It is not necessary to recite here the arguments of which Mr. FENTON made use to sustain the reform. As he found it necessary to borrow a simile from one of Mr. SUMNER's old orations to sum up his case, so he was compelled to borrow from other speakers and writers the burden of his case. We find little in his speech—if we except some characteristic insinuations against the objects of his political enmity—with which the newspaper reader of the day is not familiar. But we are not on that account going to quarrel with Mr. FENTON's late-born zeal for civil service reform. If he is not original in his statements, it is because he came tardily into the field, and we ought to be thankful enough to find a gentleman of Mr. FENTON's antecedents asking for reform, without objecting to the novelty of his subject matter. It is an old maxim that we should not look a gift horse in the mouth, and anything more absolutely gratuitous than Mr. FENTON as a reformer we do not know of.

We are sorry to see that Mr. FENTON, like other distinguished reformers, does not entirely approve of the "particular measure" which he is kind enough to speak well of the President for inaugurating. He prefers a little reform of his own, relating to Custom-houses; and, as three-fourths of the Customs' revenue is collected in New-York, relating, of course, especially to the New-York Custom-house. This is not unnatural in Mr. FENTON, who, as Mr. GREELEY takes pains to continually assert, has really played a very losing game in the New-York Custom-house. And perhaps it is as well for the Senator, who is rather fresh in the matter of reform, not to undertake any more than a limited field at first. By and by, when he gains courage, he may be trusted to go further, for we frankly believe that there is very little in the form of perversion, corruption, "personalism," and betrayal of political trusts that Mr. FENTON might not undertake to reform, with at least one qualification for the task—an intimate knowledge of the modus operandi.

It is on this account particularly that we receive Mr. FENTON's accession to the ranks of proposed reformers with unqualified satisfaction. If he were, for instance, to be summoned in his new character, to give the benefit of his personal experience to the Committee to which Mr. Senator EDMUNDS' Civil Service bill is referred, how much he could tell of the "mischievous personalism," which is apparent in New-York appointments, and the demoralizing effect it has had in various quarters! He would first, of course, define "mischievous personalism," as the personalism which preferred some other person's recommendations to his own—he would then show how the existence of this preference had worked in New-York. He would point out that it had made at least one prominent journal a common scold, whenever the subject of Mr. FENTON's misfortunes was broached in its columns.

Our readers will see that there are a great many ways in which Mr. FENTON in his role as a reformer could be exceedingly useful. He could explain more confidently than any one we know of the manifold phases of breach of trust which the conversion of the civil service into an instrument of personal ambition produces. His experience would easily afford instances in which it has found apparently reputable men in dishonorable bargains, bringing Governors of States into intimate association with scoundrels and political pimps, and foisting on the people in high offices men whose thin varnish of amiable manners and correct deportment covered the acts of a conscienceless corruptionist, and a wily, hypocritical demagogue.

We believe, in point of fact, that it is in this direction—that of giving information which he can personally vouch for—that Mr. FENTON's fame as a reformer must be made. He may not seek it there. He may content himself with repeating stale platitudes by rote about the condition of the civil service, rounding them off with a rhetorical flourish borrowed from the Massachusetts Senator. But the novelty of this will soon wear off. People will expect him to do something, and what could he do more startling than to tell the country through the Senate all of What he Knows about Political Corruption?

The "Gum" and the "Jim."

Every one who wished to see the Custom-house Committee reach any satisfactory or even intelligible result of their investigations, will applaud the suggestion made by Senator HOWE, that for the future it would be well not to examine at length witnesses who could only testify on hearsay. Four hours were spent yesterday in examining a newspaper editor with no other result save a formidable list of references to people who were considered likely to furnish information of their own knowledge. Whether this much of the testimony will repay the time devoted to it, can only be ascertained when the witnesses indicated are forthcoming. Half an hour would certainly have sufficed to discover all that Mr. REID knew which was worth hearing, and the remaining three and a half hours of his examination were obviously wasted. Were every witness to have the same freedom to retail public gossip, and loosely-worded reports, the Committee might, like its predecessor of a year ago, stir up a good deal of dirt, but would fail as ignominiously as Senator PATTERSON and his colleagues did, in making any practical suggestions, or in satisfying either the public or the merchants of New-York. The fact is, people are sick of the whole controversy, as regarded from the politicians' point of view. It is patriotic evident that the man who takes exception to certain removals have just as laudable a conception of the dignity of the public service as that which they assume to have inspired the officials of whom they complain. The people see clearly enough that while party allegiance and political usefulness remain the tests for admission into the service of the Government, the appointing powers must be conceded to be the only admissible judge of these qualifications. If the unearthing of all the miserable squabbles between the "cats" and the "ins" of the party serves ANY PURPOSE at all, it is to deepen the impression that if the President had waited for the politicians to begin the reign of civil service reform, we should never have had it at all.

The report of Senator PATTERSON's Committee contains the following admissions with regard to accusations against the integrity of men employed in the Custom-house: "These are chronic evils, which have come down through so many years, and are so thoroughly intrenched in the practice of the Custom-house as to impress the Committee with the belief that though they may be partially removed by an able and honest Administration, they cannot be wholly eradicated until public offices shall cease to be administered in the interests of politics, and men shall be appointed to office on account of their integrity and capacity to fulfill the duties devolving upon them as public officials. * * * * Abuses and frauds are inevitable in the conduct of public affairs, and can only be discovered and removed by constant vigilance and earnest endeavor. This, we know, is the fixed purpose of this Administration, and we confidently believe it will exert all its power to complete the work of reform which it has so auspiciously begun." Senators PATTERSON and SCHURZ may have changed their opinions since last March, but the people will subscribe, if anything, more readily to these sentiments than they did then. The President has taken a bold and honest step in advance, and Senators who were loud in their professions of attachment to civil service reform have done nothing save to snarl at his heels. Every fresh day's evidence before the present Committee brings out more prominently how contemptible is the animus which underlies the political clamor about the Custom-house. All sorts of innuendoes and one-sided inferences are freely used in the service of those who are out, to defame the character and question the motives of those who are in. People who worked for JOHN V. GREELEY are assumed to be disinterested patriots and Republicans of undoubted fealty, while those who doubted the utility of such service must necessarily have been actuated by the basest intentions. Mysterious nods, shrugs, and whisperings from inflated busybodies, like Mr. JOHN LINDSAY, are made the groundwork for broad and sweeping charges, and it is freely assumed that the highest officials in the Custom-house will purjure themselves, if need be, to break the force of allegations made against them. Of all this kind of evidence the public are heartily tired, and a rigid enforcement of Senator HOWE's rule will, we trust, lead to some more tangible indications of the direction which must be taken by practical reforms than any that have yet been obtained.

The Insurance Department.

We call the attention of our readers to the communication in another column, referring to the management of the Insurance Department of this State. We have been so often assailed in certain quarters for daring to question the motives which have prompted the Superintendent's policy, that we were beginning to think the officers of the companies themselves did not desire too close a scrutiny into his official action; and when their whitewashing testimonial appeared last week, with one hundred and seventy signatures attached, we predicted that before many months the signers would find themselves in the same category with JOHN JACOB ASTOR & Co.

We confess to little sympathy for these misguided Presidents and Secretaries, now that they are beginning to see where their seal for Mr. MILLER is leading them; and our correspondent evidently feels that they have helped to forge their own fetters, for Mr. MILLER would have hardly dared to frame so obnoxious a blank, and bolster it by so despotic a law, if he had not felt assured that the companies, by their own action, had placed themselves in his power. The countryman in the fable, who went into the woods to get a handle for his hatchet, was graciously assisted by all the trees of the forest, and a stout ash stick was unanimously voted for his ax, which he had no sooner fitted to his purpose than he laid about him with such vigor that the forest quickly fell before his blows. If the companies have kindly furnished Mr. MILLER with a handle for his official ax, they at least should not grumble when one after the other they are compelled to fall before it.

But is it not about time that the public should know whether Mr. MILLER is guilty of gross mismanagement and fraud, or whether he is a much maligned and abused official? It seems to us that if he is an honest man he needs no published certificate of honesty from the companies; certainly his predecessor received none, and since the famous Astor-Taylor testimonial the people have grown suspicious of whitewash. As the matter stands at present, we are not likely to get at the facts except through a legislative investigation, and as that body has been elected on a purely Reform platform, it has the prestige of being a new broom, and is expected to sweep clean. In the name of thousands of policy-holders throughout the Union, whose interests are always imperiled when the wicked hear rule, we appeal to that honorable body at Albany to look into the management of the Insurance Department. Let them ascertain by what right the fees of that Department are diverted from the State Treasury, where they legally belong. Let them discover how many retainers and hangers-on are fed by the unclean drippings of receivorships—let them bring to light some of the ways in examinations "that are dark," and explain why the expenses of the Department have so enormously increased without any corresponding benefits either to the insurers or the insured—and finally, let them give to a curious public the modus operandi by which one hundred and seventy companies in this City were coerced or deluded into signing a paper which many of them privately repudiate and abhor. It was well understood by the getters-up of that testimonial that it was to be used to stave off investigation in the Legislature, and other and more potent "arguments" were to be used if necessary. Are the Reform members willing to have their virtue a marketable commodity this Winter? Let them remember that others who have sailed after the "Golden Fleece" of insurance have come back shorn, and all Argonautic expeditions this season are destined to be failures.

The Legislature is sent to Albany this Winter armed with the highest power known to a republican form of Government. They are delegated to a special work, and the people expect them not so much to make new laws as to correct abuses under the old ones, and see to it that honesty and efficiency shall characterize the performance of official duty. If they fail to wrangling among themselves, and neglect these vital interests which they are set to conserve, they will be held to a stricter accountability than they imagine.

We were called malicious, vituperative, slanderous, when we called attention to the outrageous swindles of the Tammany Ring, and the tools of that hierarchy opened all the flood-gates of wrath against us—but we outlived that storm, and are still able to do battle with the satellites of that beneficent institution, whether on the Bench or in the Insurance Department. We are not frightened at the old war-cry which is sounded in our ears the moment we touch the festering sore of official corruption. We are ready to abide the issue, if the members of the Legislature do their duty, and we call upon them to be true to the pledges they made to their constituents when they were candidates for the seats they hold today. Let a special committee of investigation be called, or let the regular Insurance Committee of the House be empowered to act, with power to employ counsel and send for persons and papers.

Left-Handed Reform.

When M. DUMAS, who is still called "fils," astonished Paris last year with two moral and religious tracts, it was thought a very hopeful sign. A popular man, a clever man, and one who, apart from his own merits, has the ear of France by hereditary title—it promised well that M. DUMAS should admonish his countrymen, and tell them that the lesson of national affliction which only partly ended at Sedan was not to be altogether thrown away. That the author of the Dame aux Camelias should exhort Paris to abandon her darling sins, her frivolity, her caprice, her taste for luxurious vice, was anomalous perhaps; but for that very reason the more significant and auspicious. Just as a reformed rake is said to make the best husband, so a public instructor of M. DUMAS' antecedents has his own special value. M. DUMAS has been a successful writer for the stage, and when it was given out, a short time back, that he was engaged on a new play, strong hopes were excited that the reform so ably urged in the author's pious tracts would be exemplified in his drama. It so happened that there was grave need of this. The French theatre, so instant and delicate a reflex of French society, has lately shocked and disappointed all decent people. Not that it has been so much worse than ever before, but because it was thought that after the late dismal events it ought to be a little better. It appeared incredible that on the heels of expiatory misery, so largely due to certain distinct national faults, the stage, more potent in Paris than anywhere else, should be instantly used to perpetuate and blazon those faults. We looked with confidence to the French theatre for something chastened, if not austere; we found "Marcelline" and "Une Visite de Noces."

Here, of course, there was so much the greater need of a histrionic reformer. A really powerful drama, hitting straight at social follies and abuses, and written as well as DUMAS fils can write, would just now have done great good. The opportunity was, in truth, one of a life-time. How has it been used? We grieve to say, in a manner to excite disgust and regret. It appears that M. DUMAS' exemplary pamphlets were only a fresh kind of sensation. There had been profligate pamphlets, and blasphemous pamphlets, and military, financial and political pamphlets, without end; so, M. DUMAS thought a high moral pamphlet or two would take well, and at least must have the effect of novelty, and hence he astonished the mocking Boulevards with his sermons. The stroke was prosperous, and even as a matter of literary sagacity, we wonder he did not follow up the same policy in his new play. But the force of old associations has plainly been too much for him. If we may judge from the descriptions, "La Princesse Georges" is worse than either of the other gross dramas before named. Nearly every character in the piece is a liar, and most of them are worse. The only comparatively innocent person of the action, the heroine, is with characteristic tact made also the least interesting. So far as we can see from sketches of the plot, the only novel idea in the play is that of making the heroine passionately in love with her husband; and by making him a monster of profligacy, and his wife excessively miserable, the folly of her course is characteristically inculcated. But it is in the talk of the piece, rather than the action, that its main purpose is best effected. "No words," says a correspondent, "can adequately describe the delicate grossness of the conversation which is drawn from the lips of high-bred Parisian women as they sit in the drawing-room, after dinner, to await the coming of their husbands." The text glitters with epigram of the wittiest, but also of the most licentious description. Nor is the foulness of the language redeemed by the moral. The play ends with the killing of a comparatively innocent man, while the indirect cause of his death, who is a perfect demon of unscrupulous perfidy, escapes unhurt.

There is only one redeeming feature about the production of "La Princesse Georges," and this is that even the cynical Parisian critics are crying out against it. The play is sharply denounced by several of them, and one able writer, in particular, has so roffled M. DUMAS that he has published an indignant protest against his assailant. Among other things M. DUMAS says:

"You would not take your daughter to see my play; you are right. Let me say once for all that you must not take your daughter to the theatre. It is not merely the work that is immoral; it is the place. Whenever we paint men, there must be a grossness which cannot be placed before all eyes; and wherever the theatre is elevated and loyal, it can live only by using the colors of truth. * * * * The theatre being the picture or the satire of passions and social manners, it must ever be immoral, the passions and social manners being themselves immoral."

This is the old special plea, of course; and M. DUMAS only repeats what dozens who have written vile plays and dirty novels have urged before. But he does not say that the punishment of the innocent and the escape of the guilty, his own climax in "La Princesse Georges," is the necessary experience of real life, or that the shining poison that flows from the lips of his "well-bred" ladies, constitutes the sole conversational product of such Parisian women. These things he only implies, and it is in this kind of half statement that the weakness of such pleas as his always is found to lie. No doubt there are bad people in the world, and a play with many people in it can hardly depict the virtuous only; but the offense or the merit consists in the mode of treatment; and when vice is made alluring and prosperous, and goodness displeasing and wretched, the fact that this state of things really sometimes exists in the world does not exonerate the writer, or make us believe that fidelity to truth alone has inspired his pen, or justified his "situations."

MINOR TOPICS.

Seven members of the Reform Board of Aldermen are in favor of appointing Josiah SHANNON Clerk of the Board. Here is a jump of Tammany leaves with a vengeance. SHANNON's principal achievements in the past have been the getting up, at enormous cost, of Corporation Manuals, the profits on which certainly put a very respectable amount in somebody's pocket. What possible use this ex-satellite of Tammany can be in a Board elected in the interests of Reform it is exceedingly difficult to imagine. He might, to be sure, instruct them how to avoid the pitfalls of corruption into which their predecessors, doubtless unwittingly, fell. But then, he might also instruct them into the most profitable methods of forming Rings and manipulating public business to personal advantage generally. On the whole, we are inclined to think that Alderman FALCONER deserved well of his fellow-citizens when he declared, "If such a result takes place, I am willing to go to Albany to have the Board legislated out."

The Constitutional Amendment which the World has been advocating, making citizens of foreign birth eligible for the positions of President and Vice-President, made its appearance in the House of Representatives yesterday. It is one of the moves in that very obvious game which the Democrats are just now playing with a few malcontent Republicans as partners. It has never, so far as we know, been sustained by any argument except the shocking inconsistency of excluding CARL SCHURZ from a Democratic nomination. But whatever Mr. SCHURZ may think of the propriety of this measure, the American people have not yet acquired the habit of altering their Constitution to meet the aspirations of any one citizen, and we doubt if they will ever attain it, even when that citizen is as indispensable to the national existence as the Democrats seem to think SCHURZ is.

Gen. FRANK P. BLAIR, of Missouri, has come out very vigorously for the "position" policy on the part of the Democracy. He does not pretend that the Democrats have abandoned their views, and therefore should not enter the field. He does not claim that they at all agree with the so-called "liberal Republicans" on the vital question of the validity of the amendments. He only declares that the people won't give the Government to the Democrats, and the next best thing to do is to get it, if possible, into the hands of a faction which would be powerless without the Democrats, and with whom they would, therefore, have influence. The spectacle, from the point of view of the political moralist, is an edifying one, and must delight those stern reformers who don't think the Republican Party is virtuous enough for them.

Alderman COCHRANE would be a much more effective Reformer were he to devote a little attention to exactness of expression. There is no special objection to calling the Reform movement a "conflagration," if Gen. COCHRANE prefers that mode of expressing his ideas, but to say that the present Board of Aldermen were "the only material result" of this conflagration is questionable, both as to style and to fact. The people know for certain that their united action gave us a few honest Senators and Assemblymen, not to mention a Supreme Court Judge, a Register, and other County officers of equally unblemished reputation. The people, we have no doubt, feel an honest pride in the new Board of Aldermen as one of the "products" of the election, but they may, nevertheless, feel a natural desire to know what Gen. COCHRANE means by directing all their efforts to save "the grand superstructure of municipal government." Public opinion rather inclines to the removal of the present "superstructure," but then when a man indulges in figures of speech it is so difficult to find out what he wants to say.

Chicago papers still take a grim delight in showing alternately that no city ever suffered as Chicago has, and that no city shows suffering less. The last whim is an elaborate inventory of the New-Year's toilet of "Mrs. P. P., of Wabash-avenue," who seems to have received her friends in a manner entirely worthy of Miss McFlimsey. "All told," says a local Jenkins, "her diamond ornaments represented a cash value of about forty thousand dollars, and the cost of her dress was probably not far from two thousand dollars," and this he deems "a costume worth having." It may be worth having, but the pleasure of wearing it would be, we should say, considerably alloyed by the conspicuous description given of it in the newspapers. But Mrs. P. P. may be of a different mind.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Reopening of the Senate and House of Representatives.

The Income Tax — Senator Schurz Defends Himself—The Civil Service Rules—Miscellaneous News.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Congress reassembled today with a large list of absentees, and without much spirit manifest in either branch. In the House a great avalanche of bills was introduced, few of them bearing of any special importance. Nearly the whole day was spent in fruitless attempts to get the rules suspended for various purposes, which generally failed, as parties in the House are now so equally divided that it must be something of a decidedly non-partisan or meritorious character which can command a two-thirds vote. A proposition to send a committee to Louisiana to investigate the recent occurrences there was objected to and went over, and several other propositions which generally come to light on "Wash Monday," as it is called, suffered a like fate. The most important matter which came up in the House today was the resolution of Mr. KELLOGG, of Connecticut, for the repeal of the income tax, which came over from the last Monday before the recess. There was considerable sparring over its shape. Having been prepared in December, it instructed the Committee on Ways and Means to bring in a bill for the repeal of the tax next January. This would have postponed the matter a year, if interpreted literally, but Mr. DAWES indicated that the Committee would construe it according to its spirit, and he requested that a vote should be had, desiring to record himself in favor of it, which is a change from his position last year. The vote was taken, and the House refused to instruct the Committee by not only not two-thirds, but not even a majority, viz.: 70 to 81. The vote revealed over eighty members absent, the large majority being those from the Eastern and Middle States, who went home for the Holidays, and the most of whom are for the repeal of the tax. The question will come up again on the call of the States in a week or two, when it is believed that the vote will be much closer, and when a mere majority will be sufficient to carry it. In the meantime it is instructive to look at the vote. A majority of the Ways and Means present voted for the resolution, but BURCHARD, FINKELNBURG and KNOTT against it. The South and West and free-trade element almost unanimously opposed it. Many of these members are entirely indifferent to the repeal of the tax, but are determined there shall be no reduction of taxation that does not begin with the tariff. This is plainly the tactics which every honest effort at reduction will have to encounter this Winter. The States and districts which now pay no tax are determined to enforce it upon those that the unequal burden of the law will now fall upon.

ALIENS AND THE PRESIDENCY.

A constitutional amendment, providing that foreigners may become eligible to the office of President or Vice-President, was proposed in the House today by Gen. MORGAN, (Democrat,) of Ohio. It got the votes of a good many Democrats, some Republicans, and some demagogues on both sides, but failed of the requisite two-thirds, viz., 81 yeas to 65 nays. It is not positively known that it was in the interest of Senator SCHURZ, though that suspicion is entertained.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Civil service reform is engrossing the attention of members of Congress to a large degree, and many of them, as they look the workings of the system square in the face, do not hesitate to say that its difficulties seem to be insuperable, yet earnest efforts will be made to enact the system into a law at this session, though with what result cannot yet be judged. To this end Mr WILLARD, of Vermont, a member of the Civil Service Committee, today introduced a carefully-prepared bill, which enacts into law the rules and regulations prepared by the Commission. The various sections are mainly covered by the rules as already published save those which virtually fix a tenure of office during good behavior, and which, in addition to prohibiting political assessments, also prohibits any interference in elections by any office-holder. Those sections are as follows:

SEC. 14. That all persons now in the civil service, and all persons who may be appointed or employed in said service, except such as are now or may be appointed or employed for specified times, and such as are or may be appointed or employed for terms limited or declared by law, shall be held to be in the civil service during good behavior, and no person now in the civil service, or who shall hereafter be appointed or employed therein, shall, except as otherwise provided in this act, be removed for other than cause, for misconduct or unfaithfulness, or inefficiency in discharging the duties of the position occupied by such person, and all removals or dismissals of persons from the civil service for any cause during any year, shall, with the reasons therefor, be communicated to Congress by the President or the head of the Department in which the persons removed held positions, at the annual session in December of each year.

SEC. 15. That no person now in the civil service, or who may hereafter be in such service, shall take part in the business of any election, or attempt to influence the votes of others for or against persons to be elected to any position in State Governments or the Government of the United States, or attempt to influence the free exercise of the elective franchise on the part of any voter, and any person violating the provisions of this section shall, upon proof of such violation, be immediately dismissed from office.

Section 15 constitutes the Advisory Board, which is to be appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, the terms of the Secretary of State and Secretary of War to be five years each, and after that the term to be five years, at a salary of $6,000 per year; the Board to have a secretary at $2,000 and a messenger at $900 per year.

Mr. UPSON, of Ohio, during the session of the House today, offered an important resolution on this subject. It instructs the Committee on the Civil Service, in preparing their bill, to apportion the appointments in the several public Departments among the several States, and to provide that in examinations the preference be given to those who have rendered meritorious service to their country.

AMNESTY AND CIVIL RIGHTS.

Mr. SUMNER today presented numerous petitions from colored men in various parts of the country praying Congress to pass his Civil Rights bill. It is understood to-night that he has no idea of relinquishing the effort to secure the adoption of his bill as an amendment to the Amnesty bill, and as it seems entirely impossible that the Amnesty bill be amended could be passed, it is concluded by those who are the friends of Mr. SUMNER's measure that he only aims to destroy the granting of amnesty; that is, he would be willing to vote for amnesty to get his own measure through, but otherwise is determined against it.

A JUDGE IN CUSTODY.

Judge J. W. WRIGHT, of this city, was today arrested here in two criminal suits. One of the indictments charges conspiracy with one ALEXANDER CLAPPERTON to defraud the Government of the United States, and the other charges forgery of the name of JACK WATT. The statement of the case is briefly as follows: Some years ago WRIGHT became the attorney of the members of two Cherokee Indian regiments of soldiers to collect the bounty which was due some of them from the Government, he had the proper, or at any rate, a recognized power of attorney. In the case above cited, after the allowance of the bounty had been obtained from the proper authorities, a check was drawn in the usual way by the Paymaster upon the Assistant Treasurer at New-York for $100 in favor of JACK WATT. This Indian died before or soon after the check was drawn, or about that time, and WRIGHT is charged with having forged WATT's indorsement upon the check and put it into circulation in such a manner that it was not paid by the Treasurer, and the money or value of it was obtained by WRIGHT. The agency of CLAPPERTON, who was at the time Pension Agent at Fort Gibson, having received his appointment partially through the agency of WRIGHT, was, in this matter, to assist in concealing from the Department the fact that WATT was dead. CLAPPERTON was appointed by Ex-Secretary COX, and also summarily removed by him on evidence which excited distrust of his fidelity. The case of WATT is only one of many precisely alike in character. The law required that the checks should have been exchanged for other vouchers, put in favor of the heirs of each Indian dead, but this of course was prevented by the demand. The charge of forgery rests upon the basis of facts as the other. The indictments were sworn out in New-York, although the forged papers were issued here. A warrant was been issued for CLAPPERTON, who when last heard of was in the Indian country. WRIGHT, when arrested, gave bail in the sum of $5,000 in each case to appear in New-York. Further investigations are being had with a view to bringing criminal suits to recover several hundred thousand dollars of the public money which has been fraudulently taken by these people, and it seems and doubtful that $50,000 or upward will be recovered. The suits already brought are based on evidence but recently discovered while looking up a different branch of the case.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Monday, Jan. 8.

Mr. SCHURZ, of Missouri, rose to make a personal statement, and had read from the Clerk's desk an article making certain charges against him, first published, he said, in the NEW-YORK TIMES, and subsequently copied into many other papers. He said: Mr. President, I desire to make a few remarks upon this article. In the first place, because the paper which published it is reputed to be the special Metropolitan organ of the National Administration; and in the second place, because this attempt forms part of a systematic warfare which has been carried on for some time on some members of this body. The paper having recently announced that it is going to continue its attacks, I shall go over the charges one by one and exhibit them in their true light. First, it is asserted that in 1869 I was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor in Wisconsin, spurned the nomination contemptuously and refused to support the ticket nominated by the Convention. That I declined the nomination is true, although certainly by without contempt; but the other charge is a falsehood. I not only did not refuse to support the ticket nominated by the Republican Convention, but after having rendered some aid in a campaign in Minnesota, which placed my friend from that State, Mr. RAMSEY, to the Governorship in 1869, I returned to Wisconsin and spent three weeks in canvassing the State for the then nominee for Governor, the late Postmaster-General, Gov. RANDALL, having several joint debates with the Democratic candidate for the Governorship, and I wish to say in connection with this that another slander scattered abroad by the New-YORK TIMES and several other papers, that I had actively used my influence against the election of Mr. WASHBURN, the Republican candidate for Governor of Wisconsin last Fall, and in proportion of the defeat of his opponent, Mr. DODGE, is equally false in every sense.

The second charge is that in the national campaign of 1869 I refused to make any speeches unless I was paid $200 a week, and then an additional sum for the local committees, varying from $50 to $100 for each speech. This is a falsehood again. I commenced canvassing the United States in that campaign on the 1st of July, having already made several speeches previously, and continued till the day of election, the 4th of November, with the exception of about ten days, when I was utterly broken down by fatigue and had to take some rest. I spoke in the States of Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New-York, New-Jersey and Connecticut, traveled a great many thousand miles, and made, if I remember correctly, 100 and 104 speeches. Now, when I had returned from those labors I found that all the compensation I had received from committees fell quite perceptibly short of my actual expenses, railroad fare, and those incidental outlays connected with traveling of that nature. I, moreover, having given myself multiply up to the labors of the campaign, completely neglecting my private affairs, found myself surrounded by disagreeable embarrassments which resulted finally in painful sacrifices, and if I had received only one-fifth part of what the TIMES charges me with, it would have overcome those embarrassments with ease. I ought to say, however, and I refer to this because mention has been made of this subject in debate in the Senate, that as a prudent man, I sought to have done something like that which the TIMES charged upon me, although, of course, in a more moderate degree. I thought that it would be expected of me to go out at their own expense and make a speech now and then in promotion of a political cause; but when they are called upon to run from campaign into campaign year after year, for several months at a time, giving their entire time to public affairs, giving themselves wholly to the work, unless they are entirely independent in fortune they cannot afford to do so without reimbursement and compensation. I will say further that in a few subsequent campaigns, when lists of appointments evening weeks and months were sent to me, I did not feel at some moment so much in that respect, in a moderate way, however; while in other campaigns I neglected, even after my previous experience, to look after my private interests. Moved by curiosity after having read the TIMES article, I undertook to figure up the amount I received from the public speaking for the Republican cause since 1868, and I found it to be from seventy to seventy-two weeks, or about a year and five months, and adding up also all that I received from committees during that whole time, I find that the amounts in the aggregate to less than a popular lecturer will earn in two weeks. I mention this subject merely as a very humiliating one, because it shows the meanness of the warfare which is carried on against certain members of this body. It is a humiliating to make such a statement, but it is still more humiliating that such a paper, the organ of an administration which stands at the head of a party that has been built up in its power gradually and laboriously by just such labors as those in which I, with many others, was engaged, should make such explanations necessary.

The third charge is that when I returned from the Spanish Mission I asked from Mr. LINCOLN a Major-General's commission in the army, and threatened him if he would not give it. This is a falsehood again. I did not ask of him a Major-General's commission, when I resigned the Spanish Mission, but he offered me a Brigadier-General's commission, which I declined. In this article in quotation marks, that I threatened I would at once withdraw my 300,000 Germans and oppose the Administration, is so supremely ridiculous—it is so childish an absurdity—that I do not think it requires any serious comment. The next charge is that I, since my return, I assume at once the leadership of the extreme Radicals, myself a Radical of the most proscriptive type. This is a falsehood again, for it is well known that in the National Convention of 1868 I had the honor to introduce the resolution in favor of general amnesty. The next charge is that I took it upon myself to defame Mr. HENDERSON before the people of Missouri, and to destroy their confidence in him, so that I might be elected to the Senate. This is a falsehood again, and it is well known that Mr. HENDERSON's defeat at that time was owing to his attitude in the impeachment trial, as the public then stood. The next charge is that in 1868 I was a delegate to the Chicago Convention, and went there with revolutionary intent. What this means I do not know exactly; but one thing I do know, that every action in that Convention I was highly praised by the NEW-YORK TIMES. The next is, that in the early days of the President's term I was one of the most persistent heres in Washington for appointments in the civil service. If that were true, since the President must have had a particular liking for being bored, for I remember very well a time during the early days of the Administration when I met him outside of the White House, and he asked me very kindly why I did not come to visit him more frequently. It is further stated that in one case I advocated the cause of a citizen of Missouri for a prominent position, who was entirely incompetent and unfit to discharge the duties of a great position. I suppose this refers to the case of Gen. FISK, who having been a member of Congress, was first presented for the Post-office at St. Louis, then for the Pension Agency at St. Louis, by the delegation from Missouri, then nominated for the mission to Venezuela, and then nominated for the mission to Brazil, when the Senate declined to confirm his appointment. I did to a certain extent support Mr. FISK for some of those nominations. But it was the delegation from the State of Missouri with the exception of one or two members; being a young Senator I had indulged somewhat in the idea that it was to some extent proper to take care of constituents. When the TIMES says that this is one of the cases which in my eloquent lectures on civil service reform I might mention giving a detailed history of them, I beg to say that is just the time I have come; for when I do speak on civil service reform, I give as one illustration of the absurdities of the system, and of the curious consequences to which it may lead, the case of a gentleman who was proposed for a Postmaster, for a pension agency, for a Minister Resident's place, for a Minister Plenipotentiary's position, then landed in the Governorship of a Territory, and then was taken out of that to be put in the Minister Resident's place, for which he was originally nominated; and I always mention my personal acquaintance with the case, but wondering that recently Gen. FISK was appointed by the President for the position of Minister Resident in Venezuela—this time, certainly, without any suggestion or solicitation on my part—I may leave to say that if that gentleman be entirely unfit for public employment, as the TIMES asserts, it is the President who ought to hear that reproach, and not I; and I might suggest to the Administration that they be a little more careful in the selection of their organs, and instruct them to obtain from indirect statements. The last charge is that I "Gen. Grant proved upon the President the appointment of his brother-in-law, Mr. JUSSEN, of Chicago, as Collector of the Chicago district." This is a falsehood again. I never proved upon the President or anybody else that appointment, for my friends from Illinois who sit by my side (Mr. TRUMBULL) will recollect that, without my knowledge or anything else, he was appointed during my absence, and by the Representative of his district, Mr. JUDD. These gentlemen came to me with the request to write to the President and press his appointment. I did so, and when I met earlier congratulation on this part, I at last consented to indorse their paper, with an additional remark to this effect, that the large German Republican element of Chicago was entitled to consideration; that I had frequently been called upon to aid the Republicans there, and spoke earnestly for that fact. This was my whole connection with the case; and later, when a rumor spread through the newspapers that Col. JUSSEN was to be removed, the President expressed himself to a friend, in conversation, to the effect that he had never known that there existed any connection between Mr. JUSSEN and myself; but I asseverate that I never spoke to the President about this appointment, in a single instance, nor to the Secretary, nor to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and absolutely refrained from pushing it in any sense, just because Mr. JUSSEN, a very able gentleman, was a brother-in-law of mine.

I had almost forgotten one of the charges where I am again accused of having made use of my alleged influence with the German element to benefit myself by continuing in commission for a second term Mr. Commissioner SHANKS, had the curiosity to investigate that case, and I have now an official report from the War Department before me. The surrender of the rebel General, JOSEPH E. JOHNSON, took place on the 26th of April, 1865. I was then in Gen. SHERMAN's army in North Carolina. Immediately after that surrender had taken place I at once applied for a leave of absence to go to Washington for the purpose of offering my resignation, and I did so, and the official report certifies that the first two resignations of Major-Generals after Gen. JOHNSON's surrender were those of Major-Gen. FRANZ SIGEL, (accepted May 4, 1865,) and of Major-Gen. CARL SCHURZ, (May 6, 1865,) from which it appears that after the virtual close of the war, of all the Major-Generals in the army, Gen. SIGEL and myself were the very first to resign their commissions, instead of using their alleged influence with the German element to continue in the pay of the Government.

So much, Sir, for these charges, and yet will admit that this is perhaps one of the most remarkable cases of cumulative, intrepid and shameless lying that has disgraced American journalism for some time. Now, Sir, after these charges had been upon me, the TIMES itself states the reason. Because, it alleges, I have not hesitated to invent the most outrageous calumnies against President GRANT, having accused him by their association of keeping up the Civil Order system of New-York for his own profit. I commence this another falsehood. What do they call slandering the President? Let us see what I did say, and whether it can be construed as a slander. I did state that the General Order business in New-York was a great abuse and a source of slander. I was bound out in that statement by my official report of the Retrenchment Committee. Was that a slander on the President? I did state that the merchants of New-York had protested against it as an outrageous abuse, which is a matter of record also. Was that a slander against the President? I did state that the Secretary of the Treasury sent a commission to New-York to investigate the matter, and that that Commission reported against it, which is a matter of record again. Was that a slander against the President? I did state that the Retrenchment Committee had investigated the matter and found it to be a great abuse and reported in favor of its abolition, which is a matter of record again. Is that a slander upon the President? I did state further that the Secretary of the Treasury had written to the Collector of New-York two letters peremptorily commanding the abuse to be done away with. This is a matter of record again. Is that a slander upon the President? Then I drew a conclusion, and I ask whether there is any member of this body who will say that it was not a most natural, nay, a most imperative conclusion, that if in spite of the remonstrances of the merchants of New-York, in spite of the reports of the Investigating Committees, in spite of the letters and pronounced opinions of the Secretary of the Treasury, that abuse was still kept up, as it actually was kept up, then there must be a power behind them, then there must be a potent opinion and stronger than the Secretary of the Treasury himself to sustain it, for if that power was not stronger than a decent respect for public opinion the abuse would have succumbed to the remonstrances of the mercantile community of New-York, and to the opinion of not only the Secretary of the Treasury, the abuse would have succumbed to the adverse opinion of that official. I asked the question: "Who and where is that stronger power?" I asked the question—I did not answer it; and I respectfully submit that the government who pushes me in the pitiable business of vilifying the Senator from Illinois and myself for asking it, have not by their slanders furnished an answer to it that will be satisfactory to the country. I believe that when nothing else can be brought up against them, that to denounce the friends of the Government, than personal vilification, the country will understand the reason. Thus, Sir, I have shown you the character of the statements contained in the TIMES, and as to the character of those who have invented and propagated them, the Senate and an intelligent people have a fair form their judgment. I, however, will simply add that, after this, I shall not again consider it necessary to take any notice of such slanders. The TIMES and its coadjutors will have a free field, but if attacks should come as thick as locusts, they will not frighten me away. I shall go on, as I have done conscientiously believe to be the course of honor, truth, right and duty.

THE CUSTOMS SERVICE.

Mr. FENTON, of New-York, called up his bill, reported from the Financial Committee before the recess, to reorganize the Customs service, and addressed the Senate at length setting forth the existing abuses, and calling the attention of the Senate to the importance of the reforms proposed by the bill under consideration, and stating in six brief propositions its main features, he pointed out as the most noticeable feature of the present Customs system, the enormous emoluments of the Collectors, Naval Officers and Surveyors, and the peculiar and, as it seemed to him, pernicious practice by which they are obtained. Pertaining to the port of New-York, he said the officers named receive fixed salaries, and, in addition, are entitled to share in the penalties and forfeitures collected and in the fees collected in their several districts. From an incomplete report of the Secretary of the Treasury, it appears that the United States received from these sources between Jan. 1, 1869, and Nov. 30, 1870, at the ports of Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, New-Orleans and San Francisco, $1,000,000. In the year previous there was paid to Collectors, Naval Officers and Surveyors $605,427. The records of the Commissioner of Customs show that during the fourteen months, included between June 1, 1870, and July 31, 1871, the Collector at New-York collected in fines, penalties and forfeitures, $614,000, of which his share was $64,920. The appraised value of goods seized at the port of New-York alone during the years 1868, 1869 and 1870 was $600,246, and Mr. FENTON thought it must appear to others, as to himself, an interesting subject of inquiry how it was possible for the Collector of New-York to account for so large a sum as the amount realized on the sale of goods by Collectors, only about one-half of the appraised value of goods seized in New-York alone. So complicated, he said, is the pecuniary account of Government to receive from all the ports named,

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The auctioneers at the Exchange yesterday, Jan. 8, was largely attended. Business transacted of some importance, the following real estate being disposed of by JOSEPH McGUIRE: Four-story brick tenement-house and lot—latter 20 by 100ft—located on the north side of One Hundred and Sixteenth-street, 225 feet 6 inches west of Third-avenue; sold to Sol. Mason for $9,250; two lots together, forming a plot in size 50 by 76 by 51.1 by 65.5, located on the south side of Sixty-ninth-street, 200 feet west of Eighth-avenue; sold to R. Davies for $13,000. Sold the above sales were made under Supreme Court orders to foreclosure, GRANT NATHAN, Esq., referee in each. The legal sale of property (ten lots) on the Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, by the same auctioneer, adjourned for yesterday, was adjourned by the referee in the case until Monday of next week; and a similar sale, by JAMES M. MCKEON, of a house and lot on the north-west corner of Third-avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-second, was also adjourned until the 19th inst. Today, at the Exchange, the market will be quiet, as only one sale is advertised to occur, but to-morrow and for the balance of the week business will probably be active. At private sale, HATCH & VAN BUREN, No. 416 Sixth-avenue, report having recently sold the four-story and basement brownstone front house, lot 25 by 87.6, situated on No. 6 Park-avenue, between Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets, for $65,000.

RECENT IMPORTANT TRANSFERS AND LEASES.

The following lists of transfers and leases of New-York City property are compiled from the Real Estate Record of Saturday, Jan. 6, all transfers being noted where the value of the same is $25,000 or over:

TRANSFERS.
Bleecker-st., n. s., 42 ft. w. of Broadway, undiv. 28 11x100, h. and l., Christian Born to Michael W. Dorlan, Dec. 26	[illegible]
Broome-st., s. s., corner of Mercer-st., 25x36.6, h. and l., William A. Kember to John H. Ely, Jan. 2	130,000
Greenwich-st., s. s., 25.6 ft. w. of Bond-st., 24.6x94.2, h. and l., Leopold Bohm to Bernhard Kohn, Dec. 29	29,000
Hudson-st., s. s., 100 ft. e. of Spring-st., 22x100.3, and 1 lot, s. s., 100 ft. w. of 2d-av., 22x100.3, h. and l., William G. and Joseph M. McCord, Dec. 29, John T. Welch and Adam S. Cushman	[illegible]
Madison-st., No. 120, s. s., 25 ft. w. of Cherry-st., 25x100, h. and l., William Kelly to Patrick Dolan, Dec. 27	12,500
Nathaniel Jarvis, Jr., et al., Commissioners, to Augustus Ragsdale, Dec. 8, Rutgers Jay, Jr., to Theodore G. Tileston, Dec. 27	24,500
Richard M. Tweed to Alfred E. Stockwell, Dec. 29	21,000
Stevens to William Green, Dec. 29	26,000
Clark to Isabella, wife of A. J. Gelston, Dec. 27	36,000
Henry C. Ely, of Brooklyn, Dec. 30	21,000
Henry C. Ely, of Brooklyn, Dec. 30	21,000
Ann E. Henry

SHIPPING.

CUNARD LINE.
THE BRITISH AND NORTH AMERICAN ROYAL MAIL STEAM-SHIPS, BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND LIVERPOOL,
CALLING AT QUEENSTOWN.
FROM NEW-YORK.
ALGERIA.....Wednesday, Jan. 10, '72
RUSSIA.....Wednesday, Jan. 24, '72
JAVA.....Wednesday, Jan. 31, '72
CALEDONIA.....Wednesday, Feb. 7, '72
ABYSSINIA.....Wednesday, Feb. 14, '72
and every following WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY.
FROM BOSTON.
SAMARIA.....Saturday, Jan. 13, '72
HECLA.....Saturday, Jan. 20, '72
SIBERIA.....Saturday, Jan. 27, '72
ALEPPO.....Saturday, Feb. 10, '72
PARTHIA.....Saturday, Feb. 24, '72
and every following SATURDAY.
RATES OF PASSAGE.
Cabin, $80, $100 and $120, gold, according to accommodation.
Tickets to Paris, $15, gold, additional.
Return tickets on favorable terms.
Steerage.....$30, currency.
Steerage tickets to and from all Scottish, Continental and all parts of Europe at lowest rates.
Through Bills of Lading given for Boston, Glasgow, Havre, Antwerp, and other ports on the Continent, and for Mediterranean ports.
For freight and cabin passage apply at the Company's Office, No. 4 Bowling-green.
For steerage passage at No. 111 Broadway, Trinity Building.
CHAS. G. FRANCKLYN, Agent.

WHITE STAR LINE.
NEW-YORK, CORK AND LIVERPOOL.
NEW AND FULL-POWERED STEAM-SHIPS,
THE SIX LARGEST IN THE WORLD.
4,000 tons burden—1,000 horse power each.
Sailing from New-York on SATURDAYS, from Liverpool on THURSDAYS, calling at Cork Harbor each way.
ATLANTIC.....Jan. 20, 1 P.M.
From the White Star Dock, Pavonia Ferry, Jersey City. Passengers' accommodations (for all classes) unrivaled, combining SAFETY, SPEED AND COMFORT.
Saloon, state-rooms, smoking-room and bath-rooms in midship section, where least motion is felt. Surgeons and stewardesses accompany these steamers.
RATES—Saloon, $80 gold; steerage, $30, currency. Those wishing to send for friends from the Old country can now obtain steerage prepaid certificates, $31, currency.
Passengers booked to or from all parts of Australia, Paris, Hamburg, Norway, Sweden, India, Australia, China, &c.
Excursion tickets granted at lowest rates.
Drafts from $1 upward.
For inspection of plans and other information, apply at the Company's offices, No. 19 Broadway, New-York.
J. H. SPARKS, Agent.

ANCHOR LINE.

Steamers sail every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY, to and from
NEW-YORK AND GLASGOW
Calling at Londonderry to land Mails and Passengers.
Passengers booked and forwarded to and from all railway stations in Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, Norway, Sweden or Denmark and America as safely, speedily, comfortably and cheaply as by any other route of line.
THE NEW DEPARTURES.
FROM GLASGOW. FROM NEW-YORK.
Saturday, Dec. 23. BRITANNIA. Saturday, Jan. 13
Saturday, Dec. 30. ANGLIA. Saturday, Jan. 20
Saturday, Jan. 6. COLUMBIA. Saturday, Jan. 27
Saturday, Jan. 13. AUSTRALIA. Saturday, Feb. 3
And every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY thereafter from Pier 20 North River, New-York, at noon.
Rates of passage, payable in currency, to Liverpool, Glasgow or Derry:
First cabins, $65 and $75, according to location.
Cabin excursion tickets good for twelve months, securing best accommodations, $130.
Intermediate, $35; steerage, $28.
Certificates at lowest rates, can be bought here by those wishing to send for their friends.
Drafts issued, payable on presentation.
Apply at the Company's offices to
HENDERSON BROTHERS, No. 7 Bowling-green.

INMAN LINE FOR QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL.
Royal Mail Steamers are appointed to sail as follows:
CITY OF LONDON.....Saturday, Jan. 13, 4 A.M.
CITY OF ANTWERP.....Saturday, Jan. 20, 2 P.M.
CITY OF BROOKLYN.....Saturday, Jan. 27, 7 A.M.
CITY OF PARIS.....Saturday, Feb. 3, 12 M. and each succeeding SATURDAY and THURSDAY, from Pier No. 45 North River.
RATES OF PASSAGE.
Payable in Gold. Payable in Currency.
First cabin.....$75 Steerage.....$30
To London.....$80 To London.....$35
To Paris.....$90 To Paris.....$40
Passengers also forwarded to Havre, Hamburg, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, at reduced rates.
Tickets can be bought here as moderate rates by persons wishing to send for their friends.
For further information, apply at the Company's office.
JOHN G. DALE, Agent,
No. 15 Broadway, New-York.

FOR LIVERPOOL,
(VIA QUEENSTOWN.)
CARRYING THE UNITED STATES MAILS.
THE LIVERPOOL AND GREAT WESTERN STEAM COMPANY will dispatch one of their first-class full-power iron screw steam-ships from PIER NO. 46 NORTH RIVER, EVERY WEDNESDAY, as follows:
IDAHO, Capt. PECK.....Jan. 10, at 2½ P.M.
COLORADO, Capt. T. P. FREEMAN, Jan. 17, at 11½ A.M.
WISCONSIN, Capt. T. W. FRENCHAM, Jan. 24, at 8½ A.M.
NEVADA, Capt. FORSYTH.....Jan. 31, at 10½ A.M.
WYOMING, Capt. WHITEHEAD.....Feb. 7, at 2½ P.M.
MINNESOTA, Capt. MORGAN.....Feb. 14, at 10½ A.M.
Cabin passage, $80, gold.
Steerage passage, (Office No. 20 Broadway,) $30, currency.
For freight or cabin passage apply at
WILLIAMS & GUION, No. 52 Wall st.

ONLY DIRECT LINE TO FRANCE.
THE GENERAL TRANSATLANTIC COMPANY'S MAIL STEAM-SHIPS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND HAVRE, CALLING AT BREST.
The splendid vessels on this favorite route for the Continent will sail from Pier No. 50 North River, as follows:
WASHINGTON.....ROUSSAN.....Saturday, Jan. 13
VILLE DE PARIS.....GUESNOUT.....Saturday, Jan. 27
PEREIRE.....DANES.....Saturday, Feb. 10
ST. LAURENT.....LEMAIRE.....Saturday, Feb. 24
PRICE OF PASSAGE IN GOLD (including wine) TO BREST OR HAVRE.
First cabin.....$120 Second cabin.....$70
Excursion tickets at reduced rates.
These steamers do not carry steerage passengers.
American travelers going to or returning from the Continent of Europe, by taking the steamers of this line, avoid both transit by English railway and the discomforts of crossing the Channel, besides saving time, trouble and expense.
GEORGE MACKENZIE, Agent,
No. 58 Broadway.

NATIONAL LINE.

STEAM TO QUEENSTOWN AND LIVERPOOL,
From Pier No. 47 North River.
EGYPT, GRECIAN, Saturday, Jan. 13, at 7:30 A. M.
SPAIN, GRACE, Saturday, Jan. 20, at 12 M.
Passage to Liverpool, Queenstown, or London direct: Cabin, $75 and $60, (currency); steerage, $28 currency.
Prepaid steerage tickets from Liverpool, Queenstown, Londonderry, Glasgow or London, $25 currency.
For further particulars apply at the Company's offices, No. 69 Broadway.
F. W. J. HURST, Manager.

PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP COMPANY'S LINE TO CALIFORNIA, JAPAN AND CHINA,
VIA PANAMA,
CARRYING MAILS, PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT TO KINGSTON, JAMAICA, SANTA MARTHA AND GREYTOWN, AND PACIFIC COAST OF MEXICO, CENTRAL AMERICA, PERU AND CHILI.
Steamers leave 12th and 27th each month, except when these dates fall on Sunday, then the day previous.
Jan. 8.—Steamer OCEAN QUEEN, Capt. A. G. JONES, will leave Pier No. 42 North River, at 3 o'clock noon, for Aspinwall direct, and connecting at Panama with steamer MONTANA, Capt. ..., touching at Acapulco, Manzanillo and Mazatlan; also connecting for all Central American and South Pacific ports. Freight for last-named ports received until 4 P. M. of Jan. 5.
Steamer CHINA will leave San Francisco, Feb. 1, 1872, for Japan and China. For rates of passage, freight and all further information, apply at Company's office on Pier, foot of Canal-st.
F. R. BABY, Agent.
SPECIAL NOTICE TO SHIPPERS.
Steamer OCEAN QUEEN will be dispatched for Aspinwall on 8th inst, as an EXTRA Steamer.

FOR ST. THOMAS AND BRAZIL.
UNITED STATES AND BRAZIL STEAM-SHIP COMPANY.
REGULAR MAIL STEAMERS calling on the 2nd of every month.
MERRIMACK, Capt. WIER.....Jan. 22
ERIE, Capt. E. J. THELEPAGE.....Feb. 21
NORTH AMERICA, Capt. C. H. BLOGAM.....March 22
These splendid steamers sails to schedule time, and call at St. Thomas, Para, Pernambuco, Bahia and Rio de Janeiro, going and returning. For engagements of freight or passage apply to
WM. A. GARRISCH, Agent,
No. 5 Bowling-green, New-York.

UNITED STATES MAIL TO HAVANA.
ATLANTIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP COMPANY sailing regularly every THURSDAY, at 3 o'clock P. M., alternately, from Pier No. 4 North River.
COLUMBIA, Capt. E. VAN SICE, (via Nassau) Jan. 11.
MISSOURI, Capt. T. H. MORTON, Jan. 18.
MORRO CASTLE, Capt. R. ARRIS, (via Nassau) Jan. 25.
For freight or passage apply to
J. W. DIMOCK, President,
No. 5 Bowling-green.

DIRECT LINE TO HAVANA.
HAVANA, PROGRESO AND VERA CRUZ.
New-York and Havana Mail Steamship Line, leaving Pier 19 N. River, at 3 P. M. alternately as follows:
CLEOPATRA, Phillips, (Havana direct) Jan. 12
CITY OF MERIDA, Dakin, (via Progreso) Jan. 23
CLEOPATRA, Phillips, (Havana direct) Feb. 2
CITY OF MEXICO, Tummerman.....Monday, Feb. 12
For freight or passage apply to
F. ALEXANDER & SONS, No. 36 Broadway.

FOR NASSAU, N. P.,
CARRYING THE ROYAL MAILS.
Atlantic Mail Steam-ship Company's steamer COLUMBIA, Capt. E. VAN SICE, will sail on THURSDAY, Jan. 11, at 3 o'clock P. M., precisely, from Pier No. 4 North River.
For freight or passage apply to
J. W. DIMOCK, President,
No. 5 Bowling-green.

NOTICE TO TRAVELERS.
Families or gentlemen going to travel on the Continent of Europe, who can afford the expense of a courier, should never leave Paris without one. Their services are invaluable in relieving the traveler from all multiplicity of cares and troubles, respecting passports, examination and conveyance of baggage, in securing the best accommodation, in protecting the traveler from impositions, and, as an infinity of annoyance, to which they are exposed in various parts of the Continent. Competent and trustworthy couriers and traveling servants may always be obtained by applying to the COURIER SOCIETY, No. 3 Rue d'Alger, near the Tuileries Garden, Paris.

SHIPPING.

FOR SAVANNAH, GA., AND THE SOUTH AND SOUTH-WEST.
GREAT SOUTHERN FREIGHT AND PASSENGER LINE.
CENTRAL RAILROAD OF GEORGIA AND ATLANTIC AND GULF RAILROAD.
A LINE OF STEAMERS A WEEK.
TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS AND SATURDAYS.
THE STEAM-SHIPS
LEO, Capt. DEARBORN, TUESDAY, Jan. 9, from Pier No. 16 East River, at 3 P. M.
MURRAY, HIBBS & CO., Agents.
No. 41 and 43 Rivington-st.

GENERAL BARNES, Capt. MALLORY, THURSDAY, Jan. 11, from Pier No. 9 North River, at 3 P. M.
LIVINGSTON, FOX & CO., Agents,
No. 157 Wooster-st.

MAGNOLIA, Capt. PALMER, SATURDAY, Jan. 13, from Pier No. 6 North River, at 3 P. M.
WM. M. GARRISON, Agent,
No. 1 Bowling-green.

HUNTSVILLE, Capt. DROWELL, SATURDAY, Jan. 13, from Pier No. 12 North River, at 3 P. M.
R. LOWDEN, Agent,
No. 10 West-st.

Insurance by this line ONE-HALF PER CENT. Steerage passage, $15 currency.
Through rates and bills of lading in connection with the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad.
Through rates and bills of lading in connection with Central Railroad of Georgia, to points in Georgia.
C. D. OWENS, Agent A. G. & G. R. R., No. 20 Broadway.
GEORGE YONGE, Agent C. R. R., No. 20 Broadway.

ISLAND ROUTE TO FLORIDA.
TWO TRIPS A WEEK.
THE NEW AND ELEGANT STEAMER
LIZZIE BAKER
will leave Fulton-st. Wharf, EVERY MONDAY and THURSDAY MORNING, at 10 o'clock for BRUNSWICK AND St. MARYS, GA.,
FERNANDINA AND JACKSONVILLE, FLA.
connecting at Jacksonville with BROOK'S LINE OF STEAMERS for Green Cove, Tocoi, Palatka, Enterprise, Mellonville, and other landings on St. John's River.
RETURNING,
will leave Jacksonville TUESDAYS, and FRIDAYS at 3 o'clock, M., arriving in Savannah WEDNESDAYS and SATURDAYS. All intermediate landings touched at both ways, going and returning.
For through tickets apply to agents in New-York of the Savannah steam-ship lines.
JOHN F. ROBERTSON, Agent,
Savannah, Ga.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

WANTED—BY A YOUNG PROTESTANT woman, a situation as chamber-maid and seamstress; competent to teach; would read to an invalid lady, or would prove obliging; first-class references. Apply or address 148 East 26th-st., near 3d-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable young woman as first-class cook; thoroughly understands her business; no objections to assist in the washing; is willing and obliging; has first-class City references. Call at No. 216 East 126th-st., near 7th-av.

WANTED—BY A COMPETENT PROTESTant nurse, a situation; has the best of City references from her present employer; will take full charge of an infant or growing child. Apply at No. 119 West 34th-st., near Broadway.

WANTED—A COOK'S SITUATION, BY A respectable young woman; understands cooking, game, soups of all kinds, pastries, dressing jellies, excellent baker, &c.; good testimonials, country or City. Call at No. 125 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable woman, as first-class cook; understands all kinds of pastry and baking; is willing to assist in coarse washing and ironing; best City references from last place. Call at No. 347 West 41st-st.

WANTED—BY AN EXPERIENCED French maid, a situation as maid in a private family; thoroughly understands dress-making; good references from last place. Call at Mrs. E's, No. 163 East 18th-st., near 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable woman as cook; is an excellent bread and biscuit baker; has no objections to assist with washing and ironing; good City reference from her last place. Can be seen at No. 344 8th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A SCOTCH maid, or young woman, as seamstress and nurse to an infant; can bring it up from its birth; is a good sewer; no objection to the country; best of City reference. Apply at No. 125 West 27th-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable young girl to take care of children or as nurse; is willing and obliging; has the best of references. Call at No. 240 West 17th-st., between 7th and 8th-avs.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A STEAMstress to cut out by the month; understands dressmaking and family sewing, also Wheeler & Wilson's sewing machine; City references. Apply at No. 7 East 20th-st.

WANTED—BY A YOUNG WOMAN A SITUation as first-class cook; understands cooking in all the branches; is competent to taking the entire charge of a kitchen; three years' City references from last place. Call at No. 149 East 34th-st., first floor.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A COMPETent woman as first-class cook; understands meats, soups, game, and pastry; economical and neat in the kitchen; City references. Call at No. 328 West 27th-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A FIRST-class Protestant cook in a private family; understands her business in all its branches; will go a short distance in the country; best of references. Call for two days at No. 411 East 30th-st.

WANTED—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN, a situation as cook in a private family; will assist with the washing and ironing; has good City references. Can be seen for two days at No. 406 7th-av., between 30th and 37th-sts.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A FIRST-class English cook and baker in a private family, City or country; unexceptionable references. Call or address for two days, at former employer's, No. 134 Lexington-av., between 28th and 29th sts.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY AN ENGlish girl as competent chamber-maid and waiting-maid in a private family; unexceptionable references. Call or address for two days No. 251 8th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable young woman as first-class cook; thoroughly understands her business; no objections to assist in the washing; is willing and obliging; has first-class City references. Call at No. 212 West 18th-st., near 7th-av.

WANTED—BY A COMPETENT PROTESTant nurse, a situation; has the best of City references from her present employer; will take full charge of an infant or growing child. Apply at No. 119 West 34th-st., near Broadway.

WANTED—A COOK'S SITUATION, BY A respectable young woman; understands cooking meats, game, soups of all kinds, pastries, dressing jellies, excellent baker, &c.; good testimonials, country or City. Call at No. 125 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable woman, as first-class cook; understands all kinds of pastry and baking; is willing to assist in coarse washing and ironing; best City references from last place. Call at No. 347 West 41st-st.

WANTED—BY AN EXPERIENCED French maid, a situation as maid in a private family; thoroughly understands dress-making; good references from last place. Call at Mrs. E's, No. 163 East 18th-st., near 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable woman as cook; is an excellent bread and biscuit baker; has no objections to assist with washing and ironing; good City reference from her last place. Can be seen at No. 344 8th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A SCOTCH maid, or young woman, as seamstress and nurse to an infant; can bring it up from its birth; is a good sewer; no objection to the country; best of City reference. Apply at No. 125 West 27th-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable young girl to take care of children or as nurse; is willing and obliging; has the best of references. Call at No. 240 West 17th-st., between 7th and 8th-avs.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A STEAMstress to cut out by the month; understands dressmaking and family sewing, also Wheeler & Wilson's sewing machine; City references. Apply at No. 7 East 20th-st.

WANTED—BY A YOUNG WOMAN A SITUation as first-class cook; understands cooking in all the branches; is competent to taking the entire charge of a kitchen; three years' City references from last place. Call at No. 149 East 34th-st., first floor.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A COMPETent woman as first-class cook; understands meats, soups, game, and pastry; economical and neat in the kitchen; City references. Call at No. 328 West 27th-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A FIRST-class Protestant cook in a private family; understands her business in all its branches; will go a short distance in the country; best of references. Call for two days at No. 411 East 30th-st.

WANTED—BY A RESPECTABLE WOMAN, a situation as cook in a private family; will assist with the washing and ironing; has good City references. Can be seen for two days at No. 406 7th-av., between 30th and 37th-sts.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A FIRST-class English cook and baker in a private family, City or country; unexceptionable references. Call or address for two days, at former employer's, No. 134 Lexington-av., between 28th and 29th sts.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY AN ENGlish girl as competent chamber-maid and waiting-maid in a private family; unexceptionable references. Call or address for two days No. 251 8th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A RESPECTable young woman as first-class cook; thoroughly understands her business; no objections to assist in the washing; is willing and obliging; has first-class City references. Call at No. 212 West 18th-st., near 7th-av.

WANTED—BY A PROTESTANT YOUNG woman, a situation as chambermaid or group; good City references; can be seen at the private stable, No. 146 East 35th-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS COACHMAN by a man who thoroughly understands the care and management of horses, and is a careful driver; can furnish very satisfactory references as to capability. Call or address T. W., No. 50 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS COACHMAN or groom; is an intelligent, active man; not cumbersome; can furnish references as regards qualification and character. Can be seen at or address COACHMAN, private stable, No. 19 West 46th-st., for two days.

CLERKS AND SALESMEN.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS CLERK IN a wholesale or retail hardware store; has had several years' experience; is a good writer; can give good City references from last employer. Address HARDWARE, Box No. 196 Times Office.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—A MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN AS nurse; one who is thoroughly competent to take charge of an infant; a good home for a good person. No. 38 Madison-av., between 37th and 38th sts., Friday, Jan. 9, from 10 A. M. to 12 M.

$375 A MONTH. EXPENSES PAID.—Male or female agents—house and outfit furnished. Business new, circulars free. Address NOVELTY CO., Saco, Me.

WANTED—AT BEDELL'S, NO. 940 4TH-AV., a large number of good first-class servants, both Protestant and Catholic, to fill situations now vacant for both; City and country.

WANTED—A FIRST-CLASS NURSE AND seamstress; German preferred; call between 10 and 12 o'clock Tuesday and Wednesday at 205 5th-av.

WANTED—A DRESSMAKER OR MACHINist. Call at the COMBINATION, 48 Mercer-st.

INSTRUCTION.

Mount Washington
Collegiate Institute,
NO. 49 WASHINGTON-SQUARE (SOUTH).
DR. GEO. W. CLARKE, PRINCIPAL.
Prepares pupils of all ages for business or college.
ANTHON GRAMMAR SCHOOL,
NO. 22 MADISON-AV.
School hours, 9½ A. M. to 2½ P. M.
A CARD.—NEW PUPILS RECEIVED ON MONDAY, Jan. 8, at a reduction of one-half for instruction in penmanship and book-keeping; writing course, $5; book-keeping course, $20, including all books and stationery. GOLDSMITH'S COLLEGE, No. 20 West 14th-st.
DOLBEAR'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, NO. 575 BROADWAY.—Book-keeping, writing, arithmetic, &c., as used in the best business houses. Private rooms secured this month without extra charge.
DOLBEAR'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, NO. 575 BROADWAY.—A short course of high instruction and rapid improvement, worth more than years of dull plodding and no results.
DOLBEAR'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, NO. 575 BROADWAY.—Gentlemen qualified in 1871; all quick at figures, rapid business writers and good book-keepers. Call and see improvements.
NEW-YORK CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.—New classes for beginners, and classes for advanced and finishing pupils, now forming in all branches of Music and Modern Languages.
Also, PRIVATE LESSONS Day and Evening.
Application for admission must be made at the GENERAL CONSERVATORY OFFICES, No. 225 Broadway, Union Square, and Grand-Store. (The branch at No. 25 5th-av., has removed.)
The MOLLENHAUER CONSERVATORY, formerly in Gilsey House, has been incorporated in THE BROOKLYN BRANCH,
No. 102, 104 and 106 Court-st., near State.
JACKSON MILITARY INSTITUTE, Tarrytown, N. Y. Established 1857.
Address Rev. F. J. JACKSON, M. A., Principal.
ROCKLAND FEMALE INSTITUTE, HAVERSTRAW, N. Y.—The Fall term will commence Sept. 20. For circulars with full particulars address Rev. I. DELOS MANSFIELD, Principal.
MME. de SILVA AND MRS. ALEX. BRADFORD'S (late Mrs. Ogden, Hoffman) English and French boarding and day school for young ladies and children, No. 17 West 38th-st., New-York. Winter term commences Feb. 5.
HARVARD UNIVERSITY.—MR. WM. WOODBRIDGE, Jr., A.M., instructor in Harvard, takes a few pupils. Mr. Jr. Boat, 24th-st., refers to President Eliot, &c.
NEW-YORK SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL AND MILITARY ACADEMY, Peekskill on the Hudson. J. S. SEARLE, Graduate West Point, Principal.
DENNINGTON SEMINARY.—LONG ISLAND, for the high character and reasonable rates. Address T. HANLON, A.M., D.D., Dennington.
"THE BEST SCHOOL FOR EARNEST BOYS—Riverview Academy, Poughkeepsie, N.Y."

TEACHERS.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY, COMPEtent to teach music and drawing, wishes to find a place in a respectable family as governess of young children; is also a good seamstress. Address E. care of F. W. Christern, foreign Book-seller, No. 77 Chambers-st.
AN ENGLISHMAN, GRADUATE IN ARTS and Medicine, formerly Professor in two London Colleges, instructs in classics, mathematics, English literature, natural and mental sciences. Address DELTA, Box 207 East 26th-st.
EDUCATIONAL.—A YOUNG LADY wishes a position as governess in a gentleman's family to teach English, French, music and drawing; highest references as to capacity. Address S. C. C., Box No. 292 Post-office, New-York.
UNE PARISIENNE NE PARLANT PAS gnère mon ou deux enfants; elle ne saurait pas peut donner de bons renseignements de la ville. Endresser No. 420 Tuse-av., près de la Ste-rue.
A YOUNG LADY EDUCATED AT VASSAR College would like a few private pupils. Apply at G. P. Putnam's Sons, 524-st. and 5th-av.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FEMALES.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY AN EXPERIENCED nurse; is a good sewer; can bring up children; the best of City references for capability, honesty and activity. Can be seen at No. 204 West 34th-st., near 7th-av., over the teashop.

WANTED—BY A YOUNG WOMAN, A SITUation as chamber-maid and seamstress; can do plain sewing, and dress embroidery; good City references. Apply at 145 East 26th-st., near 3d-av.

WANTED—BY A PROTESTANT WOMAN, a situation as cook; understands her business thoroughly; has had references. Can be seen for two days at No. 128 West 30th-st., but one-flight, first floor.

LADY HOUSEKEEPER, OR COMPANION.—A young Protestant lady desires to give her services to a lady or gentleman; is willing for a salary, and a lady by birth and education; country preferred; unexceptionable references given and required. Address E. D. E., Box No. 4,128 Post-office, New-York.

WANTED—BY AN AMERICAN WIDOW lady of refinement and sensibility, a position as companion to a gentleman's family; unexceptionable references given and required. Address Mrs. E., Box No. 102 Times Office.

WANTED—BY A GOOD GERMAN WOMAN, a situation to do general house-work; is a plain cook, a good washer and ironer. Apply at No. 152 Norfolk-st., of M. Hilz.

MALES.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A PROTESTant German, as coachman; can keep good care of horses; has been used to all kinds of driving; City or country; good references as to character and sobriety. Call on or address his present employer, JOHN SEITZ, care of Mrs. Elliot Lloyd, Mount-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS COACHMAN and groom, by a single, respectable Protestant, married man, who understands his business thoroughly; will be found obliging and steady; first-class references. Address COACHMAN, care Mr. Campbell, No. 60 4th-av.

WANTED—A COACHMAN OR GROOM'S situation by an English Protestant young man; excellent groom; care of horses, harness, &c.; careful driver, or will do any work about the place; first-class testimonials; terms moderate; country or City. Apply at No. 325 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION BY A FIRST-class coachman; thoroughly understands his duties; is a competent groom; is a good, steady City driver; best City recommendation. Address L., at Brewster's carriage warerooms, East 24th-st., near Lexington-av.

WANTED—ANY GENTLEMAN IN WANT of a coachman, who can be highly recommended, can obtain one by addressing W. S., Up-town Advertisement Office, No. 241 West 125-st.

WANTED—BY A YOUNG MAN A SITUAtion as waiter in a private family; is thoroughly understands his business in all its branches; best of City references can be given. Apply at No. 205 4th-av.

WANTED—BY A SINGLE PROTESTANT man, a situation as waiter in a private family; has best City references and is highly recommended; no objections to the country; can come on trial for two days. W. B., No. 874 Broadway, 15th-st.

WANTED—BY A MAN AND WIFE A SITUation; wife as plain cook or chamber-maid and man as coachman or waiter, in a private family, in a City or country; recently arrived from London. Address A. P., No. 128 West 16th-st.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS FIRST-CLASS coachman and groom; thoroughly understands the care and management of horses, and is a careful driver; can furnish very satisfactory references as to capability. Call or address T. W., No. 50 4th-av.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS COACHMAN or groom; is an intelligent, active man; not cumbersome; can furnish references as regards qualification and character. Can be seen at or address COACHMAN, private stable, No. 19 West 46th-st., for two days.

CLERKS AND SALESMEN.

WANTED—A SITUATION AS CLERK IN a wholesale or retail hardware store; has had several years' experience; is a good writer; can give good City references from last employer. Address HARDWARE, Box No. 196 Times Office.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—A MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN AS nurse; one who is thoroughly competent to take charge of an infant; a good home for a good person. No. 38 Madison-av., between 37th and 38th sts., Friday, Jan. 9, from 10 A. M. to 12 M.

$375 A MONTH. EXPENSES PAID.—Male or female agents—house and outfit furnished. Business new, circulars free. Address NOVELTY CO., Saco, Me.

WANTED—AT BEDELL'S, NO. 940 4TH-AV., a large number of good first-class servants, both Protestant and Catholic, to fill situations now vacant for both; City and country.

WANTED—A FIRST-CLASS NURSE AND seamstress; German preferred; call between 10 and 12 o'clock Tuesday and Wednesday at 205 5th-av.

WANTED—A DRESSMAKER OR MACHINist. Call at the COMBINATION, 48 Mercer-st.

INSTRUCTION.

Mount Washington
Collegiate Institute,
NO. 49 WASHINGTON-SQUARE (SOUTH).
DR. GEO. W. CLARKE, PRINCIPAL.
Prepares pupils of all ages for business or college.
ANTHON GRAMMAR SCHOOL,
NO. 22 MADISON-AV.
School hours, 9½ A. M. to 2½ P. M.
A CARD.—NEW PUPILS RECEIVED ON MONDAY, Jan. 8, at a reduction of one-half for instruction in penmanship and book-keeping; writing course, $5; book-keeping course, $20, including all books and stationery. GOLDSMITH'S COLLEGE, No. 20 West 14th-st.
DOLBEAR'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, NO. 575 BROADWAY.—Book-keeping, writing, arithmetic, &c., as used in the best business houses. Private rooms secured this month without extra charge.
DOLBEAR'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, NO. 575 BROADWAY.—A short course of high instruction and rapid improvement, worth more than years of dull plodding and no results.
DOLBEAR'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, NO. 575 BROADWAY.—Gentlemen qualified in 1871; all quick at figures, rapid business writers and good book-keepers. Call and see improvements.
NEW-YORK CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.—New classes for beginners, and classes for advanced and finishing pupils, now forming in all branches of Music and Modern Languages.
Also, PRIVATE LESSONS Day and Evening.
Application for admission must be made at the GENERAL CONSERVATORY OFFICES, No. 225 Broadway, Union Square, and Grand-Store. (The branch at No. 25 5th-av., has removed.)
The MOLLENHAUER CONSERVATORY, formerly in Gilsey House, has been incorporated in THE BROOKLYN BRANCH,
No. 102, 104 and 106 Court-st., near State.
JACKSON MILITARY INSTITUTE, Tarrytown, N. Y. Established 1857.
Address Rev. F. J. JACKSON, M. A., Principal.
ROCKLAND FEMALE INSTITUTE, HAVERSTRAW, N. Y.—The Fall term will commence Sept. 20. For circulars with full particulars address Rev. I. DELOS MANSFIELD, Principal.
MME. de SILVA AND MRS. ALEX. BRADFORD'S (late Mrs. Ogden, Hoffman) English and French boarding and day school for young ladies and children, No. 17 West 38th-st., New-York. Winter term commences Feb. 5.
HARVARD UNIVERSITY.—MR. WM. WOODBRIDGE, Jr., A.M., instructor in Harvard, takes a few pupils. Mr. Jr. Boat, 24th-st., refers to President Eliot, &c.
NEW-YORK SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL AND MILITARY ACADEMY, Peekskill on the Hudson. J. S. SEARLE, Graduate West Point, Principal.
DENNINGTON SEMINARY.—LONG ISLAND, for the high character and reasonable rates. Address T. HANLON, A.M., D.D., Dennington.
"THE BEST SCHOOL FOR EARNEST BOYS—Riverview Academy, Poughkeepsie, N.Y."

TEACHERS.

A YOUNG GERMAN LADY, COMPEtent to teach music and drawing, wishes to find a place in a respectable family as governess of young children; is also a good seamstress. Address E. care of F. W. Christern, foreign Book-seller, No. 77 Chambers-st.
AN ENGLISHMAN, GRADUATE IN ARTS and Medicine, formerly Professor in two London Colleges, instructs in classics, mathematics, English literature, natural and mental sciences. Address DELTA, Box 207 East 26th-st.
EDUCATIONAL.—A YOUNG LADY wishes a position as governess in a gentleman's family to teach English, French, music and drawing; highest references as to capacity. Address S. C. C., Box No. 292 Post-office, New-York.
UNE PARISIENNE NE PARLANT PAS gnère mon ou deux enfants; elle ne saurait pas peut donner de bons renseignements de la ville. Endresser No. 420 Tuse-av., près de la Ste-rue.
A YOUNG LADY EDUCATED AT VASSAR College would like a few private pupils. Apply at G. P. Putnam & Sons, 524-st. and 5th-av.

HORSES AND CARRIAGES.

MERCHANT PORTLAND SLEIGHS.
By KIMBALL and other Brightness makers.
BOTTOMS, KIMBALL & BRAMAN,
No. 1,200 Broadway, near 29th-st.

HORSES AND CARRIAGE FOR SALE.—Bay mare, 7 years old, 15 hands, warranted sound; also a bay mare, 6 years old, 15 hands, warranted sound; sold no owner is going abroad. Apply at stable, No. 18 West 16th-st., or office, No. 7 Nassau-st., up-town, 3 to 5 P. M. Sunday, Jan. 7.

GREAT BARGAINS IN HORSES.—Brougham, hay and carriage robes, blown, city blankets, horse blankets, lanterns, carriage, and harness. 108 Chambers-st.

HORSE-BLANKETS, HORSES AND SLEIGH-BELLS, in large variety, at HERMES, HAYS & CO., No. 72 Bleecker-st.

SEAL-SKIN CAPS, $25; LADIES' AND Children's Furs and Clothing Robes to case prices. WEBBER, the Furrier, 5th-av. and 21st-st.

FINE DRY STORAGE FOR CARRIAGES of all descriptions, sleighs, &c., at No. 104 West 34th-st., near 6th-av.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

NO. 103 EAST 30TH-ST., BETWEEN PARK AND LEXINGTON-AVS.—Furnished rooms with or without board; a large parlor on first floor, suitable for any professional gentleman; also, large handsome rooms on second floor; rooms private with or without board; terms low.

HURON HOUSE, CORNER BROADWAY and 11th-st., Brooklyn, E. D.—Most desirable location in the City; rooms en suite, or single, with or without board; very favorable terms to permanent parties. Lodging $1 and upward.

NO. 25 LAFAYETTE-PLACE, COLUMBIA ROW, OPPOSITE ASTOR LIBRARY.—Furnished rooms for families and gentlemen, with or without board; table boards, or meals at any hour; changed.

BOARD FOR TWO SELECT GENTLEmen at $22, or a married couple at $30; elegantly and tastefully furnished front parlor, back room, full southern exposure, with abundant choice board. No. 229 West 12th-st.

TWENTY-SIXTH-ST., NO. 44 WEST.—Two large rooms, newly papered and painted, in a small New-England family, with good board; table, block from Madison-square; location good; terms moderate.

TENTH-ST., EAST, NO. 106—HANDsomely furnished rooms, suitable for families or parties of gentlemen; table first-class; house has all modern improvements; also, one single room; references given and required.

MARLBOROUGH HOUSE, NO. 706 4th-av. (Murray Hill).—This new and elegantly furnished house has a few suites and single rooms vacant, offering extra inducements for transient and permanent guests. W. J. PIRIE.

NO. 110 WAVERLEY-PLACE.—A PRIvate family will let large, elegantly furnished parlor and bedroom; also, large, third-story front room, to gentleman or gentlemen; with or without first-class board; references exchanged.

ST. CHARLES HOTEL, NO. 104 BROADway, corner Bleecker, European plan. Single rooms from $5 50 to $7 per week. All the Broadway stages pass this Hotel.

TWO LARGE HANDSOMELY-FURNISHed single rooms, with fire-place, for gentlemen (the heart); house and table first-class. No. 56 West 33d-st.

NO. 44 WEST 32D-ST.—TWO ELEGANT rooms on the first floor, suitable for a doctor's office; also, rooms, with board, on the second; location, house and table first-class.

FIFTH-AV.—WILL BE VACATED JAN. 5, A delightful suite of apartments, suitable for a large family, on the first floor of the spacious double house No. 48 5th-av.; private table only.

NO. 46 WEST 9TH-ST., BETWEEN 5TH AND 6TH AVS.—Furnished rooms to let, large and small, with or without board; terms moderate. References exchanged.

NO. 107 WEST 41ST-ST.—A PRIVATE family boarding house, will rent one or two nicely furnished rooms; all conveniences,

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

New Progress in Organization by the New Aldermen.

Short by Bad Luck the Aldermanic John Cochrane Chosen President of the Aldermen—A Tammany Candidate for the Clerkship.

The slayer of the Ring over whose broken bones masters are now cracked their whips are coming to grief soon and more every day. If the work of retrenchment and reform now going on in the Department of Finance much longer the hobgoblins of extent will disappear. Already Mr. VAN NORT, the Commissioner of Public Works, has thrown out a large number of these people, and yesterday he continued the good work, making the total reduction in the expenses of the Department thus far amount to nearly $60,000 per annum. One of the results of the movement on the part of Mr. VAN NORT is seen in the bitterness manifested by the men who have been dismissed. But the work of retrenchment goes on, nevertheless, and promises to continue still more vigorously.

Yesterday was an exciting day in both the Boards of Aldermen. In the Aldermanic an unsuccessful effort was made to effect a permanent organization. The position was unusually boisterous, the few Tammanyites in the Board showing a determination to keep up their old style of doing things by creating confusion and continually making unnecessary motions and squabbling over parliamentary questions. Mr. C. C. PINCKNEY seemed to be the favorite of the Reform members for President, and several efforts of the Tammany men to substitute some other name for a candidate signally failed. The Board finally adjourned until this afternoon, when the contest will be renewed. In the Board of Aldermen, however, a permanent organization was effected. Alderman COCHRANE was elected President on the first ballot. An effort was made to elect a clerk, but after two ballotings the Board adjourned without making a choice. Three candidates were put in nomination. They were JOSEPH SHANNON, LEMUEL BANGS and MARK M. POMEROY. The nomination of SHANNON evoked a long discussion, and that of POMEROY drew forth laughter from both sides. Several times Alderman FALCONER bitterly opposed the election of Mr. SHANNON, who, he thought, had held office long enough under the "Ring." Mr. SHANNON's political record shows that he was a Councilman from the Fourth District for 1856 and 1857, Alderman from the Ninth District from 1864 to 1866, and Clerk of the Common Council from 1868 to June, 1870. This, it was claimed, was a record which proved that SHANNON had been favored quite enough by his political friends, and also that it was a matter of very bad grace for him to ask a place at the hands of a body elected to restore, as far as possible the work of the "Ring," instead of renominating a man who had been, during all his active political life, one of the champions and tools of Tammany. The Board being unable to elect a Clerk, adjourned to Thursday, when another effort will be made in that direction.

The alternative writs of prohibition issued to the Mayor forbidding him to recognize the old Boards of Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen, came up yesterday before Judge BARRETT in the Supreme Court. The writs were also directed to each of the old Aldermen and Assistants, enjoining them from acting any longer in an Aldermanic capacity. No person appeared for the respondents, and the writs were thereupon made absolute.

Many transfers of property in real estate have been made during the past few days by members of the late Tammany Ring. In these troublous times, when the prospect of an enforced retrocession is before their eyes, these gentlemen have found it necessary to put their ill-gotten wealth into safer hands than their own. On the last of real estate sales for last week, the following names appear: RICHARD M. TWEED, lot on Madison-avenue, $25,000; MARTIN SHEEHY, lot on James St. INGERSOLL, lot on Sixty-ninth-street and Madison-avenue, $21,000; on Sixty-seventh-street and Madison-avenue, $60,000; A. J. GARVEY, lots, on Fifth-avenue and Seventy-third-street, $145,000; JAMES H. INGERSOLL, two lots on Fourth-avenue, $30,000.

THE NEW BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

John Cochrane Chosen President—A Lively Contest for the Clerkship—A Resolution to Work Without Compensation.

The Board of Aldermen effected a permanent organization yesterday afternoon. It met at two o'clock, but long before that hour a crowd had assembled outside the Aldermanic Chamber, and impatiently awaited the opening of the doors. Among the gathering were many of the now discharged "emeeratists," who were happy to be long numbered with the army of office-holding leeches who were kept fat in purse by the late unlamented "Ring." As soon as the Aldermen had entered the room the importunate crowd knocked and clamored loudly, and not altogether politely, for admittance. A few moments before the beginning of the proceedings the doors were thrown open and every seat was at once occupied. The Board was called to order by Mr. S. B. H. VANCE, President pro tem., and when the Clerk called the roll, all the members, with the exception of Messrs. GILSEY, COMAN and PLUNKITT, answered to their names. The calling of the names of COMAN and PLUNKITT excited some surprise among the spectators, and a buzz went round the room. Some time ago they had been "I wonder what's up now?" After Alderman WILDER had presented a petition from the Journeymen Printers' Co-operative Association asking for that Association a share of the public printing, (which petition was appropriately referred,) it was moved by Alderman MERSHAON that the Board proceed to elect its permanent officers. This motion was carried and Aldermen MERSHAON and MARTIN were appointed tellers.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT.

No open nominations were made, and each Alderman, as his name was called, stepped forward and deposited his ballot. All present voted, with the exception of Alderman VAN SCHAICK, who declined to vote for reasons which he did not explain. On counting the ballots it was found that Alderman COCHRANE had received nine votes out of the eleven that were cast, while Alderman VAN SCHAICK and RADDE received one vote each. Eight votes being necessary to a choice, Mr. VANCE declared Alderman COCHRANE duly elected President of the Board. The announcement was received with no applause. Aldermen FALCONER and RADDE were appointed to conduct President COCHRANE to the chair, which duty having been performed, the President briefly addressed the Board. He returned his sincere thanks for the honor conferred upon him. He said that the present Board of Aldermen were the only material result of that great confagration of reform which had swept over this City in November. They alone were the product of the free action of the people of the City of New-York. They sat there in the capacity of men, as citizens, and as upholders of the law. The speaker referred to the honorable character of the office of Alderman. He said the legislator was at times the hero; it was he who intervened between the public enemy and the barriers of public safety. Whatever might be their action, the present Aldermen should direct all their efforts to save the grand superstructure of municipal government. President COCHRANE alluded to the great work of reform, as the result of the great struggle in November, and said that the eyes of the whole community would be upon them, the municipal legislators, whom the people had elected to act in that capacity. He concluded by congratulating the Board on its organization, and hoped that the Board proceed to business forthwith, and discharge their whole duty.

CHOOSING A CLERK.

At the conclusion of President COCHRANE's remarks Alderman JOYCE offered a resolution that the Board proceed to ballot for Clerk, a majority of the votes cast to elect.

Mr. VANCE—I think it requires a majority of the whole Board to elect a Clerk, and not a mere majority of the whole number of votes which may be cast when a full Board is not present.

President COCHRANE—The Chair is of the opinion that a majority of the votes cast is sufficient.

Mr. VANCE—I move an amendment to Alderman JOYCE's resolution, to the effect that a majority of the members of the Board be necessary to elect a Clerk.

Mr. WILDER—I think the Board can elect a Clerk by the majority of a quorum.

The President again expressed the opinion that a simple majority of the votes cast was sufficient, whereupon Mr. VAN SCHAICK raised the point of order that there should be a majority of the Board. The point of order was declined and not well taken, after which a vote was taken upon the amendment offered by Mr. VANCE, and the amendment was declared carried by a vote of 6 to 5.

At this point of the proceedings Messrs. COMAN and PLUNKITT entered the room. Alderman JOYCE moved a reconsideration of the vote, inasmuch as two members of the Board had come in while the vote was being taken.

Another vote was taken on Mr. VANCE's amendment, and it was lost, there being six yeas and eight nays, Messrs. COMAN and PLUNKITT voting with the latter. The result of this vote brought Mr. VANCE to his feet again. He said—I move to postpone the election of Clerk until the next regular meeting of the Board. I do it because some members have not fixed upon a candidate. I am sure, however, that it has been fixed by others. If that is so, I am not fixed, and I want to unfix it. It is a very important matter; the Clerk of the Board of Aldermen of a great City like New-York should be a gentleman of education, and if learned in the law even so much the better; he should be a man of letters and a ready writer. Unfortunately, we have had the most ordinary kind of men filling the position; and if this rule is going to continue, we ought to let the people know it. I shall certainly do all that I can to make it known.

The vote being taken on Mr. VANCE's resolution, it was carried.

Mr. FALCONER moved that the Board proceed to nominate candidates.

Mr. MERSHAON objecting, Mr. VAN SCHAICK wanted to know if the gentleman was ashamed of his candidate.

Mr. MERSHAON said he was not, but he thought that as no open nominations were made in the election for President, he did not see the necessity for making them in the present instance.

The Board then proceeded to nominate candidates. Mr. JOYCE nominated JOSEPH SHANNON.

Mr. MARTIN—As it seems to be the understanding that we should have a Democratic Clerk because we have got a Republican President, I will nominate a gentleman who is an honest and competent man. So far as the candidate named by Mr. JOYCE is concerned, I think he has been long in the City Hall. I don't intend for myself to have anything to do in the election of such a man. I am sure that if we elect such a man, we'll not exist as a Board of Aldermen for sixty days, and I propose to stay here my year out. I will nominate a man who has always fought the Tammany Ring, and I therefore nominate MARK M. ("Brick") POMEROY. (Laughter.)

Mr. FALCONER nominated SAMUEL BANGS, and in doing so, said: I don't want to stay here thirty or sixty days if Mr. JOYCE's candidate is elected; and if such a result takes place I am willing to go to Albany to have the Board legislated out.

Mr. MARTIN withdrew POMEROY's name in favor of Mr. BANGS.

The vote was then taken for Clerk. Fourteen votes were cast, as follows: SHANNON, 7; BANGS, 6; POMEROY, 1; BLANK, 1. There was no election, eight votes being necessary for a choice.

This was followed by some further discussion on several motions. Another ballot was then had, with the same result as the first.

Mr. JOYCE moved that the election of Clerk be postponed until the next regular meeting of the Board.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK objected. He said that he did not want to give them time to fix up their slate.

Mr. JOYCE's motion to postpone was adopted by a vote of 11 to 2.

RETRENCHMENT.

The following resolution was presented by Mr. VAN SCHAICK:

Whereas, This Board was elected by the people to reform the abuses existing in the City Government, now in order to show our willingness to contribute to such a result,

Resolved, That this Board will serve the City without compensation at any kind.

On motion of Mr. CONOVER, the resolution was referred to the Committee of Salaries and Office.

The Board then adjourned till Thursday next at 3 o'clock P. M.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen.

At 4 o'clock, a few minutes after the Board of Aldermen adjourned, the newly-elected Assistant Aldermen met in their Chamber, in the presence of a large audience, which filled the seats in the lobbies. The Chair was occupied by CHRISTIAN SWARTZ, President pro tem.

Immediately after the calling of the roll, Mr. GRACON moved that the Board adjourn, but this motion was lost.

Mr. KRAUS offered a resolution that CHAS. C. PINCKNEY be elected President of the Board; that ADAM ENGEL be chosen Sergeant-at-Arms, and that DANIEL CRONAN be appointed Doorkeeper to the Board.

An amendment was made by Mr. FOLEY to substitute the name of Assistant-Alderman O. T. HALL for that of Mr. PINCKNEY.

This motion was lost, and another to substitute the name of BRASTUS LITTLEFIELD, met with the same fate.

This was followed by much confusion, amid which a dozen motions were made and lost, points of order raised and ruled against, until the name of Mr. SWARTZ, the President pro tem., was moved by Mr. HEALY as a substitute for Mr. PINCKNEY's name. This motion was lost. Another effort was made to adjourn, but without success; and Mr. KRAUS moved the previous question, and called for the reading of the resolutions originally presented.

The Board refused to have the resolution taken up, whereupon Mr. GALVIN moved that Mr. KRAUS be substituted in the place of Mr. PINCKNEY. This was lost by a vote of 17 to 3. Mr. PINCKNEY then moved that the Board adjourn till 4 o'clock this afternoon, and the Board finally adjourned.

CONNOLLY'S DISAPPEARANCE.

The Runners Confirmed—His Friends Now Committed.

How insecure the Ring masters feel in regard to their liberty has been shown by the flight of a number of them; and now there appears to be no doubt that RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, as already stated in these columns, has really fled the City. Inquiry made of persons who are doubtless well informed relative to the whereabouts of the Ex-Controller, brought out the fact that CONNOLLY left this City on Friday last. Some of his friends deny that he has gone out of the country, while others are decidedly non-committal on the subject, and decline to talk about the matter. It is claimed by some of CONNOLLY's intimate acquaintances that he has quartered himself in a cosy spot within four hours' ride of New-York, and moreover, that he is ready to come to the City whenever called upon to do so. The place to which he has gone, however, his friends persistently refuse to disclose.

OUR DRUGGISTS.

The New Commissioners of Pharmacy—Their First Report—Appalling Ignorance of Druggists and Their Clerks.

The report of the Commissioners of Pharmacy, giving a résumé of their first six months' work, is now in the hands of the Mayor, and will be ready for publication in a day or two.

This report exhibits a state of such frightful ignorance of even the very rudiments of their business, on the part of very many of those who make up the prescriptions and compound the drugs with which invalids are dosed, as shows that the action of the Legislature was taken none too soon. Away in the perils of disease and the possible blunders of the physician in his diagnosis or prescriptions are superadded all the dangers arising from the criminal ignorance of nine out of ten of the men whose business it is to read the prescriptions and to prepare the remedies, the afflicted patient may well despair when he feels the hand of disease upon him.

Nearly a thousand applicants have been examined. Of this entire number, although 638 had, up to Dec. 31, received their licenses, not one in twenty had succeeded in passing their examinations in all the branches of the first trial. These 638 comprise both proprietors of drug-stores and their employes; and many men who have been in the business of selling and compounding drugs for years were found more deficient than their youngest clerks, who had, of course, the advantage of being fresher from their medical studies.

The most decided failures were in chemistry, toxicology, practical pharmacy, and in reading the prescriptions and directions of physicians, which are necessarily written in Latin.

When Dr. DORENUS found that nearly all the applicants were so sadly deficient in chemistry and toxicology, he offered tickets of admission free for his lectures in Bellevue College on those subjects to all druggists' clerks who chose to apply for them. Many are availing themselves of the offer, but very many say that their employers refuse to grant them the necessary time from their business, and that they can only attend the lectures by throwing up their situations, which few of them can afford to do. Hence these poor fellows must remain ignorant, and be refused their licenses on their final examinations, for when a poor drug-clerk is worked fourteen or more hours a day, besides having in most cases to attend night calls, he finds little leisure time to give to study and books at the store.

Perhaps the most lamentable break-downs of all were in the reading of easy test prescriptions and the directions accompanying them. In all European countries the youth who aspires to enter the business of selling drugs must not only be a graduate of a regular College of Pharmacy, where he is thoroughly grounded in the simpler Latin authors, but he must work under instruction for many years, not mixing and compounding medicines before he is allowed to assume the responsibility of making up a prescription. Mark the difference. Of about 720 applicants, many of them proprietors, and all of them claiming to be qualified clerks, barely three persons could read at sight the simplest school-boy Latin, such as VIRGIL and SALLUST. One most curious incident will serve to illustrate the profound ignorance that exists on this most important branch of pharmacy. A prescription calling for a certain quantity of compound tincture of gentian, and also a certain other proportion of infusion, "ejusdem," (of the same,) was given to an applicant to read. He puzzled over it for some time, and finally handed it back, with the remark that in no store where he had ever worked did they have "infusion of ejusdem," and in fact he had never seen nor heard of the drug before, and wanted to know what it was.

The next visitor also produced a profound impression of the mysterious formula, but in answer to a question as to what he would do if such a prescription came to him to make up, he replied, first of all he would look in the Dispensatory. "But, if it should not be the name of a medicine, but a word of direction?" queried the Professor. "Oh," replied the promising youth, with a smile of delight at his own ingenious cuteness in getting out of the difficulty, "in that case I would look for the word in the Dispensatory; I've got a Latin dictionary at home."

Though the exquisite obscurity of looking for the sensitive case in a dictionary which only gives nominatives will only be appreciated by those who remember at least the rudiments of their Latin, it will be quite apparent to any intelligent person that a clerk who could not read a prescription is not exactly a safe man to be intrusted with making it up. Most of the ingredients are, however, familiar with the Latin names of the medicines with which they have to deal, and, knowing of course the weights and measures, can manage to scrawl along until some careful physician writes an elaborate series of directions in Latin, when the poised and puzzled clerk has no cry for assistance.

Dr. GARNER says, however, that a prescription containing the before-mentioned "ejusdem" once started in a Broadway sub-division Grocery-store, and was passed along from store to store on both sides of Broadway, no one having any "ejusdem," until at last it reached HOGENSAUT, at the Everett House, where the substitute sent were rightly read by a man who had been twenty years in the business, and the medicine prepared, after having been rejected at eighteen drug-stores.

One young man being asked the color of red oxide of mercury, wisely answered that it was green. Another gave as the constituents of atmospheric air hydrogen and nitrogen, ignoring oxygen altogether.

The manner of the Commissioners to the examinees is most kind. There is no bullying, but the student is encouraged to remember all that he knows about a subject. Those who fail on their first examination are permitted to come again after studying up from one to three months, and some even have not succeeded in getting their licenses until after three, or even four, trials. And when it is remembered that probably only those who think they can pass the ordeal ever present themselves, while many others, knowing well their own hopeless deficiency, never come near the Commissioners, it will easily be seen that it was simple time the subject was taken up with the strong hand.

As soon as the time has expired which in the judgment of the Commissioners it was fair and right to allow in order to have the law thoroughly understood, and to give those already in the drug business ample time to appear and prove their qualifications, the harsher provisions of the act will be put in force, and any persons thereafter found mixing or dispensing drugs, without having obtained the proper license, will, in the interests of suffering humanity, be visited with the full penalty of the law.

Orthopædic Dispensary—Annual Report of the Trustees.

There was a large gathering yesterday afternoon in the Seventy-first Regiment armory, in celebration of the annual festival of the Orthopædic Dispensary, given by the trustees to the patients. About 200 of the recipients of this complimentary festival were present. JAMES BROWN (BROWN BROS., bankers,) called the meeting to order. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. WILLIAM ADAMS, Rev. J. T. MCCLAFLIN, M. D., Dr. E. CRUTTENDEN and others.

The Secretary read the annual report, from which it appears that at the commencement of the year 1871 there were 169 patients under treatment for diseases of the spine and hip joint; 142 were received during the year, making the total now under treatment (deducting 8 deaths and 4 cured and relieved) about 300. The expenditure for the year amounted to close on $12,000. Officers and trustees for the ensuing year were elected, and the meeting adjourned.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Condition of the Vessels at the Navy-Yard.

In view of the probability that all the available naval force at the various Yards may soon be called into action, it will be interesting to the public to know the exact condition of the ships now lying at the Brooklyn Navy-yard. There is at present a force of about 1,200 men on the pay-roll, which can be increased in case of emergency to more than four times that number.

The steam-frigate Congress sailed on Saturday from the yard and proceeded to sea, after taking her powder on board at Ellis' Island.

The Canandaigua, steam sloop-of-war, is in dock awaiting her propeller, and can be made ready in about five days. She carries ten guns of heavy calibre.

The sloop-of-war Portsmouth is under repairs and practically dismantled, and cannot be got ready under forty days. As she is a sailing vessel, she would be of little use in an emergency.

The Hartford, Admiral FARRAGUT's old flagship, which carried him through the storm of shot and shell at Mobile Bay, could be got ready in about sixty days. She carries twenty-four guns.

The monitor Roanoke, three turrets, is considered as always ready for service, being designated for harbor and coast defense. She could be put in commission in a few hours, and would make a formidable appearance in an enemy's waters. The Roanoke, it will be remembered, was sunk by the Merrimac in Hampton Roads, during the war of the rebellion, and was subsequently raised, raced and plated. She now carries six fifteen-inch guns.

The steam-frigate New-York is on the stocks at the yard, and nearly ready for launching. In about four months, with the present force of the station, she could be fitted out.

There is also on the stocks the first-class monitor Colossus, which will have two turrets, and will carry the heaviest armor and 20-inch guns—never floated. She is nearly ready for launching, and in case of an emergency could be got ready in about sixty days.

The steam-frigate New-York is in frame in one of the ship-houses, and the keel-blocks have been laid for a new iron torpedo-boat 180 feet long.

The monitor Dictator is at New-London, and can be prepared for sea in about ten days. She has two turrets, and carries four 15-inch guns.

It will be seen, therefore, that there are immediately available the Canandaigua, Roanoke and Dictator, all of which are formidable vessels.

The Citizens' Reform Committee—Another Evening Spent in Reconsidering the Charter.

The regular meeting of the Citizens' Reform Committee was held last evening, at No. 128 Montague-street. That section of the proposed charter relating to the Board of Education—which provides that after the year 1876 the Board shall be reduced to one member from each district, to be appointed by the Mayor—was tabled for the present. The section providing for a department corresponding to that of the Charities and Correction was, after some debate, stricken out.

Mr. SAMUEL MOLSAN offered the following:

Resolved, That our Senators and members of Assembly be strictly tied down by their constituents to obtain such legislation during the present session of the Legislature as will require the present State Board of Assessors to make an equitable and uniform valuation of all taxable property throughout the State; and that, in the judgment of this Committee, such valuation ought to be 1/4 full marketable value determined either by sales of the property or by such other rule as will insure the time of valuation, or of such contiguous property as will enable them to form an accurate judgment. That such valuation, when made, shall be submitted under oath to State Assessors.

The resolution was, after some debate, adopted.

The following resolution was then offered:

Resolved, That this Committee request the Senators and Members of Assembly representing the City of Brooklyn, to oppose and vote against all acts relating to the charter of Brooklyn, if it be necessary, to sustain all vetoes of the Executive of the State against such acts.

Mr. BARNES thought that this was transcending the authority delegated to the Committee by the citizens, and moved to table the resolution, which was carried.

Mr. BARNES then moved that that portion of the charter, as passed by the Commission, which empowers the Aldermen and Mayor to fix their own salaries, be reconsidered. The motion was adopted, and Mr. BARNES moved that the Mayor serve without compensation. Lost. Mr. BIGELOW then moved that the Aldermen serve without pay. He thought that the City never had a better Board of Aldermen than when they served without compensation. Mr. HUNTER regretted that the reconsideration had been had. He hoped that the charter had been disposed of, he was unwilling to recommitter every night this which was done the night before. Mr. GOODRICH remarked that the discussion on the charter must necessarily be closed on Monday night next, when the matter would be referred back to the Commission for final action. After considerable discussion the resolution was lost.

Mixed Nuts.

The Sabbath-school of the Graham-avenue Methodist Church repeat their anniversary exercises this evening.

JOHN W. KENNION delivered a lecture last evening, at Adelphi Academy on "The Classics and the Bible," under the auspices of Sparkling Water Division, No. 60, Sons of Temperance.

JOHN C. CASHOW has been appointed chief clerk in the Street Commissioner's office vice CHARLES E. WYLIE—elected Alderman—and JOHN H. NELSON has been appointed to the vacancy.

The following gentlemen have been elected directors of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company for the ensuing year: Seymour L. Husted, Francis Fares, Thomas Brooks, Alexander Studwell, Geo. N. Curtis, Charles C. Betts, Jeremiah Curtis, Thomas Sullivan, William Hunter, Jr., James How, Abraham B. Baylis, Henry C. Murphy and Cyrus P. Smith.

GENERAL NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

THE SPANISH QUESTION.

Representations made to Washington—The Virginius Case not at Stake—Spanish Statement.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The delicate stress in circulation to the effect that the Spanish Minister has demanded his passports, and that the President has made a vigorous demand on Spain in the case of the Florida, have not a particle of foundation. The data in the Spanish situation have all been promptly and accurately given in the TRIBUNE dispatches. So far as Minister ROMERO is concerned he has as yet neither demanded his passports nor received official notice of his recall. Should the latter may arrive at any moment. Into the Florida the Government is still wholly without information on which to act, and it certainly will act not until it has time to proceed upon. Although the Florida is now supposed to be at Charleston, not a word has been received from her Captain or her owner. The latter, when the false report came that she was captured and taken into Porto Rico, inflicted a long account of the particulars of the outrage upon the Department, but now he is as silent as the tomb. When the affidavits of her Captain and officers are received there will be no lack of celerity in demanding an apology, and, it having once been made in a similar case, there is reason to believe that it will be again. The language attributed to the President on this subject by a Philadelphia interviewer, is a fraudulent misrepresentation.

As yet, the Spanish-American Claims Commission have had filed before them but nine claims for damages growing out of the Cuban difficulties. This is surprisingly small, since there are over sixty on the files of the State Department, most of which have been made the subject of correspondence. Several months have now elapsed since they were notified to file proof, and yet but little is forthcoming. Some aver as a reason that in the present condition of affairs in Cuba it is impossible to obtain proofs, but there is a strong suspicion that in many cases the claimants will not be able to meet the evidence against their United States citizenship which Spain will probably present.

Spain Calling Off Her Dogs—The Merrimac No Longer Watched.

HAVANA, Jan. 8.—In view of the departure of the United States frigate Congress to escort the steamer Morro to the United States, the Spanish war-steamer Churruca has discontinued her watch of the latter vessel and has returned to Santiago de Cuba. The Spanish iron-clad Zaragoza returns to Havana. It is asserted that the Spanish war-steamer Pizarro, which is now watching the Virginius at Aspinwall, will also return to Havana at an early day.

MRS. WHARTON'S CASE.

Additional Medical Evidence in her Defense.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 8.—The trial of Mrs WHARTON was resumed at 10½ A. M., and the examination of Dr. HARVEY L. BYRD was continued. He reiterated his statement that Gen. KECHUM did not die from poison by tartar emetic, as the symptoms and characteristic lesions were wanting; he died from natural cause, probably from cerebro-spinal meningitis, as some characteristic symptoms of this disease were present. Witness, in cross-examination, said he had never seen a case of tartar emetic poisoning, his knowledge on the subject being derived from reading. The gelsemium and chloral administered by Dr. WILLIAMS was judicious. In two cases of sudden death from cerebro-spinal meningitis, a post mortem of the brain and spinal cord discovered no lesions whatever, while in two protracted cases lesions were present.

Dr. PETER GOODRICK testified as a medical expert, and gave the opinion that KECHUM did not die from poisoning by tartar emetic, or any poison known to witness.

Dr. JOHN R. MCGUIRE had no hesitation in saying that death was the result of purely natural causes; it was cerebro-spinal meningitis. While this witness was giving the reasons for his conclusions the Court adjourned until to-morrow.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Legislature—Preparations for the Opening.

TRENTON, Jan. 8.—Early today members of the Senate and Assembly commenced to crowd into this city from all parts of the State. The hotels are crowded with guests, and the business of the Winter is commenced. The Republicans held their caucus to-morrow morning. It is generally understood that Senator BURTIS will be nominated for President of the Senate, and Mr. BADGOCK for Clerk.

The Republicans being in a majority, a nomination is equivalent to an election. The Democratic members met to-night and nominated Senator EDSALL for President and D. J. BARNHART for Clerk. Mr. NATHANIEL NIXON, of Morris, and Mr. JOY, of Essex, are the principal candidates for Speaker of the House. Mr. PATTERSON, of Monmouth, has been nominated by the Democrats. The clerkship has not been decided, but it is probable that the officers of last year will be re-elected.

DEATH ON THE ERIE.

A Brakeman Horribly Mutilated—A Sad Fate.

HOWELLS, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Another fatal accident occurred on the Erie Railway at this place last night, the particulars of which are horrible. A young man named WESSEL BRONNEAD, belonging to one of the first families of Ulster County, recently engaged as a brakeman on the Erie Railway, owing to some domestic or financial difficulties. He had run but a few weeks. Last night, as the train on which he was employed was passing this place, young BRONNEAD, in response to the signal "down brakes," walked over one of the cars to the brake, and was getting down to turn it when a sudden jerk of the train threw him headlong between the cars. He fell with his head on one of the rails, and several cars passed over it. He was not missed for some time afterward, when a westward-bound train was notified to look out for SIGS. He was found at this place, horribly crushed and mangled, and was taken to Port Jervis, where he boarded. His friends in Ulster county were informed of his end fate, and he has since been taken to Highland Falls, where he resides.

OHIO.

Inauguration of Gov. Noyes at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 8.—The inauguration of Gov. E. S. NOYES took place this afternoon in the rotunda of the State House in the presence of the members of the General Assembly, State officers and a large number of citizens from various portions of the State. His inaugural address contains no allusions to matters outside of the State. After the inauguration, the Governor was escorted to the Executive Chamber, where a public reception was held. The General Assembly then proceeded to the Senate Chamber, where the oath of office was administered to Lieut.-Gov. JACOB MUELLER by Judge WELCH, who made a brief speech on taking the chair. The other State officers were also sworn. The reception to-night at the residence of Gov. HAYES was largely attended by the members of the General Assembly, State officers and prominent citizens.

VIRGINIA.

Investigating the Funding Legislation of the Last Session.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 8.—In the House, today, a resolution was adopted appointing a committee to investigate the charges of bribery and corruption in securing the passage of the Funding bill here during the last session of the Legislature. The resolution charges that the bill was passed through the House by a combination of speculating stock brokers of Richmond and New-York, an influential paid attorney, and unprincipled members.

The Joint Special Committee on the subject have organized, and are already at work on a bill to meet the emergency.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8—5 P. M.—The low barometer, which was central in Tennessee Sunday afternoon, has extended slowly northeastward to Virginia and Eastern New-York, where it has now almost entirely disappeared. Light rain and snow are now reported in Pennsylvania and Western New-York. The high barometer which was in Pennsylvania is now in Maine with clear weather in Northern New-England, where the temperature is slightly higher than on Sunday. Air area of high pressure has moved from Texas northeastward and light Northerly winds now prevail south and west of Arkansas. The pressure has fallen quite low with fresh southerly winds and rain at San Francisco. The rivers have fallen at Pittsburg and Nashville, and risen at Cairo and Memphis.

PROBABILITIES.

Northerly winds with partially cloudy and clear weather are probable for Tuesday in the Southern and Gulf States; rising barometer and clearing weather from Virginia to Maine; cloudy weather in New-England; the area of highest pressure move north-east in Pennsylvania; falling barometer and southerly winds prevail from the upper lakes to the Mississippi Valley, and threatening weather with rain extend eastward into Montana during Tuesday. Dangerous winds are not anticipated for the Atlantic and Gulf States to-night.

THE WEATHER IN THIS CITY.

The early morning of yesterday was bitterly cold. The weather began to moderate about sunrise, yet even at noon, or up to a late hour of the evening, the freezing point had not been reached. The following table shows the elevation of the barometer and the indications of the thermometer: 4 A. M., 18°; 10 A. M., 20°; 2 P. M., 29°; 9½ P. M., 26°. Barometer, 30.40, 30.34, 30.31, 30.37. Corresponding date last year: 16°, 20°, 20°, 20°.

The Fourth-Avenue Track—Meeting of the Citizens' Committee.

The Committee appointed by the Citizens' mass-meeting held last Friday evening, to confer with Commodore VANDERBILT upon the sinking of the Fourth-avenue track, held their first meeting last evening at East-side Association Hall, WHEELER H. PECKHAM presiding. Judge W. R. BREWER stated that several members of the Committee had called upon Commodore VANDERBILT in relation to the matter, and had found him inclined to consider the subject in the most liberal manner. He said that Commodore VANDERBILT had suggested that the Citizens' Committee should select a gentleman who should be in no way connected personally or interested in the matter, and one whom they could trust. He would also select one possessed of like qualifications; these two in turn should choose a third; the whole to form a board of engineers, who should decide what was the most feasible plan to be adopted for the relief sought for. Judge BREWER moved that a subcommittee be appointed to wait upon Commodore VANDERBILT and ascertain his views; the Committee to consist of one member from each association, and the President and Secretary of the general meeting.

Another gentleman suggested that before the Committee wait upon the Commodore they decide what was needed and what they wanted.

After some discussion, it was finally decided that the Committee should only ask the sinking of the track from Forty-second-street to Ninety-fourth-street. The Chair appointed the following gentlemen as the subcommittee: Wheeler H. Peckham, Hooper C. Van Voorst, Charles Crary, John McCool, Wm. H. Colwell, Benjamin A. Willis, William R. Martin, Adolph Kessler, J. O. Alsten, Asher Barnett.

After the transaction of some unimportant business, the meeting adjourned.

The New-City Chamberlain.

Mr. FRANCIS A. PALMER, yesterday, placed in the hands of the Mayor his resignation as School Commissioner. In taking formal possession of the Chamberlain's office he did nothing beyond making a cursory examination of the books; and subsequently visiting the Park Bank, he took possession of the bonds in the City Treasury safe. Mr. PALMER's bondsmen have justified in the sum of $400,000—double the amount of his bond as Chamberlain of the City. Report matures for F. P. SCHMITT and MATTHEW KANE. Mr. PALMER states that he will make a thorough examination of the books of the office, and present a balance sheet at the earliest possible moment. His business office will probably be at the Broadway Bank, of which he is President. The Chamberlain's office will not be removed from its present quarters.

Removals in the Department of Public Works.

Mr. VAN NORT, President of the Board of Public Works, made the following removals yesterday in his Department: Deputy Superintendent of Repairs, Wm. H. COON, salary, $4,000 per annum; Clerk to Deputy Superintendent, salary, $1,800; four inspectors of sewers at $6 per day; two messengers at $1,200 per year, making with previous removals, a total saving to the Department of $164,000 per annum.

Murder in Sussex County, New-Jersey.

A dispatch was received in Jersey City last evening which stated that Mr. DAVID EVERNAM, a well-known gentleman, residing in Sussex County, had been murdered on Friday night. Mr. EVERNAM lived near Hamburg, a village some distance from Newton, on the line of the Morris and Essex Railroad. The body was found with marks upon it, which led to the belief that he had been murdered, and the authorities had taken the matter in hand, with the intention of holding an inquest.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

Gen. A. E. MARVIN, of Albany, is at the New-York Hotel.

E. D. WORCESTER, of Albany, is at the Hoffman House.

Gen. A. E. SHEPARD, of Washington, is at the Metropolitan Hotel.

F. F. DE SOLA and H. DE CLERMONT, of Paris, are at the Everett House.

Hon. RAMSON GARDNER, of Kalamazoo, Mich., is at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

The Liederkranz Society will celebrate, this evening, its twenty-fifth anniversary.

We are indebted to Captain TRAUTMANN, of the Hamburg steam-ship Silesia, for valued additions to our foreign files.

Judge BLATCHFORD rendered a decision, yesterday, refusing to discharge EDWARD GARRISON from bankruptcy.

Major T. J. ECKERSON, of the United States Army, and Col. D. M. BLAKELEY, of North Carolina, are at the Grand Central Hotel.

Hon. S. SHEW and Hon. W. G. FARGO, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Hon. E. S. BURROWS, of Albion, N. Y., are at the Astor House.

LEWIS SILVERSMITH, a stock broker, was held by Commissioner SHIELDS, yesterday, for passing a counterfeit $5 bill.

The calendar of civil jury causes will be called in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge SHIPMAN, on Monday next.

Company E of the Eleventh Regiment, N. G., Capt. JOHN GRAF, gave its ninth annual ball at the Harmonie Rooms last night.

Yesterday morning, Dr. LORD, of Stamford, Conn., delivered, at Association Hall, a lecture on the "Glories of the Old Civilization."

The steam-ship Weser is detained by the Health Officer at the upper Quarantine grounds with several cases of small-pox on board.

Troop B, Third Regiment Cavalry, N. G., Capt. JOHN CALL, gave its twenty-seventh annual ball, last night, at the National Assembly Rooms.

PATRICK MCHUGH, of No. 249 Bowery, was arrested yesterday and placed under $1,000 bail, by Justice BIXBY, to answer for receiving stolen property.

The flags on the public buildings in Wall-street and on the City Hall were flying yesterday in commemoration of the Battle of New-Orleans.

Capt. FRANK C. SPEIGHT, Third Precinct, was yesterday transferred to the Harbor Police-boat, and Acting Captain VAN DUSEN to the Third Precinct.

A gold watch was found yesterday in the letter-box at the corner of Third-avenue and Thirty-first-street, and handed to the Twenty-fifth Precinct Police.

A fire occurred yesterday morning in the building No. 221 West Twenty-third-street, belonging to the estate of JAMES FUSS, Jr. Damage $300; fully insured.

SARAH REHENHART, aged thirteen years, of No. 468 Pearl-street, while passing the new building, No. 269 William-street, had her skull fractured by a falling brick.

Mr. PAGE's third lecture on Art will be delivered this evening at the National Academy of Design. The subject will be composition, illustrated by photographic views.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at 1½ P. M. to-morrow, for the purpose of considering the report with regard to the shoping interests of this port.

At a meeting of the Lyceum of Natural History, last evening, an interesting paper on "The Periodic Variation of the Atomic Weights of the Elements" was read by the Secretary.

The annual elections for Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last evening, with the following result: J. P. Wyckoff, William P. Lee, John E. Bunting, J. V. Van Wagenen, Jr.

A meeting of the Sixteenth Assembly District Republican Association was held last evening at Demilt Hall. There was a large attendance of members. Mr. A. S. BUCHANAN presided. Nothing of importance transpired.

Ex-Mayor C. J. WELLS of Buffalo; Judges D. MCLEAN and STANLEY MATTHEWS, of Cincinnati; United States Senator Geo. EDMUNDS, and Ex-Congressman F. A. WOODBRIDGE, of Vermont, are at the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, BARTON E. BIGELOW, convicted of grand larce